Women Protest Campaign of Terror by IRA

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic women called a demonstration in Belfast today to protest the refusal of the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army to halt their campaign of violence.

The women scheduled their demonstration in the Andersonstown section, an IRA stronghold, after the leader of the underground army's Provisional wing, Sean MacStiofain, rejected their call for a truce in the war against British forces in Northern Ireland.

It was in Andersonstown that Martha Crawford, a 39-year-old mother of 10 children and a Catholic, was killed in the crossfire during a battle between British troops and IRA gunmen last week.

The demonstrations gave new evidence of growing Catholic opinion in favor of giving the British government's new peace initiatives a chance. These include suspension of the Protestant provincial government, direct rule from London and gradual release of IRA suspects interned without trial.

Radio Interview

William Cardinal Conway, the Catholic primate of Ireland, in an Easter radio interview threw his church's influence against IRA terrorism for the first time in the 32 months of civil strike. He sharply criticized the guerrilla chiefs' decision to continue the bombing and shooting and asked them: "What right have you to continue the campaign of violence against the unanimous voice of the Irish people?"

But MacStiofain told a rally in Londonderry that the guerrilla campaign would continue until British troops leave Northern Ireland.

"I hope to God that the nationally minded women of the North will stand behind their menfolk, behind the men behind the wire and the prison wall—and the men who are carrying on the fight," he said.

"Fight On"

Within hours, a bomb blast that injured six children and four adults at Magherafelt, near Londonderry, echoed MacStiofain's "fight on" pledge.

The explosion was outside a post office and the casualties were not hurt seriously.

The Londonderry rally was one of 21 marches or rallies held by Catholics on Easter Sunday in defiance of the government ban on such assemblies. All were peaceful, and security forces made no attempt to intervene.

The Protestants were expected in the streets today, with a big rally of the Orange Order scheduled at Carrickfergus.

The new British head of government for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, had hinted that if the Easter marches went off without violence, the ban on parades might be lifted

Carriers Sent Back to Tonkin To Aid Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The United States recalled two aircraft carriers to the Tonkin Gulf today to reinforce a massive air strike force preparing to hit back at an enemy offensive in South Vietnam's northernmost province.

"When the weather clears we're going to sock it to them," said one senior pilot.

The carrier Kitty Hawk arrived in waters off Vietnam today and the Constellation was steaming in from Japan to join the Coral Sea and the Hancock. The four carriers and their some 275 warplanes, combined with 250 Air Force jets at bases in South Vietnam and Thailand, will form the biggest U.S. attack force since the 1968 bombing halt.

The U.S. Command strongly indicated massive air strikes are planned against North Vietnam to retaliate for the enemy offensive across the demilitarized zone and against enemy troops and materiel already engaged south of the zone.

North Vietnam

U.S. pilots said targets inside North Vietnam would include long-range artillery guns bombarding South Vietnamese positions across the DMZ and a reserve infantry division poised just north of the zone.

Other key targets will include tanks, self-propelled artillery pieces and other heavy equipment that North Vietnam is using more than ever before in the Indochina war.

Forecasters said they did not expect fully clear skies until Tuesday or Wednesday. But the U.S. Command set the stage for the massive retaliatory attack with a statement that the North Vietnamese attack across the demiliarized zone threatened U.S. forces still in Vietnam, and the command was utilizing its "remaining air and gunfire assets as appropriate to protect our diminishing forces."

The North Vietnamese ground attack slowed down today, but the Communists pushed more heavy weapons across the demilitarized zone and U.S. fighter-bombers and destroyers pounded a column of 50 North Vietnamese tanks below the DMZ.

Below DMZ

The invading North Vietnamese pushed 10 miles below the DMZ over the weekend, driving the South Vietnamese from two more bases and shooting down three U.S. helicopters and a small spotter plane. Eight American helicopter crewmen were missing and believed dead.

Other Communist forces attacked Fire Base Anne, eight miles west of Quang Tri City; overran an artillery base on the Cambodian border, Fire Base Pace; and kept up artillery attacks in the central highlands. But the North Vietnamese withdrew from Pace, and the South Vietnamese reoccupied it today, the Saigon command said.

Official field reports said 50 enemy tanks accompanied by infantrymen were sighted at a road junction a mile and a half north of Dong Ha. U.S. Navy destroyers offshore and warplanes began attacking them, but results were not immediately known.

The same reports said that self-propelled guns were observed crossing the southern border of the DMZ.

The North Vietnamese also were reported moving antiaircraft missile launchers to the frontier to attack American and South Vietnamese planes below the DMZ.

Cloud Cover

A break in the heavy cloud cover allowed U.S. jets to make 128 strikes against enemy gun and troop positions below the buffer zone, the heaviest raids in South Vietnam since Feb. 18.

American jets also streaked into North Vietnam to blast antiaircraft missile sites five miles above the demilitarized zone, but it was not known what they hit.

Better weather was predicted Tuesday or Wednesday, and heavier American strikes into North Vietnam were expected after the clouds lifted.

The biggest Communist push since the 1968 Tet offensive is now in its fifth day. The South Vietnamese have retreated 10 miles back from the DMZ and abandoned a dozen bases. At least 5,000 South Vietnamese reinforcements were ordered to the northern front.

Scores of North Vietnamese tanks were reported to have crossed the frontier, but their advance was blocked by a blown-out bridge at Dong Ha, 10 miles below the DMZ. South Vietnamese pilots reported destroying 10 tanks Sunday and another today.

Front Line

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from the northern front that the Dong Ha River in effect had become the new front line.

He said the bulk of the North Vietnamese troops were on the north side of the river with tanks and heavy artillery, while the south side was held by more than 1,000 South Vietnamese marines with 120 tanks. A South Vietnamese tank column that retreated Sunday reversed itself and moved north again.

Jensen said there had been no serious attempts by the North Vietnamese to cross the river so far. A few small units tried it Sunday night and took casualties.

While the line appeared to stabilize at Dong Ha, at least for the moment, other North Vietnamese troops moved east from the Laotian border toward Quang Tri City and maneuvered to the south of the provincial capital. They appeared to threaten Route 1, the main north-south highway leading to Hue and Phu Bai, 38 miles away.

Evolution of Foreign Policy To be Probed

Fulbright Feels War Could Have Been Avoided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee plans a three-day hearing in May on the evolution of U.S. foreign policy in Asia at the beginning of the Cold War.

Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the hearing will seek answers to questions raised by a six-month staff study of the Pentagon Papers, the once-secret Defense Department history of U.S.-Vietnam relations.

A second study report made public Sunday says there is no evidence that the late Ho Chi Minh ever received a reply to friendly letters he sent President Truman and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in 1945 and 1946 when he was seeking assistance for his campaign for Vietnamese independence.

The Truman administration operated on the assumption that to recognize Ho and his government in Vietnam might irritate the French, the report said

Communist Agent

In early 1947, the report continued, Ho was viewed as a Communist agent of Russia and "an extension of Soviet foreign policy in Southeast Asia."

"But it was an assumption that lacked conclusive evidence, and the (State) Department continued to be interested in finding proof to buttress its belief for over two years," the report said

"We thus fashioned a foreign policy in Southeast Asia based on an assumption never proven, an assumption that has had a great deal to do with leading this country into a disaster in Vietnam that will continue to plague us for many years to come," Fulbright said in a statement.

The committee chairman said the staff study of the early Cold War years fortifies his belief that "the present conflict in Southeast Asia might have been avoided had the United States not disregarded Ho Chi Minh's friendly overtures to the United States during and immediately after World War II."

Ho later became president of North Vietnam.

Berrigan Jury Again Asks for Instructions

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Harrisburg Seven conspiracy jury asked again today that the judge reread his instructions on the law and give them more testimony of the government's key witness against antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and six other peace activists.

U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman said he would not read his two-hour charge nor provide transcripts of the testimony of paid FBI informer Boyd F. Douglas Jr. But Herman said he would "be happy to read any specific portions" of either his charge or the transcripts.

The jury on Sunday found Berrigan guilty of smuggling a letter out of a federal prison It reported being deadlocked on nine other counts but was ordered by the judge to resume deliberations today because of what he said was the importance and cost of the 11-week trial. He said he would dismiss the jury only if it became "hopelessly deadlocked."

The defense objected strenuously to what they called "prejudice" in the manner in which the jury's latest request came.

Return to Court

Herman acknowledged that when the jury was brought back into the federal building this morning he had directed the U.S. marshals to inform the of nine women and three men that he would bring them into the courtroom after assembling opposing lawyers and the seven defendants.

Defense attorney Leonard Boudin objected that Herman used a marshal as his emissary in a verbal communication and insisted that in the future any instructions from the judge "be given in our presence."

Among the counts unresolved is the key conspiracy charge that includes the plot to kidnap White House aide Henry A. Kissinger, blow up the steam heating system in Washington, D.C., and vandalize draft board offices in nine states.

The jury last week, at the start of the deliberations which now are in the fifth day, requested and received four days of Douglas' 14-day testimony. They have not been given the other 20 volumes which cover approximately 6,000 pages of testimony.

The panel found Berrigan guilty Sunday afternoon of smuggling a letter out of prison, for which he could get up to 10 years in jail. The decision was announced after 33 hours of deliberation over four days.

Herman rejected a defense motion of prejudice because of the split verdict at the same time he ordered the jury to continue deliberating.

Discrimination Matter Considered

Right of Fathers Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled, 5 to 2, that states may not automatically take away the children of unwed fathers.

Dealing with an appeal of a Chicago man, the court said a natural parent—male or female—should have a chance to prove his fitness.

"It may be, as the state insists, that most unmarried fathers are neglectful parents," said Justice Byron R. White, "... But all unmarried fathers are not in this category. Some are wholly suited to have custody of their children."

The father, Peter Stanley, lost his three children to the state of Illinois upon the death of the woman with whom he had been living, on and off, for 18 years.

Stanley appealed, claiming he had never been shown to be an unfit parent.

Justice White said the Illinois law violates the 14th Amendment because it discriminates against unwed fathers.

In Illinois, unwed mothers and married fathers—whether divorced, widowed or separated—are presumed fit to raise their children.

Denied Hearing

"We conclude that as a matter of due process of law, Stanley was entitled to a hearing on his fitness as a parent before his children were taken from him and that by denying him a hearing ... the state denied Stanley the equal protection of the law," White said in the majority opinion.

Most states are believed to impose similar barriers to unwed fathers—requiring them to prove their fitness if they want to retain their children.

In Illinois, these fathers, including Stanley, could try to adopt the children. But White said they are treated "not as a parent but as a stranger" during such proceedings

Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall joined with White to form the majority.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun dissented while the two other Nixon administration appointees, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, did not participate because they joined the court three months after the Stanley case was argued.

This was the fifth dissent by Burger in eight major cases over the last two weeks and the fourth dissent by Blackmun.

In all eight cases, the five non-Nixon appointees voted together with the sole exception of a dissent by White in one case two weeks ago.

Burger said the court was ruling for Stanley on a "due process" issue never raised in the Illinois courts.

S. Vietnamese Troops Doing 'Pretty Well' in U.S. View

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. defense officials say the South Vietnamese army is doing "pretty well" against the new North Vietnamese offensive, but that the main test is yet to come.

Military and civilian officials skirted any flat judgments on the basis of action so far, saying "the situation is fluid ... it's too early to call."

However, they disputed any suggestion that the South Vietnamese withdrawal from a string of fire-support bases and outposts below the demilitarized zone amounts to a serious setback. The officials said the outposts were not intended as a main line of resistance.

"There has been no rout," said one senior military officer who has been closely monitoring the situation.

Another top official acknowledged that withdrawal from one base had been "a little ragged," but said South Vietnamese troops pulled out of most forward positions in good order.

There was a cautious tone to the observations made on the basis of South Vietnamese performance in the first four days of the long-awaited enemy offensive.

The Nixon administration is aware that this offensive may show just how well the South Vietnamese army can stand up in battle against the North Vietnamese after years of training, preparation, re-equipping and support by the United States.

There are no U.S. ground-combat forces available to back up the South Vietnamese this time, and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has stressed that no U.S. ground troops will be reintroduced. Significant U.S. air power is available but bad weather has limited air operations.

American officials here estimated the North Vietnamese force in the new offensive at between 20,000 and 30,000 men, a somewhat lower figure than reported from the field

These officials anticipate the real crunch will come if and when the North Vietnamese run into the crack South Vietnamese 1st Division, now to the south of the main battle scene.

"If they start rolling over the 1st Division, then we've got a problem," a defense official said.

Some authorities said they were surprised at the intensity of the North Vietnamese push below the DMZ, even though intelligence reports for months had signaled a probable enemy drive.

They indicated they had expected any big offensive would strike first and hardest into the central highlands, where the South Vietnamese army units are not regarded as the best.

Sources said they still are expecting the North Vietnamese to launch a major move into the highlands.

Stranded in Philippines

Lindbergh Team Rescued

MANILA (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh and Philippine scientists stranded in the jungle with a colony of 20th century cave dwellers were evacuated Sunday by a U.S. Air Force helicopter.

Lindbergh, the American who made history 45 years ago with the first nonstop solo flight across the Atlantic, was smiling broadly after the unexpected end to the 11-day expedition.

"We were in no danger but we were stranded and running low on food. The Air Force did an excellent job," Lindbergh said after the 47 members of the expedition were flown to their base camp in the southern Philippines. Lindbergh returned to Clark Air Force Base to express his appreciation for the rescue.

The Air Force was called in after the expedition's helicopter broke down, stranding the scientists in the mountainous, damp Tasaday Forest about 600 miles south of Manila.

On March 23, the scientists found the Tasaday people, only 24 in number, at their cave 4,000 feet up in the mountains.

The expedition gathered data on the primitive cave dwellers and mapped their living and working area to protect it from future explorers of the surrounding forest. "Preparing to break camp Saturday, the scientists found their helicopter was out of commission. Food was running low and it would take eight to ten days to hike down to the base camp, some 50 miles away.

Manuel Elizalde Jr., the 36-year-old leader of the expedition, radioed for assistance, and it came Sunday, in the form of a big helicopter accompanied by a C130 tanker for refueling in the air

Lindbergh and Elizalde made a farewell visit to the cavemen, who regarded Elizalde as a god and had pleaded for him to stay with them. The Philippine scientist urged them to continue their own way of life in the forest and assured them he would return soon

Police Chief Cornelius Olsen declined to say whether any marks were found on the body or whether foul play was suspected.

Olsen said the boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vander Boom, was found about 5 p.m. Saturday and had been missing since 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Olson said he had taken statements from two boys, one a 17-year-old whom the chief said had been picked up on a drunk charge Saturday night and was released Sunday.

Series of Fancy Marks Made With Pencil Lead

BY CAPPY DICK

A section of pencil lead only about one half inch long can be a lot of fun to use if you follow these directions. You will be able to make a series of fancy marks that would be all but impossible to accomplish with a lead pencil except by very time-consuming methods.

Variety of Markings

All you have to do is place the piece of lead under your forefinger as in figure one, having it lay in the same direction as your finger. Then, while pressing the lead on the paper with your finger, slide it around wherever you wish on the paper. As you do so, the lead will leave marks that can be wide or narrow as you wish.

For example, it will be easy to make the diagonal up-and-down marks shown in figure two.

The script writing in figure three is equally easy to accomplish. Simply slide the lead to write your name.

The script effect in figure four is done the same way except the extra step of putting a border around the letters with your pen. For the best appearance press lightly on the pencil lead so your name is shown as very light gray. The ink outline then will be most contrasting.

You will be able to think up other marks to make. Experiment to see what you can accomplish.

Preserving State's Heritage

MADISON — They haven't found anything major for nearly a decade, but archaeologists from the Wisconsin State Historical Society are still poring over highway right-of-way plats, and walking proposed centerlines to make certain the state highway system doesn't obliterate any of Wisconsin's cultural history.

Since 1959, the division of highways and the state historical society have cooperated in a highway salvage program — with the historical society providing archaeologists, and the division providing funds for their explorations. In the 13-year period, the State Historical Society has discovered and excavated 18 locations in advance of construction.

The highway salvage agreement, like other environmental considerations, is an integral part of the design stage of a highway project. The division supplies right-of-way plats (engineering drawings of the proposed project superimposed on aerial photographs) which the archaeologists check against a card file of information on all known prehistoric or historic sites in the area.

Since the division has not, at this point, actually purchased the land for the highway, the archaeologists contact each individual land owner to get permission to walk the proposed route for a visual check.

Dr. Joan Freeman, curator of archaeology, and John Halsey, director of highway salvage, said they always make a point of asking farmers if they have ever found any arrowheads. "You'd be surprised how often they tell us that their father or grandfather used to find them, but they're all gone now," Dr. Freeman commented. "The reason farmers rarely find arrowheads today is that they ride a tractor now while their grandfathers walked behind a horse. A tractor seat is just too far away to see anything as small as an arrowhead."

In their search for Wisconsin's past, archaeologists are racing against time in many areas of the state where urbanization is most rapid. And they are frustrated by a chronic shortage of funds. The highway salvage program is the one area where funds are readily available.

Dr. Freeman said industry, agriculture and residential development have taken a toll in effigy mounds which once dotted Wisconsin by the thousands. The effigy mound builders and other prehistoric Indian tribes preferred high plateaus near rivers for their village sites, the same areas chosen by founders of villages and cities in the historic period.

Bit by bit, by adding the knowledge gained from patiently sifting the earth for tools, pottery and other cultural material, then evaluating it in terms of previous experience, the picture emerges of how prehistoric peoples coped with their environment.

Milestones in the highway salvage program were discoveries made in 1960 and 1962. In 1960, the historical society excavated sites along State 60 which was relocated along the Wisconsin River in Richland County. The two villages dated about 300 AD and a burial ground which dated back to about 2000BC.

In 1962, a survey engineer for Grant County highway department called attention to some artifacts and bone fragments that he had found on the ground where a county highway was to be relocated. Because federal funds were involved in the project, salvage costs were paid by the federal highway administration and Grant County. The Millville site included 14 houses patterns with 179 refuse pits which yielded valuable information about the Middle Woodland period of cultural development.

The Interstate program in Wisconsin also was "profitable" to the historical society, since most of it was on new location. Major finds were made along the Rock River in Rock County and the Silver Creek in Monroe County.

I. C. Herried, chief design engineer for the division, said contractors are in agreement to cooperate in the highway salvage program. In case anything is found by construction workers, contractors are ordered to cease work immediately until the historical society can investigate.

However, because of the meticulous inspection given by the archaeologists before construction begins, chances are remote that contractors will discover anything overlooked in the design development stage.

In addition to the archaeological salvage program, the division also evaluates proposed projects in early corridor stages for other possible historical impact. The historical impacts and other environmental considerations are coordinated through the publication of an environmental impact statement which precedes public hearings.

Police & Fire Beat

Two people were taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital with injuries sustained in a two-car, head-on collision about 5:50 p.m. Saturday in the 1600 block of E. Newberry St.

Barbara Nesbitt, 44, 1336 W. Marquette St., was treated for shock and Kathleen A. Moon, 21, 132 S. Joseph St., possible neck and head injuries when the autos they were riding in collided.

Miss Moon was a passenger in an auto driven by Gary R. McFarlan, 28, 1112 Desnoyer St., Kaukauna, when it apparently crossed the center line and collided with a car driven by Douglas J. Stoughton, 45, 209 S. State St.

Presente J. Morin Jr., 28, 526 N. Sampson St., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of head injuries about 1 a.m. Sunday after his auto struck a parked semi trailer when he failed to make the curve in the 1100 block of N. Rankin Street.

Earl A. Tomlinson, 31, Dayton, Ohio, sustained a ruptured spleen and bumps and bruises about 1:44 a.m. today, when his semi-trailer ran off the road on U. S. 41 near Outagamie County Trunk E.

Tomlinson was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

KAUKAUNA — Dennis Dakins, 24, route 4, Kaukauna, suffered a bump on his head when the car he was driving south on Lawe Street left the road and struck a fire hydrant and power pole about 1:36 a.m. Saturday.

Dakins told police that he was attempting to discard a cigarette when his vehicle struck a snow pile pulling it into the hydrant and pole. He was cited for inattentive driving.

KAUKAUNA — John Van De Loo, 18, route 2, Kaukauna, suffered a severe gash above the eye and was taken by City Ambulance to Kaukauna Community Hospital when the car in which he was a passenger hit a power pole on Draper Street about 2 a.m. Saturday.

According to police, Arthur M. Ebben, 19, route 1, Maloney Road, Kaukauna, was driving east on Draper when the car left the road and hit the pole. Ebben was not injured but was cited for inattentive driving.

Humphrey Takes His Campaign to Churches

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, after touching all the religious bases, scheduled a 20-hour windup today to his Wisconsin primary campaign.

Within a three-hour span Sunday, Humphrey showed up at one Lutheran church and two Greek Orthodox churches. He had attended Good Friday services at a Catholic church.

Completing the cycle Sunday night, Humphrey took a strong pro-Israel stance in a speech at the Milwaukee Jewish Community Center.

He called for a steady flow of economic and military aid to Israel and accused the State Department of leaning toward a pro-Arab stance in Middle East policy.

"I happen to believe we have no choice but to stay with a friend," Humphrey said, referring to Israel.

Humphrey called for U.S. recognition of Jerusalem as the capital of Israel and urged President Nixon to intercede with Russian leaders on behalf of Soviet Jewry when he visits Moscow.

"Any sign of weakness or ambivalance on the part of the United States only adds to the present instability in the Middle East," Humphrey said.

"A stop-and-go policy on the delivery of arms and other assistance creates uncertainty and anxiety in both Israel and the Arab states."

For his campaign windup, Humphrey scheduled more than a dozen encounters with voters from Milwaukee to LaCrosse, most of them the low-keyed press-the-flesh appearances that have characterized his campaign.

Humphrey insisted in a statement today that he has made tax reform "the number one issue in the Wisconsin campaign."

Although other observers have felt that the issue was raised first and with the most fervor by Gov. George Wallace, Humphrey said:

"I am pleased that in this campaign in Wisconsin, I have had some company. Other candidates have spoken of the need to give the little man a break in our tax system."

Humphrey claims that $16 billion a year could be pumped into tax relief by taxing the "super rich and special interests."

3 Killed in Atlantic City Shoot-Out

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two women and a man were killed and 11 persons wounded in a shootout at a crowded nightclub here early today. Police said it was the result of a war between rival drug rings in Philadelphia.

The shootout occurred before 2 a.m. at the Harlem Club, a cabaret on North Kentucky Avenue.

The dead were identified as Tyrone Palmer, 24, Rene Cuff, 24, and Pamela Pollard, 23, all of Philadelphia.

Public Safety Director Mario F. Floriani said the shooting stemmed from a feud that began last fall when one gang hijacked a $243,000 heroin shipment from another underworld gang. As a result of the hijacking, one gang member was killed in Philadelphia in February.

"As a result of that shooting, a contract was out on Palmer," Floriani said. "This shooting was planned some time ago. The women were just innocent bystanders."

Floriani said an alarm is out for two persons in the shooting. Three other men, including one caught by state police 60 miles away near Philadelphia, are being held as material witnesses, Floriani said.

Two of the injured were in critical condition at Atlantic City Hospital. They were identified as Gilbert Satterwhite, 25, of Philadelphia, and Ruth Jenkins, 25, of Willingboro, N.J.

Interview Given By Mrs. Beard

NEW YORK (AP) — Dita Beard, the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. lobbyist who collapsed a week ago while testifying before a Senate subcommittee, has left her hospital bed to give a television interview.

Mrs. Beard, 53, has been hospitalized in Denver with a heart ailment since March 3, shortly after columnist Jack Anderson printed a controversial memorandum attributed to her.

In the interview shown Sunday night on CBS's "60 Minutes," Mrs. Beard repeated her denial that she had written sections of the memo dealing with th government's settling of three antitrust cases against ITT.

The memo sparked a Senate subcommittee probe of a possible link between the out-of-court antitrust settlement and an ITT pledge of financial assistance to the GOP National Convention in San Diego.

Answer for Bunions: Bigger Shoes, Surgery

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a cure for bunions? I am having quite a bit of trouble with my feet now that I am in my 70s. — Mrs. C. L. R.

Yes, there's a cure for bunions. Surgery.

But in practice, the question usually is whether a cure is what a particular person wants, or whether tolerable comfort is a good enough compromise.

I've found that not too many people understand what a bunion really is. They have the impression that for some reason the large joint of the big toe has become swollen and they assume there must be some sort of cure that will take the swelling down.

Actually, although there is some swelling, that isn't what a bunion is all about. A bunion is a distortion of the joint. The big toe has been gradually forced sidewise, by years of wearing shoes that are usually too small, too pointed and too narrow.

It is no longer possible (except in very early cases) to do any correcting. Not only has the joint been forced into a different position, but the bursa, or sac at the end of the joint, has become inflamed. It swells in protest against the continued pressure.

In plain language, you have developed bursitis of the big toe. That's what a bunion is.

Most folks with bunions have spent anywhere from 15 to 50 years developing their bunions, and the joint is so distorted there's no reasonable chance of trying to maneuver it back into its original position. Neither is there any hope at all of applying medicine on the outside and expecting it to do any good.

One wonders why people will wear tight shoes long enough to cause such distortion. Why won't they change the type of shoe to one that gives the toes enough room? By the time the bunion has developed, it's too late. The damage has been done.

That leaves two possible courses. One is to change shoes to take the pressure off the painful big toe joint. Some people just cut a piece out of the shoe.

The only thing that approaches a real cure is surgery, to remove some of the distorted bone and rearrange the shape of the joint. But it's not a rapid process, and you have to do some hobbling while the foot heals.

And after that you have to wear shoes that don't crowd your foot or start the same sort of trouble all over again.

This may not be palatable advice for folks who are hoping a pill or an ointment or something will make everything all right again, or that there's some home remedy which will work, but it's better to look at the facts.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 15, started menstruating a while back. How long should she wait before trying tampons? — Mrs. S. T.

Thosteson

Now, or any time. Some girls can't use them because the opening in the hymen is not large enough. This varies a good deal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is emphysema related to tuberculosis? My husband had T. B. and now has emphysema (shortness of breath). — Mrs. B. B.

Tuberculosis, which is an infection, can and does cause some scarring of the lungs. The lungs lose something of their efficiency. This can contribute to emphysema.

It isn't the whole story of emphysema. Emphysema can and often does develop with no prior history of T. B. But damage from T. B. can add to the other causes of emphysema.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Your Problems

Best Selling Item: A Doll That Screams

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've never written to you before but I've got to check with somebody to make sure I'm sane. If I'm in my right mind, a lot of people in this world are crazy.

Recently, I attended a rock concert. I didn't know such madness existed until that night. A guy gets up in girl's clothes, eye makeup galore and a ton of jewelry. He does a number where he chops off a doll's head and sings a song called "Dead Babies." At the end of his act he hangs himself.

That creepy show was a sellout. Twenty-thousand people screamed their heads off and applauded till their hands were raw. I left after the fifth encore and I don't mind telling you I whoopsed my cookies. What is there in people that makes them enjoy such sick stuff? Did they have it when you were teen-agers? What do you make of it, Ann? — Square Peg in a Round Hole

Dear Peg: When I was a teen-ager there were a few horror films around, such as Frankenstein and Dracula. But we didn't have the steady diet of violence the kids get today in movies and on TV — not to mention a live war in living color, every night on the six o'clock news.

Would you believe our sick society has produced a market for torture toys? One of the best selling items is a doll that screams when placed on a torture rack by a monster in a blood-splattered white coat. The customer has a choice of victims — a man, woman or child.

For $5.88 you can buy a Vietnam battleground. Dead and dying soldiers are all over the place in grotesque positions, with horrible expressions on their faces — gaping wounds and missing limbs. For $1.99 you can own a doll named Vampirella. She comes equipped with a beaker of blood. If all this isn't symptomatic of a warped society, I'd like to know what is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "I'll Know Where to Look in Fargo" was the last straw. That idiot refers to himself as a happily married man for over thirty years, and says if anything ever happens to his dear wife he's going to look for a lady over 40. Why? Because, he explains in his half-baked way, "She won't yell. She won't tell. She won't swell. She'll be grateful as hell."

I'll bet he already has his next wife picked out, and I hope he gets what's coming to him. My brother-in-law had the same idea, only he didn't wait until my sister died. The lady he was sneaking around with was over 40 — but she yelled, told, swelled and showed her gratitude by naming him in a paternity suit. His reputation was mud in our town after the ugly incident and my sister died of heart trouble as a result of it.

I'd like to know why a man who describes himself as "happily married" is thinking about what he'd like in the way of a second wife. And to sit down and write to Ann Landers about it suggests a strange preoccupation with the subject. If that man were my husband I'd be afraid to fall asleep in the same bed with him. Do you agree? Or am I paranoid? — Third-Eye Eleanor

Dear T. E. E.: I receive all kinds of letters from all kinds of people. Merely because a person writes along odd lines doesn't mean he's "planning anything." I do agree, however, that he might be indulging in some wishful thinking. You are right about women swelling and yelling after 40. It happens all the time.

Montana Girl Nominated to be House Page

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 17-year-old Montana girl has been nominated to be the first of her sex to serve as a page in the House of Representatives.

Rep. Dick Shoup, R-Mont., has sent the name of Kathi Dayton of Stevensville to House Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan for appointment as a page.

Shoup urged that Kathi be judged "strictly upon her personal qualifications and not by her sex."

"Considering that Congress has passed the Equal Rights Amendment," he said, "It's about time the House of Representatives strikes down a few sexual barriers of its own." The proposed constitutional amendment is being ratified by the states.

VOTER ABOUT TO CLOSE CURTAIN
Moving the Red Handle To The Right

CURTAIN CLOSED VOTER VOTING

If You Change Your Mind, Turn UP a Voting Pointer and Turn DOWN Another for the Same Office.

As no votes are registered until the Red Handle is moved to open the curtain, you can make as many changes as you desire while the Red Handle is at the right side. The machine is so arranged that you can turn down only the proper number of voting pointers for each office; you cannot spoil your ballot by voting for too many candidates. Each candidate's voting pointer is located just above the name; a voting pointer must be turned down over the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote. LEAVE VOTING POINTERS DOWN. No one will know how you have voted because the movement of the Red Handle to the left returns the voting pointers to the original position before the curtain begins to open.

Cooperative Nursery at First English

The Individual Child is Most Important

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"The individual child is what's important," Mrs Jean Pike, teacher of the Christian Cooperative Nursery School at First English Lutheran Church said during a recent interview. "We try to help the youngsters develop a confident self-image and to help them have successful experiences."

This the school sets out to accomplish through a curriculum planned to include a wide variety of activities — mental, social and physical — to enhance the child's ability to learn.

Mrs Pike believes that experiences such as those provided by field trips to many places in the community are important to this idea Later, when a child begins to read, she says, he will be familiar with some of the places about which he is reading.

During small group sessions, Mrs. Pike uses proper terms to help expand vocabularies. She finds she is quickly mimicked by the four and five-year-olds.

Creative dramatics, concepts of such things as hot and cold, heavy and light; visual perceptions, musical concepts, are all part of the school's plan.

Convinced that development is set between the ages of one and five, the nursery school teacher does everything she can through her curriculum to help with this development.

For instance, nursery school, she believes, provides children with the opportunity to learn the importance of the other person, the value of the human being

The youngsters are encouraged to play with each other, to listen when someone else is speaking, to experiment with a variety of foods at tasting parties, to draw as they see rather than as an adult does

Hopefully, the end result will be a child whose innate curiosity has been kept alive and, in fact, further enhanced

The school is a non-profit, charitable, educational and religious cooperative Mothers are required to assist approximately four times par semester The school year runs from September to May with classes meeting Monday and Wednesday, Tuesday and Thursday, and Friday for those who wish an extra session each week Current president is Mrs. James Hebert

During the First Part of the morning, the children have a free play period. For Sharon Finn and Mike Arter, a balance board can indeed be turned into a teeter-totter. Below, Lynn Pickarts uses her fingers to dramatize the song she is singing with her classmates

A Freshman at 8 Months?

YAKIMA, Wash (AP) — Karlyn Hurlburt has logged more classroom time than half the freshman class at Yakima Valley College

She's 8 months old and spends most of her academic time in an apple carton

Carl and Sue Hurlburt, Karlyn's parents, both students at the college, decided being parents didn't have to interrupt their education Hurlburt is majoring in agri-business, his wife in pre-education

Karlyn and her apple box have been a regular fixture in YVC classrooms since September, when she was three months old

"It was either bring her with us every day or have one of us stay at home with her and miss a year of college," said Mrs Hurlburt.

If Hurlburt has a free period, he looks after Karlyn in a hallway while his wife attends class and vice versa. If the 20-year-old parents have simultaneous classes, Karlyn accompanies one of them

"The baby has been no trouble or disruption at all," said John Griffith, head of the college agriculture department

"She seems to know she is supposed to sit quietly while the teacher delivers the lecture," he said

Good News for Mom

Little girls will be wearing many varieties of blazers, shirts, and tops this spring in wraparound, gored, and pleated skirts The best news of all for mother is that they are available in permanent press and knitted versions which means they can be popped in the washer and dryer between wearings Their fresh appeal comes from checks plaids, sailor insignia and floral chintz. The layered-look is apparent, too, in bodysuits, tank tops worn over blouses, vest, and jackets.

Presidential Hopefuls Are Determined Suitors

By LYNN SHERR
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The women of Wisconsin have squealed over John Lindsay, served donuts to Hubert Humphrey, danced with George McGovern, reddened at a kiss from Edmund Muskie and carried banners for George Wallace.

The major Democratic candidates for the presidential nomination have courted the female vote here like determined suitors.

They have greeted union wives in labor halls, nurses in hospital cafeterias, bowlers during Ladies' Night, would-be secretaries in technical schools, coeds in student unions, widows in old-age homes, baby-toting mothers in supermarkets and at least one nightgown saleswoman in a sexy lingerie store.

Female Response

And the response?

"I'll never wash the shirt!" exclaimed a member of the Kufahl Trucking bowling team in Wausau after Humphrey pinned a campaign button on her collar.

"I got my kiss. I'm happy," bubbled a nervous volunteer in Superior after Muskie kissed her left cheek.

"I'm really impressed with his charm, but that doesn't mean I agree with him politically," explained a hospital worker in Milwaukee when Lindsay walked by her office.

And in Frederick's of Hollywood, an emporium of fuchsia-colored nighties with fur trim, which McGovern innocently entered during a handshake tour of a Greendale shopping center, it was a case of useless admiration. "He's great for coming in here. Most men kind of slide by," said an amused saleswoman. "But I'm a Republican. I'm voting for Nixon."

In short, when Wisconsin women go to the polls in Tuesday's primary, they will not vote as a bloc.

No Block Vote

They will not even necessarily vote along party lines, since the state does not require registration by party. But they say they will vote, independent of spouse or party influence. And certain patterns have emerged:

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota seems to radiate the most emotional appeal to well-fed, middle-aged, ebullient women who tend to be Democratic regulars. If they are not union members, their husbands may be.

—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, who shares the party faithful and the workers with Humphrey, draws less hysterical crowds peppered with women who tend to describe him as "a plain man" and "a father image." Not untypical is a volunteer envelope-addresser who first performed that task for Adlai Stevenson.

—Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, who turns on the quiet campus faster than any of his rivals, sends his envelopes to women who prefer the title "Ms." They cheer as loudly at rallies as their male counterparts and are not infrequently seen at marches on Washington.

Men Do Shouting

—Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, like Humphrey and Muskie, attracts blue-collar women who tend to let their husbands and sons do the shouting at the Wallace rallies. Like McGovern, Wallace women also march on Washington, but with the conservative preacher Carl McIntyre.

—Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York is the admitted second choice of many McGovern women, including one 18-year-old first voter who plays the Easter bunny at a suburban shopping mall. He has the golden-boy sex appeal that makes waitresses and grandmothers alike reach out to touch him because him they saw him on the Johnny Carson show. He elicits such comments as, "He's lovely. I hope he gets further. He's not doing too well, is he?"

—Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington attracts women who say they prefer the "low-key approach." "I'm not a barreler," admitted one farm wife from Green Bay at a Jackson dinner sponsored by Plumber - Steamfitters Local 298.

—Former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's support still runs to the young, with some older retreads from 1968.

—And New York's Rep. Shirley Chisholm attracts women who are dedicated—mostly feminists, some black.

Most of the women who turn out for the banquets and the streetcorner speeches talk about the same issues: tax reform, the unemployment situation, the war in Indochina, welfare and education. What varies are the order and the way they want them solved.

A wiry Milwaukee housewife, her head wrapped in a scarf against the cold, said she wants world peace first "because I can combat the economy myself, but I have a son, 17, and I don't want another war. Mothers will take care of things like busing here at home, but we can't do the world."

In contrast, a Humphrey supporter in Superior, where every ninth person is out of work, ranked "getting out of this foolish war" second to "clearing up the unemployment."

Victory in Vietnam

A plump housewife carrying a hand-lettered "Women for Wallace" sign at a nighttime Milwaukee rally called for "victory in Vietnam and law and order in this country."

An hour or so away in Racine, a doorbell-ringer for McGovern also said the main issue is the war—but for her, it was "getting out."

Some women base their priorities on their roles as mothers and wives. A frequent refrain is heard: "He's a good family man."

Judy Smith, 29, a black Milwaukee resident whose husband is a Vietnam veteran and who has two preschool children, turned into a Lindsay fan when he talked about benefits for veterans and quality education. "I'd like to see the busing issue settled before my kids go to school," she said.

Cathy Wilson, 29, a well-coiffed blonde from a wealthy Milwaukee suburb, said at a $10-a-plate dinner for Muskie: "I feel very strongly about the state of the world and whether there's going to be places to live when my children grow up."

Other women have made their choices on a more personal basis.

Mrs. Joyce Zadrowski, who carried a poster reading "Operating Engineers Support Wallace for President," explained: "He reminds me of Abe Lincoln. If a man who has known poverty can be president, that's a good thing. I think he's honest. He speaks to the average man."

And, as in any campaign, the enthusiasm runs highest for the already committed.

"Humphrey—he's the man we need. Everything he does is all right with me," insisted a 44-year-old black welfare mother with a ninth-grade education, waiting in a crowded Milwaukee vocational school auditorium to hear the former vice president speak.

"I've always liked Humphrey, but Sen. Muskie is the one to beat Nixon," explained Eleanor Anderson, 42, wife of the speaker of the state Assembly and a 20-year veteran of party work.

Mrs. Anderson said she was not a women's libber, but I back equal pay and the Equal Rights Amendment. Muskie is good on women's rights. Mrs. Muskie is better."

McGovern is the only one representing women's issues correctly," according to Diane Caspari, 20, chairman of the senator's student group at the University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee. She quit in the second semester of her sophomore year to work for the man she considers "honest and good."

Cathy Doyle, 24, didn't have to drop out of the university's law school in Madison to work for McCarthy. People argue with me about McCarthy," said the red-cheeked, chestnut-haired veteran of his 1968 campaign. "They bring up the idea that he's a loser. I say it's not true. A copout candidate? I consider him the least copout of all the candidates except Shirley Chisholm."

But Shirley Chisholm presents something of a problem to her admirers. There was the geography teacher who said she cried the night Humphrey was nominated in 1968 and will vote for McGovern or Lindsay because "I would like to be able to afford a vote for Shirley Chisholm, but I can't. I want someone who will beat Nixon."

And there was Betty Jallings, an English teacher from Madison, who had soon grey hair and said she was "36 something." She wore a Chisholm button on her sweater and would vote for her because among other qualities "she's a woman."

But the railroad switchman's wife from Superior hasn't decided yet who to vote for.

"He has some good points," she said after a lunch time campaign speech by Muskie. "But I still don't know. There's going to be another one of them here tomorrow. I'm feeling them all out."

Major Democratic Presidential Candidates have been courting the female vote in Wisconsin for the primary election Tuesday. Catey Doyle, 24, prefers Sen. McCarthy; Betty Jallings, an English teacher from Madison, has not yet decided; Eleanor Anderson, wife of the speaker of the state assembly, leans toward Sen. Muskie; Diane Caspari, 20, is working full-time for her candidate, Sen. McGovern; and Cathy Wilson, 29, backs Sen. Muskie, preferring his position on international affairs. (AP Wirephoto)

Smart Teen Foils System

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — A 16-year-old girl who has had only two-and-a-half years of formal schooling is turning South Australia's education system upside-down because she is so brilliant.

In university entrance examinations Rose Marie Aldin topped the state in Spanish and German, was second in French, gained an A in Italian and a B in English.

Yet none of these is her native language—the Japanese of her mother.

Academic Shining

Rose Marie, whose Japanese name is Shigeki, meaning Sunbeam—she's surnamed Sunny—applied for a place at Beckley Park Teachers College.

Faced with Rose Marie's amazing examination results, State Education Minister Hugh Hudson agreed to waive the 17 years minimum age clause.

Having been awarded teacher training, she will be allowed to study at Adelaide's Flinders University without attending lectures at the college.

Rose Marie has been traveling for most of her life with her father, high school teacher Dr. E. R. Aldin.

They left Japan in 1965 and went to Montreal before spending two years each in Italy, France, Spain and Germany.

Children's Books

Dad helped me to remember the languages by buying the children's books of the language I had just learned," said Rose Marie.

Even when they came to Australia two years ago the traveling did not stop—Dr.

Rose Marie Aldin is turning South Australia's education system upside-down. The 16-year-old girl, whose native language is Japanese, topped South Australian state university enrollment examinations in Spanish and German, was second in French and gained an A in Italian and a B in English.

Parents and Children

'The Skinner Game'

Part III—Entrusting Your Child to Dr. Skinner

Dr. B. F. Skinner, a leading "behavorial" psychologist dwells at length on how to raise children in his various writings. "Conditioning" and "reinforcement of behavior" are his twin prescriptions for educating and bringing up the perfect child. His recommendations are not too different, except in method, from those favored by advocates of a wide application of drugs, like Ritalin and amphetamines, to control and modify children's behavior.

Dr. Skinner's main theme, detailed in his most recent book Beyond Freedom and Dignity, is that the false concept of individual differences in man has created the myths of dignity and freedom. These, according to him, stand in the way of the development of perfect and perfectible human beings, totally adjusted to the environment Dr. Skinner would plan for them. Your hackles may rise — but practical aspects of this theory already dominate our lives and our children's upbringing and education.

Virginia Commune

Twin Oaks, a youth commune in central Virginia, is a model of the kind of life Dr. Skinner hopes to prepare for all of us, with U. S. government support. Despite emphasis on childhood education in principle, this commune, which follows Skinner's doctrines faithfully, has not, in four years of existence, been able to tolerate having children around. Its members are now planning for their "first litter of three babies," according to one of the future mothers. Each mother, allowed to be her baby's first incubator by communal consent, will surrender him or her to the community as soon as he is weaned. These babies will then be raised in Dr. Skinner's patent, germ proof box for the first couple of years of their lives.

Instead of the child's own parents assuming primary responsibility for his nuturing, he will become communal property. Every adult in the community will be every child's parent. This is likely to prove very confusing to the children, since the average adult member sticks it out for only about 16 months before leaving the commune. Although vague on this subject, the spokesmen and women for Twin Oaks left me with the distinct impression that when a child's own father, or mother, or both, depart from the commune, their natural child is expected to be left behind.

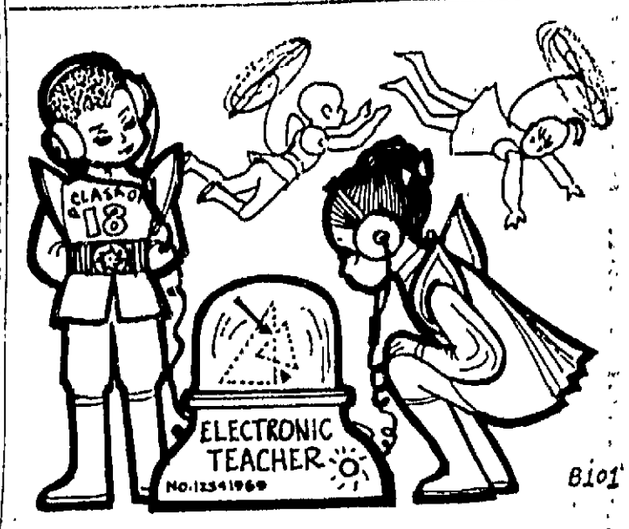

Not Socially Approved

Such actual or symbolic abandonment of children is already a part of our culture. Dr. Skinner's "perfect" society would institutionalize practices that, though wide-spread, are not yet socially approved. Skinner takes sharp issue with biologists, naturalists and ethologists — and a good many psychologists — who rightly feel that babies and older infants need reliable and dependable parents that they can recognize.

Twin Oaks seems a safe-haven for temporary drop-outs for whom the stresses of our society prove overwhelming. Such a sheltering asylum is probably a good place for them, but it is not a viable model for the larger society, or a desirable climate to which to entrust the care and education of babies and children. Twin Oaks is a caricature of our present day society and it is an excellent projection of Skinner's doctrines.

This is a static society that attempts to shield its members from all hazards, conflicts, hopes and responsibilities — except loneliness. "Loneliness" is the main reason given by most of those who leave this commune, and it is a terrible indictment. This is the price all pay who are forced into vegetating sterility through "conditioning" within totally sheltering institutions. The forced inmates of jails, asylums for the retarded, hospitals, schools, slums and zoos all suffer this same loneliness. Dr. Skinner would have us submit our children — and ourselves — to this regimen, by decree. And, as at Twin Oaks, we must leave all our human and humane differences, and our aggressive pursuit of goals at the door, in order to enter Skinner's heaven. But these are among the main springs of art, science, culture, and hope. They may be misdirected and perverted by times, but, given the choice, I'll take my chances this side of 1984 for myself and for my children.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

World Champions

by IRA G. CORN JR. TEAM CAPTAIN

In these times muggings have become an increasing hazard. So much so that some established programs to alert the public concerning some dos and don'ts to help reduce the problem. The time is ripe, therefore, to discuss another variation of the declarer's holdups.

Vulnerable: Both
Dealer: East

♥ J 10 7 6
♦ K Q 6 4
♣ J 10 5

♦ J 7 3

SOUTH
♠ A K 6 2
♥ K Q 9 8 3
♣ A 7 6

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	All pass

Opening lead: Four of clubs.

Note South's choice of the overcall rather than a takeout double. He avoided the double in spite of his fine major suit holding because of the singleton diamond, a suit North would be most likely to bid over a double. Over North's raise, South justifiably contracted for the heart game.

Observe the play of the declarer "not up with the times." West's opening lead is covered by dummy's ten and East's queen. Declarer takes his ace and leads a diamond. He has a vague plan in mind involving the discard of a club loser on one of dummy's diamonds. West is quick to take his diamond ace to lead another club. The defense now has three minor suit tricks and nothing short of a revoke can save declarer. (Note that even if East had the diamond ace, the defense could have scored a club ruff to beat the hand.)

The careful declarer has studied his holdups. Instead of taking his first club with his ace, declarer allows East to hold the trick. He sees no chance unless the overcall was in a five-card suit.

East knew that a club return would be finessed and returned a diamond. West won his ace and led through dummy's clubs to establish another club trick for the defense. However, South countered by playing three rounds of spades before playing spade to discard his club loser on one of dummy's diamonds. Declarer then conceded a trick to the high trump to make his contract.

East could have defeated the hand in spite of declarer's holdup, but it would have taken accurate defense. A club return at trick two would have set the stage for a club ruff. If West, after taking the diamond ace, led a trump instead of a spade, West would score an immediate club ruff. A spade lead would give declarer the time to discard his club loser.

However, as in the case of muggings, there is no sure way to cover all avenues on every hand. South's holdup gave him the best chance since it placed additional burdens on the defense. All of which proves that the more difficult you make it for a mugger, the less chance of being mugged.

The Engine of this vehicle was torn out and ended up 36 feet from the rest of the car after a two-car collision Sunday morning in the Town of Greenville. The auto's driver, Mary Wendt, 20, Oshkosh, was killed.

Oshkosh Coed Dies Sunday In Crash Near Greenville

A 20-year-old Oshkosh coed was killed Sunday as she returned home from Easter sunrise services in the Greenville area.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said Miss Mary G. Wendt, daughter of Mrs. Sadie Wendt, 25 W. 15th St., Oshkosh, died of a massive skull fracture after her small foreign car was struck broadside at an open intersection 10 miles northwest of Appleton.

The Wendt auto was traveling east on Spring Road when it collided with an auto driven by James Lee Ziegert, 23, route 6, Appleton at the intersection of Manley Road. The Ziegert auto was northbound.

Ziegert told Outagamie County sheriff's officers that he was traveling between 45 and 50 miles per hour and had slowed to 35 m.p.h. as he entered the intersection but didn't see the car until he hit it.

The impact of the crash tore the engine from the rear of the foreign car and hurled it 36 feet away.

Miss Wendt was a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. Funeral services are pending at Konrad Funeral Home, Oshkosh.

The death raised the Outagamie County traffic toll to five for the year, compared with two at this time last year.

The Wisconsin traffic toll reached 191 today, 32 ahead of last year's pace, with the deaths of two Ellison Bay youths and three other persons in weekend accidents.

Donald L. Erickson, 20, and Gary Daubner, 19, both Ellison Bay, died Sunday when the car they were in crashed with another two miles north of the junction of State 42 and 57 in Door County. Three others in their car were injured, but no one in the second auto was hurt.

West Milwaukee police said a man tentatively identified as Walter C. Siewert, 43, Milwaukee, was killed Saturday night in a one car accident on Milwaukee's south side.

Gaylan C. Taylor, 17, Tomah, was killed Saturday when the car he was in left a Tomah street and hit a tree.

Herbert Last, 68, South Milwaukee, died Sunday of injuries received March 3 when a car struck him on a Milwaukee street.

Rezoning Backed For Brewster Land

Rezoning of county-owned property along the south side of the proposed Brewster Street extension has been recommended by the Outagamie County Board Zoning Committee.

The action, requested by the board's public property and parks committee, is expected to get board approval in April to clear the way for sale of the land.

In an informal opinion Corp. Counsel William Schuh told members of the committee that board rules may not require that the land be let out on bids to be sold. The rules, he noted, say that county land "may be sold at public auction or by sealed bid." Since the language is permissive, Schuh said, it also means the land probably could be sold to a specific buyer after independent appraisals are made.

The sale question arose last fall when Acme Printing Ink, Inc., which fronts on Wisconsin Avenue, sought to purchase county land at the rear of its lot to expand its facilities. The public property and parks committee interpreted the board rules to require the taking of sealed bids with sale going to the highest bidder.

Sanitary Sewer

The county board has approved sale of the land with the provision that the price include the cost of opening Brewster Street east from Bluemound Road and the cost of installing sanitary sewer. Schuh then suggested the land be rezoned before it was sold rather than take piecemeal rezonings later.

The Fox Valley Council of Government planners had agreed with the rezoning on the basis that the land be used as extensions of existing businesses along Wisconsin Avenue with Brewster Street serving as secondary access. If the land were to be sold for new commercial or industrial use the planners said they would recommend against the rezoning since Brewster Street then would become a major commercial street in what is designed to be a residential area.

Town of Grand Chute Chairman Ira Livingston said the town had no objection to the rezoning and would consider restricting truck traffic on Brewster Street if the county requested the restriction.

Representatives from several other businesses in the same area said they also would be interested in buying the lots between their present property and Brewster Street to provide a rear access to their businesses.

Approval of a request for a conditional use permit to develop a wetlands area was held up

Telephone Firm to Help Retarded

The telephone company recently introduced a new training program here which will make learning to dial a telephone a little easier for mentally retarded children in the Appleton area.

Called "Speaking Over Barriers," the program helps teachers instruct the educable and trainable mentally retarded child how to use the telephone in social situations and emergencies, with emphasis placed on reaching emergency numbers such as the operator, police, fire and doctor.

Local Wisconsin Telephone school relations representative Miss Arleen Hoey said the program is designed to work with curriculum already used for retarded children and can reinforce other objectives of the teachers.

One of the benefits of the emergency number training, for instance, can be that the student will better recognize a true emergency rather than an everyday mishap. The pupil must learn to identify numbers on the phone dial, also reinforcing other training.

Specially designed flash cards and a flip chart illustrate telephone parts, animals and coloring book characters which show what a telephone is and how it works.

Learning the sounds of the telephone is part of the program. The students learn to distinguish dial tone, busy signal and ringing. A device known as the Teletrainer, a set of two telephones connected to a control unit, enables the students to learn these sounds.

The Teletrainer control unit simulates telephone sounds, while microphones built inside the telephone sets make it possible for the entire class to hear the conversation.

"Speaking Over Barriers" also teaches the students how to operate a public telephone and recognize the types of coins required, further developing their independence and self confidence.

Intended for mentally handicapped children in the primary grade age group, "Speaking Over Barriers" was developed by the Pacific Telephone Co. Wisconsin Telephone's school relations division helped with the final testing and evaluation of the program.

Wisconsin is the first other Bell System company to put the special program to use. It will be made available to all school systems in Wisconsin. The rest of the Bell System will be offering the program later this year.

Miss Hoey said the 20 sets of materials the company now has are already in heavy use.

Shutdown Threatened

Consolidated Awaits Word on DNR Deadline

Consolidated Papers, Inc., has notified its Appleton sulfite mill employes that it will wait "a few more weeks" for word from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources that will determine whether the mill is shut down at the end of this year or kept operating.

The DNR has set a Dec. 31 deadline for the mill to meet Fox River pollution abatement orders. Consolidated officials announced earlier this year they are unable to meet the deadline and asked the DNR to extend it. If the extension is denied, the mill will close on Dec. 31 the company has declared.

In an announcement posted today at the Appleton mill and released to news media, George W. Mead II, board chairman of the Wisconsin Rapids-based firm, said company officials have not yet received a decision from the DNR, "but expect it later this month."

"The DNR has suggested we wait a few more weeks for their decision. We will (wait), out of consideration for the 200 employes at this mill," Mead said.

If the extension is denied, Mead said an orderly phase-out of mill operations will be much more difficult because there will be only about 8 months' time. The company had asked to be given 9 months, explaining that is the amount needed due to schedules for ordering raw materials and other factors.

April 1 was the date by which the firm had asked to have the DNR decision on extending the deadline.

A DNR spokesman in Madison told The Post-Crescent on Friday that the Consolidated request and similar pleas for extensions from other Fox River waste dischargers had been discussed by the environmental quality committee of the state Board of Natural Resources, policy-making body of the agency.

But he said the committee plans to meet at least once more to discuss the requests, probably sometime this month. The full board, he added, has a meeting scheduled for April 19.

Consolidated has argued that it would cost more than $2 million to install pollution control facilities at the mill, and that it is probable that even then the plant would be unable to meet DNR water quality regulations.

The time extension was asked to "lessen the hardship on employes and the community, permit the possibility of a technological breakthrough" and allow time for economic conditions in the sulfite pulping industry to improve, today's company statement recalled. While neither new technology nor improved economics can be assured, if the mill were closed neither could develop, company officials argue.

No Change in Employment Anticipated

Half of Appleton's Businessmen Expect Scene to be Stable

Half of Appleton's businessmen expect no change in employment during the second quarter of 1972 while over a third predict an increase, according to an independent employment outlook survey conducted by Manpower, Inc., international temporary help organization.

Marilyn Heiss, manager of the local office of Manpower, reported that the survey indicated that 52 per cent foresee no change while 37 per cent expect an increase and 11 per cent predict a decrease.

For U.S. Labor Department Region 6, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin, 20 per cent of those surveyed predict increased employment during April, May and June. Stable employment is forecast by 70 per cent while 6 per cent expect a decrease. The remainder said they are uncertain.

Nationwide, the predictions were as follows: Increased employment, 22 per cent; no change, 63 per cent; decreases, 6 per cent; and "don't know," 9 per cent.

Analysis of the 25 industries polled throughout the United States shows that of those predicting increases for the second quarter, the highest percentages are in building construction, 37 per cent; apparel manufacturing, 31 per cent; banking, 31 per cent; and transportation equipment manufacturing, 31 per cent.

In a breakdown of U.S. Labor Department regions, the survey shows Region 8 (Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas) to be the most optimistic, with 31 per cent of those polled predicting employe increases.

The greatest percentage predicting decreases for the second quarter are in Region 7 (Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota, Nebraska and South Dakota), where 9 per cent expect cutbacks.

Most stable are Region 1 (Connecticut, New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island) and region 6 (Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin) where 70 per cent said they expect no change in their employment needs.

The quarterly survey is the 58th conducted by Manpower through its network of offices in the United States. Manpower has more than 600 offices on six continents.

Kaukauna Educators Change Meeting Date

KAUKAUNA — The monthly meeting of the board of education, originally scheduled for April 11, has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the board rooms of the high school. The switch was made because of conflicts in schedules of board members.

School Supt. Julian Bichler said some residents have been requesting evening meetings to permit persons who work days to attend. This session will give board members an indication of interest. Evening meetings have been scheduled for the summer months.

National, Local Candidates Make Final Bids for Votes

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Politicians, local and national, kept up the pressure on Fox Valley voters today, the last day of campaigning before Tuesday's local elections and presidential primary.

Two of the Democratic presidential candidates had last-minute appearances scheduled in the Valley, while campaign workers for others were planning final drives to swing votes to their men.

Washington Sen. Henry Jackson planned to swing from Green Bay through De Pere, Kaukauna, Appleton, Menasha, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac. Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota was slated to appear in Green Bay, Neenah and Oshkosh. Both planned street-corner and factory-gate appearances.

Meanwhile, volunteer workers for New York Mayor John Lindsay and Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine planned to distribute leaflets door-to-door and continue with telephone canvassing of voters, among other activities.

McGovern supporters were passing out leaflets and free coffee in downtown Appleton today. Mrs. Mary Lindsay spent about an hour with volunteers at the Appleton headquarters Sunday night, in part to make up for cancellation of an appearance here Thursday by her husband, who was delayed by airplane trouble in Milwaukee. Lindsay workers delivered Easter eggs to elderly residents of local nursing homes and other facilities on Sunday.

For the most part, however, Easter brought a one-day respite from the steadily increasing pummeling Fox Valley voters have taken over the past few weeks from candidates.

Local radios have hummed with paid political advertising, and a welter of paper leaflets have stuffed local doorways. After Sunday's moratorium on political activities, they resumed today with 11th-hour intensity.

Appleton's hottest political race, the struggle for the mayor's office, reached a crescendo today with newspaper and radio advertising and person-to-person campaigning.

Ald. Robert Roemer (8th) said he would be distributing campaign matches downtown and possibly at a factory gate or two. James Sutherland's campaign volunteers planned to stage a door-to-door blitz, with adult supporters calling on voters between 4 and 9 p.m. while younger workers distributed leaflets to shoppers. The candidate said he had several plant-gate stops on his schedule.

Both candidates were optimistic this morning. Roemer said he is "a lot better off than we were before," referring to his second-place showing behind Sutherland in the primary.

Sutherland said, "We're optimistic. We've worked hard and we're still working hard right up to the last minute."

Chief Concern

Their basic appeals took shape early in the race and had changed little since the week before the primary. Both say rising property taxes are the chief concern of voters, and would therefore receive top-priority attention if they were elected.

Sutherland has called for "a new approach in city government," hinting that because he is not tied to the City Hall establishment he is free to

Town Meeting Next Tuesday In Grand Chute

GRAND CHUTE — Residents of the Town of Grand Chute won't have their annual meeting Tuesday night.

At last year's meeting residents indicated a desire to hold the annual meeting on April 11, one week after the election.

"This way the people will have a chance to hear the election results and I will be able to work with the people counting the ballots," Clerk Leslie Woldt said today.

Voters will be given the town's annual report Tuesday when they appear at the polls.

The annual reports will be discussed at the meeting at 8 p.m. April 11 at the Town Hall.

Lucey Stays Neutral, Doesn't Expect Big Vote for Wallace

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov. Patrick Lucey is maintaining his neutral stand in the Wisconsin presidential primary because he does not feel that Alabama Gov. George Wallace is a major threat, he said in a television interview today.

Lucey had said he would not endorse a Democratic candidate in the primary unless it appeared that Wallace would have enough strength to win some of the state's convention delegates.

Appearing on the NBC "Today" show, Lucey said it would be "somewhat embarrassing" if Wallace headed the delegation, but added, "I don't see this happening."

"I hope that I have not miscalculated," Lucey said, "but on the basis of the best information I've been able to put together, I've concluded that it is not likely that Gov. Wallace will win the statewide plurality or that he will pick up any district delegates. Therefore I've continued my neutrality."

Lucey did say he thought Wallace would probably be among the top four in the 12-way Democratic race on Tuesday, along with Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Edmund Muskie of Maine. He said that Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington might also be in the top four, moving ahead of one of the others.

Lucey said he saw the Wisconsin primary as "part of the elimination process" that will "tend to narrow the field somewhat" in the Democratic race.

"But I think a number of the contenders could come in as low as third and still be a factor in the primaries," he said.

The crossover of Republican voters is expected to be a factor in the Wisconsin primary, but Lucey said crossover votes are hard to identify in Wisconsin "because we do not have partisan registration and we wear our party affiliations rather lightly."

The governor said he expected that about 1.5 million votes would be cast on Tuesday.

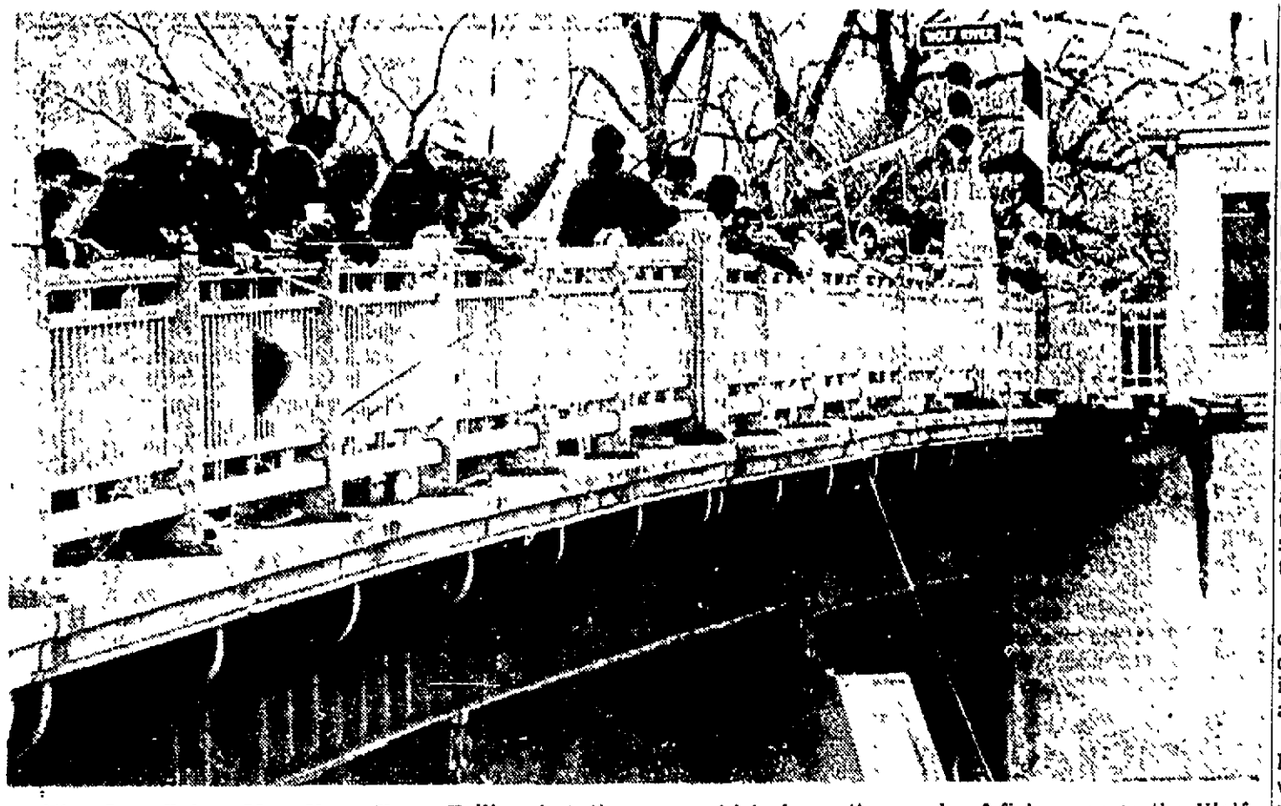

"If you assume that the two parties are well-balanced, as they are, it's going to look like a substantial crossover," he said. "I would imagine that out

Menasha CATV Veto Faces Aldermen

Residency, Fire Station, Go Before Council

MENASHA — The common council and its various committees are ready to consider a city employe residency ordinance, the mayor's proposal for a new central fire station and his veto of action awarding a CATV (cable television) franchise and the hiring of consultant for the River Street Bridge project at meetings this week.

Public Safety Committee Chairman Ald. Richard Heindl hopes the council can decide on the mayor's fire station proposal this week. He said he will have a map, showing what property would lie outside of one and one-half mile and two mile radius of the proposed fire station, for his committee meeting at 6 p.m. tonight.

"I hope it answers the questions that Sumner Parker had," he said. Parker, a member of the committee, requested the information so aldermen would know how much property would lie outside the 1.5 and 2-mile limits. Those properties could experience fire insurance premium cost increases if a new central station were built to replace the two stations the city now has.

$20 Million

Heindl would not tell the valuation of all the property outside those radius but he did say it was over $20 million.

Adams recommended replacing the downtown station with a new one — either in the area of Hart Park or next to the library along Racine Street. He also called for turning the fire substation into a police station, to replace that department's delapidated structure downtown.

"What they want to do is up to them," Adams said of the committees' impending action on his proposal.

Earlier last month, Adams said his proposal looked like it would be defeated by a majority of the common council. He said he had suggested it as one "possible alternative" for replacing what he calls the two "white elephants" (police and fire stations) downtown.

Heindl has already said he opposes a central fire station. Another member of the three-man committee — Ald. Erwin Roocks — has said the same thing.

Heindl, who will probably call for committee action on his proposal tonight, said he wants the issue resolved before the present common council adjourns for the last time on April 18.

Residency Hearing

A public hearing is set for 6:50 p.m. tonight on a residency ordinance that would require all city employes, with minor exceptions, to live within the city.

Under present ordinance, only protective personnel (policemen and firemen) are required to live in the city. The new ordinance would require all employes to live in the city, unless unusual circumstances were involved. The ordinance provides for a hearing procedure for all employes who want to make special application for permission to live outside the city.

The ordinance, introduced by First Ward Ald. Charles Heinz, who passed to aldermen several weeks ago accompanied by a lengthy report from City Atty. Richard Steffens, which explained the legal justification for the tough residency ordinancy.

"I would like a clarification, one way or the other," says Mayor James Adams of the ordinance. He said the city should have set rules on residency for employes other than protective personnel.

The council could act on the ordinance Wednesday.

Bridge Consultant

The board of public works will also act on a proposal to hire a consultant for the River Street bridge project at its meeting at 4:10 p.m. today.

"Something should be done this summer or spring", Mayor Adams said of the little-used bridge. "It should be corrected as soon as possible, because it's a hazard."

The bridge, which required temporary repairs last summer when support members were found rotted, serves two homes and the George Whiting Paper Co. To replace it would cost somewhere in the area of $20,000, although officials still hope less costly repairs can be made to make the bridge adequate.

Steffens is also checking on the legal possibilities for requiring the Whiting company to pay the entire cost for the bridge rebuilding or repair on the basis that it is the company that is receiving the major benefit from the isolated structure.

Aldermen will act on Adams' veto of the awarding of a CATV franchise Wednesday. The council voted, 9-3, to award the contract to Marcus CATV at the mid-March meeting. A similar vote would be enough to override that veto.

City officials had been anxious to give a CATV franchise before March 31, so that the city could avoid coming under new FCC (Federal Communications Commission) regulations that went into effect then.

Corps' OK Sought For New Power Line Under Tayco Canal

MENASHA — The city's electric and water utilities has requested a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' permit to lay an electric power line across the canal west of the Tayco Street Bridge.

The line, which utilities General Manager James Taylor said will supply power to the Tayco Street Bridge and for street lighting along River Street west of Tayco Street, will stretch across the canal at a point about 230 feet west of the bridge.

Taylor said the present cable faulted last fall, and the utility has replaced it with a temporary overhead line until a new under-canal line can be laid. The new line will be laid in a three-foot trench dredged out of the canal.

Taylor said the cost of the new cable will be about $3,500.

Neenah Needs Funds for K-C Hall

NEENAH — Although the city council has approved a lease with Kimberly-Clark Corp. to use the firm's former main office-research and engineering building for an interim city hall, the final determination will come today and Wednesday when aldermen are faced with the task of finding enough money to effect the move.

The five-year lease gives the building to the city rent-free and, in return, the city forgives about $21,000 in real estate taxes, plus taking part in a cost sharing arrangement for utilities, maintenance and repair.

5-3 Vote

When the lease was approved, during a special council session on March 20, the vote was five in favor, three opposed, one abstaining and one absent.

Today, City Atty. Duane Philis said that the council would need a three-quarters' majority to appropriate the money to effect the move from the present building to the K-C building. This means that eight affirmative votes are needed.

"Before the lease can be signed, the finance director has to say there's enough money to implement it," Philis siid.

John Sahli, finance director, said that estimates so far are $1,260 for moving; $2,700 for remodeling a part of the building for a city council chambers, plus $650 to have all the telephones switched to the new building.

According to Sahli, there's $2,000 in the present city hall maintenance fund which would be used for the remodeling, but there's no money for the moving expenses. There's about $2,200 left in the various departmental telephone accounts but that's earmarked for monthly telephone costs and if the $650 was taken from there, it would mean that all accounts would be short by the end of the year.

The pro-rated real estate taxes won't come into play until 1973 since the taxes for 1972 have already been paid. Philis said that the city would have to collect the taxes and then give the money back to K-C if the lease went into effect, because the city "can't forgive real estate taxes."

The first step in the money-finding procedure starts tonight as the finance committee will find out exactly how much the city will need. The showdown comes Wednesday night as the council will vote on appropriating the money.

The three council members who opposed the move the first time around are Alds. Walter "Doc" Loehing, Second Ward; Lester Herzfeldt, Sixth Ward, and Milton Boehm, Ninth Ward.

In favor were Alds. Harold Young, Tenth Ward; Michael Ellis, Third Ward; Robert Frank, Fourth Ward; Thomas Willarson, Fifth Ward, and William Zelinski, Eighth Ward.

Ald. Donald Steber, Seventh Ward, was absent from the meeting, and Ald. Robert Troyer, First, abstained because he is an employe of K-C.

Retired Chilton Businessman Succumbs Today

CHILTON — Funeral arrangements are pending for Joseph Schieble, 65, 41 School St., who died unexpectedly this morning.

Schieble, who was born in Sheboygan, operated a tavern here for many years and was an active sponsor of men's athletic programs which included basketball, baseball and bowling.

He retired from the tavern business about two years ago. He was a veteran of World War II and a member of the veterans of Foreign Wars post here.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter. Pfeffer Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

10 Hearings Slated On Sidewalk Work

NEENAH — Just how firm the city council plans to stand on its intent to implement an annual sidewalk construction program could be determined Wednesday night following 10 public hearings on as many different sidewalk projects.

During the past two months, the street and sanitation committee has been reviewing a sidewalk construction program proposed by City Planner George Bauman after getting a priority list, based on safety conditions, from the Neenah police department.

One stretch of walk, both sides of Gay, from Gillingham to Tullar, has already cleared the public hearing.

However, 10 other projects, which promise to draw out property owners, will come up for public hearings Wednesday night.

Although the preliminary resolution, which sets the advertising-bidding-contract procedure in motion, calls for a maximum price of $4.50 per lineal foot of sidewalk, this has been set high because of the uncertainty of construction costs.

A more realistic figure, according to Wayne Bryan, public works director, is about $3.25 which would mean that the sidewalk cost for the average 70-foot wide lot will be about $230.

One of the reasons for lumping the 10 projects is that Bryan thinks that contractors can bid lower on the entire job than they could if each project were bid separately.

The 10 projects scheduled for public hearing are:

—West side of Hunt Avenue, from Fairwood Drive to Cecil Street.

—East side of Hunt Avenue, from Fairwood Drive to Cecil Street.

—North side of Cecil, from Tullar Road to Meadow Lane.

—South side of Peckham, from Congress to South Park.

—West side of Whittier Drive, from Hawthorne to Lowell Place.

—East side of Marathon Avenue, from Byrd to Cecil.

—Both sides of Meadow Lane, from Byrd to Cecil.

—Both sides of Doctors Drive.

—Both sides of Professional Plaza.

Jaycees Give $700 for NM Pavilion Project

MENASHA — The Neenah-Menasha Jaycees are contributing $700 to help pay for the proposed $80,000 Jefferson Park pavilion.

Menasha voters will be asked on Tuesday's election ballot if they approve of the proposed project.

"The Jaycees share with pride the facilities of this park and urge a 'yes' vote from every voter," reads the release announcing the contribution.

The $700 could actually mean $1,400 for the new facility, if voters approve it Tuesday and an application for federal Land and Water Conservation (Lawcon) funds is approved. Both are expected.

The city could qualify for a 50 per cent grant under "Lawcon", bringing the city's share of the total project cost down to $40,000.

Polka Benefit at St. John Slated

LITTLE CHUTE — The St. John High School Student council will sponsor an "SOS Polka Get-Together" from 8:30 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the school gym.

The purpose of the SOS (Save Our School) dance is to raise money to help cover the school's deficit spending. The students have had a number of projects to raise funds and expect to surpass the $15,000 mark by the end of this year.

Music for the polka party will be provided by the Schmaltz Polka Band. Admission is $1 for singles and $1.75 for couples. Tickets are available at the Vanderloop Shoe Store, Little Chute, or at the door.

come up with new ways of dealing with the city's problems.

Roemer has stressed his experience, including 10 years as alderman and 12 as mayor during the 1940s and '50s, and strongly suggested that his opponent lacks enough experience.

Roemer has since the primary attacked Sutherland on several points while Sutherland has virtually ignored Roemer and his statements. He also declined a Roemer challenge to debate, saying there are ample ways for the voter to learn of each candidate's positions.

In the final days of the campaign, Roemer also has made endorsements of candidates by local labor leaders and The Post-Crescent an issue. Roemer has drawn attention to his support from the local AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education and from the top local Teamsters Union official, business representative Robert Schlieve, who is on his campaign committee. At the same time, he has accused The Post-Crescent of inaccuracy in its editorial endorsing Sutherland, and mounted a vigorous advertising effort to accuse the newspaper and others of attempting to control the election outcome

Roemer claimed this morning that the editorial "really turned things around" in his favor. "That's helped us a lot." He added the labor support also has been helpful.

Sutherland has not commented on either endorsement, though his supporters say such statements of support can work both for and against both candidates.

Voters Tuesday also will elect an Outagamie County Judge, choosing between the incumbent Judge Urban P. Van Susteren and Mrs. Cody Splitt, an attorney, and will choose 42 county supervisors, 10 city aldermen, and a city treasurer.

The interim treasurer, Mrs. Geraldine LaBore, and former city clerk-comptroller Robert Maves are seeking the treasurer's post. The incumbent City Clerk Elden Broehm, Atty. David Coenen and Assessor George Schwarzbauer are also listed on the ballots for new four-year terms, but without opposition.

Broehm today predicted an 80 per cent, 20,500-voter turnout Tuesday. There are 26,001 voters registered in the city. By late morning today, there had been a record 1,262 absentee ballots cast in his office.

Weather could be a factor in determining whether his high turnout prediction comes true. Early forecasts said Tuesday will be windy and unseasonably cold with partly sunny skies following today's snow.

Judge Schaefer to be Panelist on Crime, Punishment Workshop

New Kindergarten Pupils to be Tested

A four-phase testing program — "kindergarten round-up" — will be conducted soon for children who will be enrolled in the Appleton Public schools for the fall term.

The schools, in cooperation with the Appleton Junior Woman's Club, will be in charge of the testing, a first for the system.

Each child's speech, hearing, vision and motor development will be tested.

The process is as follows:

Registration for children who will be entering Appleton schools this fall will be April 10 through 14 in the school they plan to attend.

Parents will be able to register their children from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (except for the lunch hour). Immunization information and birth certificates are required.

The policy on entrance age for kindergarten states that children who will be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1, 1972, may be enrolled.

Parents will be given the roundup information at this time and appointments for the testing will be made for the following week.

Each child will visit with the speech therapist for about 20 minutes. This visit will help the therapist determine the child's understanding of individually spoken words, the child's fluency and intelligibility of speech and his general ability to communicate.

The hearing test will be conducted by a pure tone audiometer in order to detect defects for which early treatment is necessary. Trained volunteers will be in charge.

Each child's vision will be screened by Junior Woman's Club members under guidelines of the Wisconsin Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Retests will be done at an open center April 29 and referrals for further testing will be made where a vision problem is detected.

The fourth phase covers perceptual-motor development, including gross motor skills and eye-hand coordination tests.

Maturity

Another section of the roundup will sample the child's maturity, basic concepts and visual motor skills.

"This will help the schools provide more adequately for the needs of the children," explained the officials of the Junior Woman's Club. "Often in the past, children had some difficulty with their studies and learning ability, which could be overcome if one of the defects is corrected. But it can take a long time to find out what the problem is and then it might be an accidental discovery," it was pointed out.

There will be three prekindergarten classes during the summer and the 1972-73 school year for those children who could profit from the experience and programs in oral communication and language development will be available to children in need of this help

Pair Enters Opposite Pleas

Two Men Charged With Stealing From Milwaukee Man

Two men charged with theft by force appeared before Circuit Court Judge Andrew Parnell today and entered opposite pleas to the charge.

James A. Rasmussen, 23, 236 N. Parks St., and Thomas Gilber, 22, Cicero, Ill. faced court on charges filed after police said they forced a Milwaukee man to give them money after threatening his life.

The two men allegedly worked with a third accomplice, John Hovey, 24, of 860 Appleton Road, and forced the man to drive them throughout the Fox Valley in an attempt to cash a $650 check Dec. 4.

They reportedly told the man they had a contract to kill him and showed him a gun. They said they would release him if he gave them $650. When they could not cash the check the trio reportedly settled for $200 cash produced by the man's brother in Oshkosh.

Rasmussen pleaded innocent to the charge, and Parnell set his trial for 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Gilbert pleaded guilty and a presentence investigation was ordered. Parnell set sentencing for April 17 and continued Gilbert's $1,500 bond.

Hovey had pleaded guilty earlier to the charge and was placed on two years' probation and ordered to make restitution of 1.5 million, perhaps over a million votes would be cast on the Democratic side. That means that 250,000 votes are either independents or Republicans, at least they're not the traditional Democrats."

Lucey worked in the presidential campaigns of both John and Robert Kennedy, and he was asked about speculation that in maintaining neutrality he was really waiting for an opportunity to endorse Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts

Lucey said that was "hardly a fair comment," adding that there has been a tradition of Wisconsin governors remaining neutral in the primaries. He noted that when Sen Gaylord Nelson was governor in 1960, he did not take sides in the race between John Kennedy and Humphrey. The governor said he thought it "rather unlikely" that Edward Kennedy would be the nominee of the Democratic Party this year.

Dear Citizen of Appleton,

Election day is tomorrow. It is the day when we in Appleton express our views concerning city government - and the day when we make the decisions concerning city government.

As a candidate for mayor, I want you to know of my interest in obtaining your support when you cast your ballot. I have worked hard to convey my positions, and I hope you share my belief that they are responsive to our needs in Appleton.

It is not my intention here to interject last minute "issues" or to try to draw attention away from real issues by making attacks or by suggesting that voting decisions should be based upon "who is supporting whom". I will say that I have tried to campaign in a manner that would remove even the impression that I would be under political obligation to individuals or special interest groups.

I do want to express my appreciaton for the manner in which citizens have received my campaign. I am particularly thankful for their acceptance of our substitute for the Postal Service -- the door-knob bag. Utilization of this method of presenting my views saved a considerable amount in postage costs and at the same time allowed me to communicate my views directly to Appleton residents. I especially appreciate the efforts of those many volunteers who so willingly gave of their time and energy to see that my views were conveyed.

Thank you!

Sincerely,

James P. Sutherland

'Silent'Not Forgotten Pope Says

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI in an Easter Mass before a festive crowd of 200,000 told Christians struggling to practice their religion under restrictive Communist governments that they are not forgotten.

"Will our greeting of peace reach our churches of silence on this feast of the risen Christ?" he asked, using the phrase "church of silence" coined by Pope Pius XII for Christians in Communist countries.

"Let these individual souls know, let these restricted and oppressed churches know—if ever the echo of our words this Easter reaches them—that they are not forgotten," the Pope said. "They are assured of our solidarity in faith and love."

The 74-year-old pontiff celebrated mass at a wide altar in St. Peter's Square under a spring sun.

Pope Paul also said he wanted his peace greeting to "reach where there is still the conflict of war, hatred, bloodshed, destruction, and ever more numerous and murderous weaponry."

He named no nations, but Vatican prelates said he had Northern Ireland in mind particularly.

To non-Catholic Christians the Pope said: "Peace, peace be with you, brothers still distant and yet in affection so close."

Dun & Bradstreet Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has ordered all 87 HUD offices across the country to stop doing business with Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., the national credit-rating firm charged by a federal grand jury in connection with a New York real-estate scandal.

At the same time, the department said in an announcement Sunday, HUD's Federal Housing Administration has suspended its national contract with the firm under which it has purchased commercial credit information on businesses and individual enterprises.

Local and regional FHA offices have been ordered not to rely on individual Dun & Bradstreet credit reports for any single-family mortgage-insurance transaction.

Dun & Bradstreet sells credit reports on individual applicants to private mortgage companies that may use them in deciding whether to approve a mortgage loan. The loans then may qualify for FHA mortgage insurance.

Dun & Bradstreet was the largest of 10 firms and 40 individuals named in federal indictments handed down in Brooklyn, N.Y., last week. The indictments charged seven present and former FHA employes, including the top FHA underwriter in New York state, with taking bribes in a conspiracy to sell slum housing to low-income people who couldn't keep up payments on the mortgages.

When the homeowners defaulted on their FHA-insured mortgages, the grand jury said, the FHA had to pay off the loans.

Dun & Bradstreet and one of its officials, Arthur Prescott, were charged with 24 counts each of making false statements indicating the borrowers were able to pay off their loans.

Fun-Seeking Students Clog Florida Beaches

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

Beaches from Daytona Beach to Nassau have blossomed with bikinis, ball games and boys and girls looking for a good time and each other.

The annual rites of spring, spawned by the southward migration of hundreds of thousands of college students fleeing their campuses, is reaching its peak.

But in marked contrast to other years when the beaches were transformed into wall-to-wall bronzed backs, this year's sun worshipers were by and large orderly, law-abiding and even lethargic.

Police in Daytona Beach, jammed with upwards of 200,000 students, said Sunday that arrests have been kept to a minimum and most involve misdemeanors such as illegal consumption of alcohol, public intoxication, and profanity. There have been a few arrests for possession of marijuana, but the biggest headache law enforcement officials have encountered has been the parking problem, said Ray Hutton, chief of the Division of Beach Safety.

Cars bearing license plates from dozens of states fought each other for space along Daytona's world-famous 10 miles of glistening white sands.

In Fort Lauderdale, where the beach boom was born about 15 years ago, authorities complained most about hitchhiking, which violates a city ordinance.

Other offenses committed by the approximately 20,000 migrants included panhandling, sleeping on the bench, and stealing food from grocery stores.

Teeth and Hair

But washing hair and brushing teeth under the many open-air beach showers provided by the city was legal, and long lines formed at these.

In Nassau, where hotel rooms went for at least $40 a day per person double occupancy, innkeepers reported they were booked solid.

The wardrobe was the same among the basking batches—skimpy swim suits, sweatshirts emblazoned with school names of fraternity and sorority affiliations, cut-off jeans, sandals or tennis shoes or bare feet, and lots of peace-symbol jewelry.

Faint odors of beer, suntan oil, and pizza wafted for miles on soft sea breezes as blaring rock music reverberated from musicians blasting out the beat atop flatbed trucks parked alongside palm trees.

Rep. Aspin Plans to Force Release of My Lai Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing the Army of "covering up criminal conspiracy," Rep. Les Aspin today announced he would file suit in federal court to force disclosure of the Peers Commission report on the My Lai massacre.

"The military is guilty of a double coverup—first with the massacre and now with the investigation," the Wisconsin Democrat said. "The American people have a right to know why 25 men were charged with criminal offenses and only one man convicted."

Aspin said the suit would be filed under the Freedom of Information Act, which requires release of government documents unless they fall into nine exempted categories including national security and personnel information.

He said his suit would put the burden of proof on the Pentagon to show why the Peers report should be withheld.

The Peers Commission, headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, was appointed to investigate the circumstances surrounding the massacre of South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in March 1968.

Following its probe, 25 military men, including two general officers, were charged in connection with the massacre or the coverup that allegedly followed.

Charges against 19 of the men, including the two generals, were dropped, and there has been only one conviction in connection with the incident, that of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. on charges of premeditated murder.

The Army has refused to release the Peers report. But reporter Seymour M. Hersh has said it documents a second massacre nearby and contains testimony that twice as many Vietnamese were killed as has been publicly acknowledged. Hersh, who won a Pulitzer Prize for reporting details of the My Lai incident, claims to have a complete transcript of testimony before the Peers Commission.

Executive Still Missing

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Alejandro Lanusse announced late Sunday that the kidnapers of Oberdan Sallustro had been arrested but the Italian automobile man was still missing.

More than 5,000 police kept up the search for the 56-year-old general manager of Fiat's Argentine subsidiary. He was seized March 21 by guerrillas of the Trotskyite People's Revolutionary Army, the ERP.

The police said they raided a house in the northern suburb of Chilavert where Sallustro had been kept, but he had been transferred to another ERP commando group four hours before the police closed in.

Last week, police named six men and a woman as the kidnapers; and unofficial sources said at least six persons had been arrested.

Sallustro's company agreed to pay $1 million ransom demanded by the kidnapers, but Lanusse ordered the firm to do nothing that would aid the guerrillas "concretely or psychologically."

There were rumors Fiat had paid a ransom and that Sallustro had been freed, but company officials denied it.

The ERP said it wanted the money used to buy clothing and school supplies for poor children. It also demanded the release of political and labor prisoners and rehiring of Fiat workers dismissed last year.

Turkish Leaders Act

ANKARA (AP) — President Cevdet Sunay has asked Turkey's political parties to suspend all political activity and agree to government rule by decree.

A weekend note handed to all party leaders warned that "the disease of politics has not been cured" despite the passage of one year since armed forces leaders in March 1971 forced the government to resign or face takeover.

"Continuation of this state of affairs is endangering the democratic regime and the country's integrity and prolongs an atmosphere favorable to anarchy and violence," it said.

Sunay's request for new government powers followed the kidnaping and murder last week of three NATO technicians—two British and a Canadian—by terrorists who were later killed by troops in a mountain village.

The note in effect revived threats of military rule. The 1971 government changes also followed a kidnaping of four U.S. airmen who were freed unhurt.

Since then, Turkey's four armed forces leaders have enjoyed a virtual veto over the government through the national Security Council.

Sunay's note said the end to civil unrest and the reforms demanded in 1971 were not achieved while politicians have continued to engage in "bad habits, behavior and obstructionism."

Democratic and parliamentary principles would remain in force, he said.

The political parties did not react immediately to the president's proposals.

Youth Given Supervision for Theft Counts

The theft of raw hamburger and money resulted in one year's supervision today for a 16-year-old Appleton boy who pleaded guilty to three counts in Outagamie County Juvenile Court.

Judge Raymond P. Dohr withheld a delinquency finding. It was the boy's first court appearance, although police said he had been involved in an earlier shoplifting complaint.

An Appleton detective said the youth stole 10 raw hamburgers, valued at $2.50, from the snack bar at the Super Bowl Jan. 22. The boy discarded the hamburgers in a field, police said.

A Winnebago County sheriff's investigator testified that the boy was involved with two other Appleton youths in prying open a pinball machine Feb. 4 at Sabre Lanes in the Town of Menasha. The youths took $15 from the machine which sustained $19.50 damage.

The other two boys are scheduled to appear in Dohr's court. The youth in court today was charged by Winnebago authorities with aiding and abetting in the theft and with damaging the machine.

Dohr, after placing the boy under the supervision of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services, ordered him to pay $12.98 as his share of restitution for the stolen hamburgers and money and repair of the pinball machine.

MAVES for TREASURER

Vote for Robert Maves on April 4, 1972

There is a resolution before the City Council to merge the Director of Finance Department with the City Treasurer's Office under the leadership of the Treasurer. Bob Maves is the only treasurer candidate who has had the experience and is qualified to accept and perform the duties of the merger. Only he has prepared bond prospectus for city bond issues for Chapman & Cutler, Chicago; processed all vouchers for the city; submitted financial reports on time; prepared initial budget requests; attended all budget committee hearings; prepared the annual publication of the budget, and for five consecutive years he saw to it that the tax rate was set the night before Thanksgiving Day, and above all that you the taxpayer, received your tax bill on time with no confusion as you were subjected to this year. HE DOES HAVE THE MOST ON-THE-JOB TRAINING AND EXPERIENCE. My opponent cannot make this statement truthfully. With the merger he will be policy making. Through the merger he can save you, THE APPLETON TAXPAYERS, a minimum of $50,000.00 annually. He is truly a friend to the tax saving minded people of Appleton, for he, too, is a resident and taxpayer of Appleton. VOTE FOR A HARD WORKING SERVANT. He has served you well and will continue to serve you BETTER AS YOUR CITY TREASURER.

Bob Maves

Why Didn't I Speak at the League

OF WOMEN VOTERS MARCH 28th, 1972 CANDIDATES FORUM AT THE Madison Junior High School?

The League believes this office should be appointive and since it is not a policy making office, nor an important office in the city hall operation, no time is allowed candidates who seek the office on an ELECTIVE BASIS.

Is My Opponent a Widow? No, She is Not a Widow

She is married and her husband is very gainfully employed through his own business known as Appleton Floor Company. He also does installation work for a builder in the city.

Was My Opponent's Appointment Legal? YES

BUT, it is very clear that the whole matter was carefully planned and executed many months in advance so as to eliminate anyone from outside city hall to submit a request to be considered for the vacancy. The vacancy could and should have remained until after the April 4, 1972 election. By popular mandate the city treasurer's post is to be filled by election of the people.

PLEASE NOTE! On September 14th, 1965 a referendum was held in the City of Appleton on the appointment or election of the city treasurer. APPLETON VOTERS BY A 2½ TO 1 MARGIN VOTED TO KEEP THE CITY TREASURER POST ELECTIVE! I call upon the 7,938 voters who voted to keep the office of city treasurer purely elective to support me for City Treasurer and not have a city treasurer who is partially appointive and elective.

Lakers, Knicks and Celts Record Playoff Victories

Los Angeles Lakers forward Happy Hairston (52) gets tangled in the arms of the Chicago Bulls Clifford Ray (14) and Norm Van Lier Sunday. The Lakers won, 108-101, to take a 3-0 lead in the series

Bulls' Effort Lauded by Bill Sharman

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls, feeling somewhat spooked, gave it all they had Sunday only to advance to the brink of elimination by the Los Angeles Lakers in the first round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Lakers, led by their brilliant backcourt tandem of Jerry West and Gail Goodrich, defeated the injury-riddled Bulls 108-101 to make it three straight in their best-of-seven series.

The Lakers could make it a sweep with a victory in Chicago Tuesday night. If they fail, the fifth game will be played in Los Angeles Friday night

With their big center Tom Boerwinkle out for the series with a pulled tendon in the left knee and their great forward combination of Chet Walker and Bob Love seeing only part-time service because of injuries, the Bulls still made a game of it

Climb Into Tie

Three times they trailed by 15 points in the second period but still managed to climb into a 58-58 tie early in the third quarter. The Bulls fought back from large deficits to close within two points late in the third quarter and again in the fourth quarter.

But each time they threatened, West, who scored 31 points, or Goodrich, who finished with 23, would rally the Lakers ahead. Wilt Chamberlain scored 16 and had a joyous

Frazier Scores 30 Points in 110-88 Win Over Bullets

By BRUCE LOWITT

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's too bad we can't save some of those points for the rest of the series," Walt Frazier said.

Frazier got 30 points himself Sunday night as he and the rest of the New York Knicks ran away from Baltimore 110-88 to deadlock their National Basketball Association playoff series at one game apiece. Game No. 3 in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal will be played Tuesday night in Baltimore.

"So we lose by three in overtime," Frazier said of the Bullets' 108-105 opening-game victory Friday night, "then win by 22 this time.

"It doesn't mean a thing. It's still just one game each. It's still a new start," Frazier said "The margin doesn't matter...It'd be nice to be able to put some of these points away for another game."

Sneaks Inside

Walt was devastating in the first half, hitting long jump shots, then sneaking inside to toss in twisting layups and occasional rebounds as the Knicks all but decided the game by the intermission.

He scored 19 of his points in those first two periods while Earl Monroe, the former Bullet starting in place of Dick Barnett at the other guard position, kept New York running and Baltimore off balance with his dazzling passing.

The Knicks, who wound up

Boston Spark Provided By Williams

BOSTON (AP) — "When Arne Williams gets in the game," said Boston Celtics captain John Havlicek, "the team has to move to keep up with him."

And move is just what the Celtics did Sunday as they defeated the Atlanta Hawks 136-113 and took a 2-1 playoff lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association Eastern Conference semifinals.

Williams, who broke into the NBA as a 28-year-old rookie with the expansion San Diego Rockets in 1967, entered the game late in the first quarter and ignited the Boston fast break, the game that coach

10,000 Attend Open House

Brewers Fans' Enthusiasm High

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A high, lazy sun warmed the Milwaukee Brewers' spring training camp at faraway Tempe, Ariz., Sunday, but the bats and balls had been packed away.

Back in Milwaukee, still to be graced by the thaws of spring, an estimated 10,000 persons showed the players' strike hasn't dampened their enthusiasm for baseball by attending the Brewers' Easter civic open house party at County Stadium.

Response to the program, which featured an autographed baseball hunt for youngsters was described by club president Allan H. "Bud" Selig as "one of the most dramatic examples of fan enthusiasm I've seen."

The turnout in 36 degree chill on a day when most people are home with their families prompted American League President Joe Cronin to say it "proves that fans can't wait for the baseball season to begin."

Share Sentiment

Many Brewer players share that sentiment — but, according to pitcher Jim Lonborg, they don't want to jeopardize the players association by backing down to the owners

"Money is not the issue," said Lonborg, the team's player representative. "What is at issue is the strength of our organization.

"Our association is like a family and we have to stick together," Lonborg said. "We feel our willingness to arbitrate shows our good faith. We want every chance available to settle this strike."

Camp was closed Saturday and the rest of the exhibition schedule cancelled. A van hauled equipment to Milwaukee. Most players accepted the club's offer of transportation money to their homes and left.

Dilution Unfair

"We absolutely would not use minor league players to begin the season," Selig said. "We certainly would not want to present the fans anything less than what we have — a first class team. Any dilution would not be fair to the fans."

Atlanta Braves President Bill Bartholomay had suggested the major league open the season with minor league players if the strike persists

The Brewers were in excellent shape when the strike began. Outfielder Billy Conigliaro said a short layoff probably won't hurt. But teammate Dave May said if it lasts more than a week, everyone may have to get in shape all over again.

General Manager Frank Lane said the strike was unfortunate because teams prospects were looking up.

"I've never seen players from five different clubs come to spring training and jell the way they did," he said

Lane kept busy on the personnel front. He sold Frank Tepedino to Syracuse, just two days after the first baseman had been assigned to Evansville. At Syracuse Tepedino will join Danny Walton, the man for whom he was traded last year.

Pitcher Aurelio Monteagudo was sent to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League for cash and a player to be named later.

Horlick Cops Relays

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Well balanced Racine Horlick took the Class A crown and Kohler nosed out Whitewater by a point in Class B Saturday in the 37th annual Madison West high school relays.

Horlick failed to win an event, but had three seconds in piling up 20½ points to 17 for runner-up Rockford, Ill., West.

The seconds were by Alvis Norman at 8.2 seconds in the 70-yard low hurdles, the mile relay team in 3:30 and the 180-yard shuttle hurdle relay team in 2:32

The only Class A record was by Kim Scott of Madison West with a 14-foot, three-inch pole vault. Mike Cole of Freeport, Ill., tied the 60-yard dash mark of 6.3 seconds.

Death Stuns Coaches, Players

Gil Hodges Won Fans With Combination of Bat, Brain

By HUBERT MIZELL

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gil Hodges, a loveable giant who won Dodger fans with his bat and Met hearts with his brain, died on Easter Sunday when he should have been in a baseball uniform.

"Gil was walking," said Eddie Yost, "then tumbled backwards."

Yost and fellow New York Mets' coaches Rube Walker and Joe Pignatano had just finished a fun day on the golf course with their manager.

"Only reason we were playing golf," said Pignatano, "was that the players' strike put us out of business. Otherwise, we'd been over in the West Palm Beach ballpark playing the Atlanta Braves."

Yost still was stunned Sunday night

"Gil had a beer with us," said the man who played 18 years as a major league infielder. "I think he also ate a piece of cake. Gil, Piggy, Rube, and me shot the bull with Jack Sanford for awhile."

Now Golf Pro

Sanford, a former star pitcher for the Phillies and Giants, is now golf pro at the public course that sits beside the Ramada Inn on the Lake.

Hodges and his coaches finally said goodbye to Sanford and began walking back to the motel.

Hodges, 6 feet 3 and 205 pounds with hands like a bear, dropped to the ground in front of room 158

Gil Hodges

Despite speedy first aid, the man who would have celebrated his 48th birthday Tuesday was dead before he reached Good Samaritan Hospital.

The native of Princeton, Ind., signed with the Brooklyn Dodgers for a $1,000 bonus in 1943 and became a regular after returning from the Marines in 1947.

Hodges was a brilliant first baseman for 11 seasons in Brooklyn, which became his permanent home, and went west with the Dodgers in 1958 for four more years in a Los Angeles uniform.

With Senators

After two part-time seasons back with a budding New York club called the Mets in 1962-63, Hodges quit to become manager of the Washington Senators for five years through 1967.

His playing career showed a still-standing record of 14 bases-loaded homers along with

Penguins Defeat Blues to Qualify For Playoffs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Penguins are in the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs thanks to a fortuitous set of circumstances.

The Penguins landed fourth place in the West, the last playoff spot open, by defeating St. Louis 6-2 Sunday night in the windup of the regular NHL season.

But consider: to stay alive they had to least tie Philadelphia Saturday night. This they did at 4-4 on Greg Polis' goal with 47 seconds left to play

Then, on Sunday, Buffalo had to beat Philadelphia to keep Pittsburgh' hopes alive while the Penguins defeated the Blues. The Sabres, down 2-0, rallied to trip Philadelphia 3-2 on Gerry Meehan's 30-foot goal with just four seconds to play.

The Penguins' victory over the Blues gave them an identical season mark of 26-38-14 and a tie with Philadelphia. The playoff spot went to the Penguins because they beat the Flyers in their season series 3-2-1.

Full Schedule

So now the Penguins go against the Chicago Black Hawks at Chicago in the opening of the Stanley Cup playoffs Wednesday night with a full four - game schedule. In the other games, Toronto is at Boston, Montreal at New York and St. Louis at Minnesota.

Bobby Hull scored twice to reach the 50-goal mark for the fifth time in his career as the Black Hawks closed out their regular season by whipping Detroit 6-1.

Montreal beat New York 6-5 as the Rangers' Vic Hadfield became only the sixth player in NHL history to tally 50 goals in one season.

Boston down Toronto 6-4 and Vancouver overcame Minnesota 4-1 in Sunday's other games. Goals by Terry O'Reilly and Fred Stanfield early in the third period broke a 3-3 tie and won for the Bruins over the Leafs.

time slapping would be shots out of bounds.

"It was a tremendous effort by the Bulls," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman. "They gave 110 per cent. We had to shoot well to win and we did."

Sharman explained that he relieved Goodrich at times in favor of Pat Riley in order to stop Norm Van Lier who led the Bulls with 22 points.

"Van Lier kept getting in the middle," said Sharman, "so we put Riley in to play him tough. Goodrich is more offensive minded and if he had to play Van Lier tough we were afraid he'd tire."

Dick Motta, coach of the Bulls, said "I told my players after the game they gave me more than I deserved. They gave all they had and more."

Asked about the loss of Boerwinkle, Motta said "If anybody knows anything about basketball, they'd know what the loss of Tom means to us.

"At times we had to have Love on Chamberlain," said Motta. "It's not fair to ask Love to play against Wilt. In fact, I think it embarrassed Wilt a little bit.

"The series new? It's been a spooky series for us. Balls not going in the basket. Loose balls going off our fingers. We break up a pass and they get the ball. We block a shot and it goes into their hands.

"Yet we're supposed to be the hustling, scrambling team But we'll be there Tuesday and give it a good effort."

outrebounding the Bullets 53-37 — Dave DeBusschere and Jerry Lucas combined for 26 of them for New York — took a 26-17 lead into the second period.

Then Baltimore, already shooting below par, fell apart completely as the Knicks outscored the visitors 16-3 in a 4½-minute span to take a 22-point lead. The Bullets cut it to 18 at 56-38 by halftime.

As Frazier cooled off in the second half, DeBusschere got hot, bombing in long and short shots for 16 of his 29 points in those final two periods. Lucas wound up with 20.

Archie Clark of the Bullets, meanwhile, was unable to get untracked as the Knicks doubleteamed him much of the way.

Only 6 of 20

The Baltimore guard, who had poured in 38 points to lead his team to that first-game triumph, connected on only six of 20 field goal attempts to top the Bullets with just 18 points. Wes Unseld added 16 and Mike Riordan and Jack Martin had 13 apiece.

The second half was a virtual copy of the first. The Bullets slowly chipped away at the New York lead, cutting it to 12 and trailing 79-66 going into the final period. But another cold spell—with the Knicks running off a dozen points in a row—finished them off.

Older Players React

Hire Minor Leaguers To Keep Baseball Alive, Says Slaughter

By BOB CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

There is a decided generation gap between today's striking major league baseball players and their older counterparts who have retired to the Carolinas.

Most of the old-timers never made anything near the average salaries pulled down by major leaguers of less talent today. Some of them have begun drawing their pensions at fixed rates, so any improvement in the pension won't benefit them any.

And basically, they just can't understand why anyone who gets paid for playing baseball would complain about his lot.

"I never sent a contract back in my life," said Enos "Country" Slaughter, who played for the Cardinals and the Yankees until 1959. "The most I ever got was $25,000 in the year after I hit .336. That year I hit .291, so they cut me to $21,500 the next year."

Slaughter, now the baseball coach at Duke University, said the owners should "hire minor leaguers and keep the game going. Times have changed since my days with Branch Rickey, (who owned the Cardinals and was a notorious hard bargainer) but I think the players are biting the hand that feeds them," he said.

Under the rules of the pension plan, Slaughter's stipend was frozen in 1966 when he turned 50 and began to collect it. He did not share in the higher benefits which began in 1967, nor will he realize anything from the current negotiations.

But Bobby Richardson, an All-Star second-baseman for the Yankees until 1966, has not started to collect, so the players are, in effect, negotiating for him, too. Richardson, however, would not have struck.

"The pension plan is good now, but I sympathize with the players for trying to make it better. But it's not worth a strike, and I think the players will realize that within a few days," he said from his home in Sumter, S.C.

Richardson, now the baseball coach at the University of South Carolina, was a player representative with the Yankees. "I think Marvin Miller, who was only a legal advisor when I was active, has pushed the players into this," he said.

Ownership Different

"Of course," he added, "ownership is different. Owners used to be sportsmen who knew the players. Now, the owner is more likely to be a corporation or a syndicate." The Yankees, soon after Richardson retired, were purchased by CBS.

Rep. Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, R-N.C., a pitcher with St. Louis and Pittsburgh until 1962, said, "It's time the players and the owners realized that baseball belongs to the little leaguers, the high schoolers and the fans."

Mizell said baseball's continuing status of exemption from the antitrust laws could not be helped by actions such as the strike.

Archer Wins Greensboro Playoff

Creek Claims Palmer, Then Aaron

By BOB GREEN

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Arnold Palmer suffered his biggest collapse since the 1966 U.S. Open. Gary Player was disqualified for failing to sign his scorecard And George Archer had to unpack his car to win the golf tournament.

"I had the car all packed and ready to go," Archer recalled Sunday after Palmer's collapse gave him a second chance in the $200,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I was watching television and when I saw Arnold make that six I said, 'Oops, let's go get the clubs.' It didn't take long to get 'em."

Archer beat Tommy Aaron on the second hole of sudden death. Palmer finished third, tied with Dave Stockton, Chi Chi Rodriguez and J.C. Snead

Archer and Aaron were in the clubhouse with scores of 12-under-par 272s when the dynamic Palmer burst out of a four-way tie for the lead with consecutive birdies on the 14th and 15th holes.

Led by 2

A 15-footer on the 15th gave the 42-year-old Palmer a two-stroke lead with three holes to play in the chase for the $40,000 first prize, a check that would have again given him the all-time money winning lead.

A broad smile creased his face when he went to the 16th tee on the Sedgefield Country Club course, a tough, 225-yard par three.

His usual massive gallery groaned when his wood shot began hooking far to the left, and came to rest in a shallow creek.

Palmer elected to play it out of the creek, and splashed it up short of a sand trap—but still had the bunker to negotiate to reach the green.

He dumped the little chip square in the trap, blasted out and two-putted for a six that knocked him out of the lead and put him one stroke behind.

Left Immediately

Palmer parred in, then shouldered past officials, shrugged off newsman and didn't even go to the locker room The pilot of his private plane had to run to keep up as he left immediately without speaking to anyone

That triple bogey represented his biggest collapse since he blew a seven stroke lead with nine holes to play in the 1966 U.S. Open, which he lost in a playoff to Billy Casper He had a final round 70 for 273

And the big six left it up to the 6-foot-6 Archer and the smooth-swinging Aaron to battle it out in sudden death—the seventh playoff of the season and the second time they'd faced each other.

Both made routine pars on the first extra hole, the 15th. And then the 16th snapped up Aaron Archer, who won the Los Angeles Open in a playoff with Aaron and Dave Hill, put his tee shot on the green.

Found Creek

But Aaron found another branch of the creek on the other side of the green, dropped out, chipped short and missed a long putt. He was lying four when Archer two-putted from 25 feet for the par that gave the former ranch hand his 10th tour title

"I thought I had a chance," said Archer, one of the first to finish the double round of 36 holes, forced when Friday's round was rained out

"But when Arnold made those two birdies (to go two strokes in front) I figured it was all over. He had the momentum going and I figured he would par in and win it."

Archer had a final-round 65, including a 40-foot par saving putt after he had hit into a water hazard, on the 17th and another one from about the same distance for a birdie on the 18th.

He was tied at 272 with Aaron, who had a closing 67.

Gary Player Philosophical

'Disqualification Not So Bad'

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Gary Player took a characteristically philosophical even optimistic view of the disqualification that may have cost him the $40,000 first prize in the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

"You know, something bad can happen, but if you put it in its proper place, it's not so bad after all," the black-clad little warrior from South Africa said Sunday.

"Just think of poor Gene Littler, and this isn't so bad."

The veteran Littler, a former U.S. Open champion called by Player "one of the finest gentlemen I've ever met in my life," is scheduled for an operation Tuesday. He has cancer of the lymph glands.

Player Hot

Player, winner of last week's Greater New Orleans Open and one of the hottest players on the tour at the moment, bolted into strong contention with a five-under-par 67 in the first of two rounds Sunday.

He was just one stroke off the lead at that time but, in his haste to catch a quick lunch before beginning the second 18 holes, he failed to sign his scorecard. And he was disqualified—eliminated from the field. It's the rules of golf.

"There are certain rules in this life and we must abide by them," Player said.

"This was my responsibility. I failed to meet it so I must suffer the consequences."

In this case the consequences may have been the $40,000 first prize Player definitely was on the move and was challenging in the weather-plagued tournament that had a 36-hole windup scheduled when Friday's round was rained out

Strike Situation Still Unchanged

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball completed its lost weekend and the countdown to opening — or non-opening — day reached two with more meetings scheduled today in an attempt to settle the player's strike in a pension dispute with the owners.

"The situation remains the same," John Gaherin, representing the owners said following Sunday's session with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association. "There is no progress towards a settlement. We will meet again Monday."

Miller said today's get-together probably would be enlarged from his head-to-head weekend meetings with Gaherin. "He's been talking about a fuller have one, too," Miller said.

Rather Fruitless

He added that the weekend meetings were spent "rephrasing and reviewing positions. Really, it's been rather fruitless Mr. Gaherin has no authority to make any new offer He is pretending to bargain"

The players went on strike Saturday seeking contributions from the owners above the one-and-only $400,000 offer for the health care segment of the pension package.

They contend that an $817,000 surplus in the pension fund — resulting from increased interest rates on loans, overfunding and overestimating payments for permanently disabled players — plus no more than $11,000 from each of the 24 major league clubs would make up the 17 per cent pension rise they seek.

Baseball's current pension plan, covering any player active from 1959 on, provides a pension after four years service. Players, who don't contribute a dime to the plan, may start drawing a pension at their 45th birthday.

A four-year player, at 45, gets $174.34 a month. With 10 years service, the pension at 45 is $436 36 monthly, and $582 36 after 20 eyars. The figures, for the same years of service, at age 65 are $618.04, $1,545.11 and $1,915.11.

Players Scatter

Most players scattered from their training camps, but 23 members of the Kansas City Royals worked out in civilian clothes at a junior college in Fort Myers, Fla., and all but four of the Padres were to begin unsupervised workouts today in San Diego.

Meanwhile, Dick O'Connell, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, said he was not optimistic over settlement of the walkout.

"I see no indications of a quick settlement," he said. "I don't see any signs of either side budging."

'Speedy' Thompson Dies During Race

CHARLOTTE, N C (AP) — One-time stock car racing great Alfred B. "Speedy" Thompson died Sunday while racing on a dirt track near Charlotte.

The cause of his death was not announced pending an autopsy. But officials of Metrolina Fairgrounds Speedway said Thompson's car stopped during a race, and that rescue crews found he had stopped breathing.

The officials said Thompson was revived while being taken to a hospital, but he was pronounced dead by the time he reached the hospital

Thompson, 45, won the Southern 500 at Dadlington, S. C., in 1957 and the first National 400 (now 500) at Charlotte Motor Speedway in 1960. He retired from NASCAR G.and National competition in 1961, but in 1970 he returned to racing on dirt tracks near his hometown of Charlotte.

He is still among NASCAR's top 10 all-time event winners, with most of his victories coming on the dirt tracks that were standard throughout the South during the sports early years.

When not racing Thompson owned and operated a welding shop at nearby Monroe.

Key Game Tuesday

Tension Mounts for Warriors

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Golden State Warriors, trailing the Milwaukee Bucks 1-2 in the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinals, are under tremendous pressure for a home court win here Tuesday night.

The Warriors bowed to the Bucks Saturday night, 122-94, after Milwaukee guard Lucius Allen sparked a critical third quarter rally He scored six points in the period while the Bucks outscored the Warriors 15-2

"We need to win at least one game here," said Allen. "We weren't going to let the opportunity get away. Now the pressure is definitely on the Warriors."

The National Basketball Association's defending champions, led by Kareem Abdul Jabar, connected on 49 per cent of their floor shots, compared to 37 per cent for the Warriors. The Bucks also led in rebounds, garnering 55 to the Warriors' 51

The Warriors, however, led in turnovers 22-14

"We left it up to one or two people," said Warriors coach Al Attles. "We didn't play like a team. With 16 turnovers, we started to get cautious. We didn't penetrate and you can't beat Milwaukee if you don't.

The Warriors also dropped Thursday night's game in Milwaukee 119-103, failing to penetrate the Jabbar-led defense.

"The big guy Jabbar intimidates you," said Jeff Mullins, who averaged 21.5 in the first two games but scored only four Saturday. "You're always looking for him instead of concentrating on the basket."

Following Tuesday's game, the teams move back to Milwaukee for the fifth game Thursday night.

Artie Williams Sparks Celts

Tom Heinsohn likes to play best.

The Celtics led by six at the end of the first quarter, 33-27, thanks mostly to Jo Joe White, who had scored 15 of his 29 points. Then in the second quarter Williams took over and began moving his team. The Celtics, playing without center Dave Cowens, who sat out almost half the game in foul trouble, outscored the Hawks 41-26 in the period, giving them a 74-53 halftime lead. From that point on, Atlanta was unable to reduce the deficit to less than eight.

'Got Some Rebounds'

"Artie got some rebounds for us when we weren't getting any," Heinsohn said. "And he got us running off the rebounds."

In the fourth quarter, after Atlanta had battled back to within striking distance, Williams not only got the Celtics running again, but decided to take over the scoring duties too, scored 15 of his 19 points while making seven of 10 attempts from the floor.

"Atlanta forgot that he's a shooter, too," said Heinsohn. "They gambled on his passing the ball several times, but he shot and scored."

Richie Guerin, coach of the Hawks, indicated his team might have been caught a bit off guard by the Williams scoring spree.

"He's not usually that offensive-minded," Guerin said. "He usually takes a few layups, but today he also was shooting a few outside jump shots."

Guerin said he was pleased that his team was able to come back twice in the second half after being down by 21 points.

"That's great maturity for his team," he said. "They've come a long way since the start of the season. The Celtics shot the ball well in the second quarter. That's not a deficiency on our part, but they had too many fast breaks—we counted eight. That means our defense was weak in the backcourt."

Scores 31 Points

Havlicek, who had 31 points, said the Celtics had more success opening up the lane than in their 113-104 loss at Atlanta Friday.

"We were able to go up the middle," Havlicek said. "Then when they collapsed we were hitting the open man for the 15-foot perimeter shot. Those are good shots. If you don't hit them, you're in trouble."

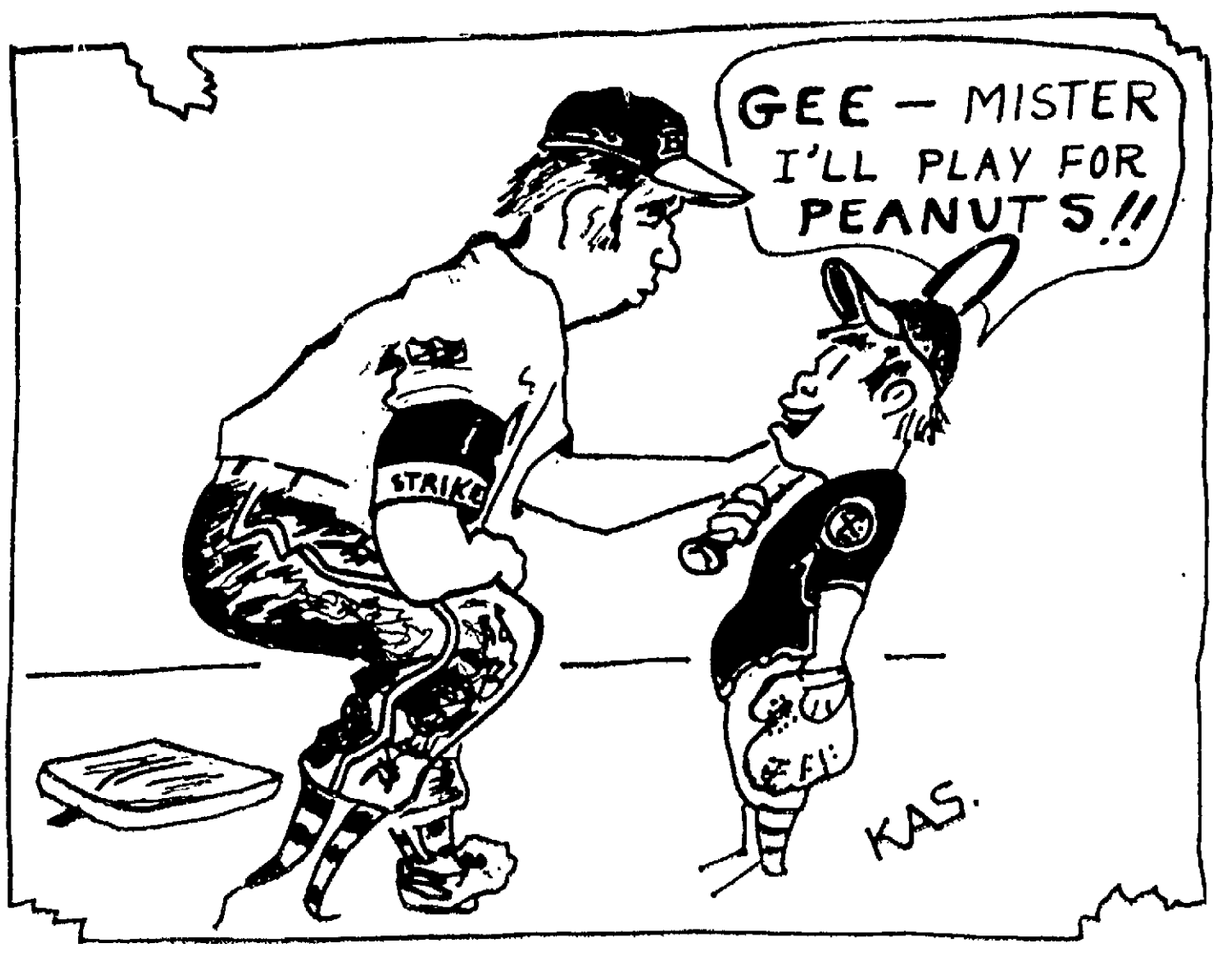

Peter Maravich led the Atlanta scoring with 37 points while Walt Bellamy had 21. Lou Hudson, who had averaged 35 points in the first two playoff games, was held to 19, including eight in the fourth quarter.

The series resumes Tuesday night at Atlanta.

U.S. Hockey Team Fails to Regain 'A' Classification

BUCHAREST (AP) — The United States failed to regain a spot in the AAA group for the world hockey championships when Poland defeated East Germany 3-2 Sunday and won the BBB-group championships with an unbeaten record of six straight victories.

The United States, silver medal winner at the recent Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan and favored to return to the AAA group, finished second after defeating Romania 4-2 for a won-lost record of 5-1. The Americans' lone defeat came Saturday night at the hands of Poland, 6-5.

This year's AAA-group world championships will be played at Prague starting Friday and continuing through April 22.

Gil Hodges Succumbs

1,274 runs batted in, a .273 career average, seven World Series, eight All-Star games and a National League record of 370 home runs by a right-handed hitter which has since been surpassed by such modern sluggers as Willie Mays and Hank Aaron.

Hodges came home to New York for a third time in 1968 to manage the Mets, a team more famed for laughs than victories.

After a ninth-place finish the first summer, Hodges marched the Mets to a startling NL pennant and World series thumping of the Baltimore Orioles in '69.

"We're all still a little glassy-eyed," Mets General Manager Bob Scheffing said late Sunday.

"Gil never looked better. He had recovered so well from that attack in Atlanta that most people had forgotten it."

Hodges was felled Sept. 24, 1968, during the Mets' final series the year before the World Series miracle. Until then, he had never suffered heart ailments.

Hodges' body was to be flown to New York today on a United Airlines charter with the Yankees, his long time crosstown rivals.

Met officials refused speculation on a successor to Hodges. "We are thinking about nothing but his family now," said board chairman Donald Grant. "I know its a question reporters must ask, but we just can't think about it at a time of shock such as this."

Walker, an ex-pitcher who was Hodges' Brooklyn teammate in the early 50s, was put in charge when Gil suffered his first attack four years ago.

Interim Situation

Much the same type of interim situation was expected should the players return to work in time to open the season before the New York club can choose a new leader.

Hodges' funeral arrangements in Brooklyn were being handled by the Torregrossa Funeral Home, not far from 3472 Bedford Avenue where Gil's family lived and just down the street from the site where Ebbets Field once stood in the day when Hodges was wowing 'em as a slugger.

Keith Fuerst Repeats

WHEATON, Ill. (AP) — Defending team champion California State at Fullerton and individual title-holder John Crosby of Southern Connecticut State have proven equal to the task of keeping their first place standing in the NCAA College Division Gymnastics meet.

Three days of gymnastic competition ended Saturday night at Wheaton College.

California State won the team championship by 7.50 points, running up a total of 160.55. Southern Connecticut was second with 153.05 and San Fernando Valley State was third with 151.20.

Crosby took the over-all individual title by a similarly wide margin. He had a point of 18.10 which was almost two points better than teammate Jay Whelan who finished second with 17.40.

Crosby and Whelan are both considered prime prospects for the 1972 Summer Olympics.

Crosby also took two individual titles in separate competitions Saturday and tied for first in another.

Three other competitions for individuals produced winners from three different schools.

In the pommel horse, Steve Fox of the University of Illinois-Chicago was the winner with 17.825 and teammate Roger Wojtkiewicz finished second with 17.475.

Eastern Illinois University's Keith Fuerst (of Appleton) won the still ring contest with 18.40. In second place was Guy Nelson of California State-Fullerton with 18.05. Fuerst won the still rings last year also.

Rick Mashler of San Fernando Valley State took the high bar with 18.175 and Leonard Caling, the defending champion in this contest, from California State-Fullerton had to settle for second with 18.05.

Super Sonics Seek Coach

SEATTLE (AP) — Lenny Wilkens, who led Seattle to its best-ever National Basketball Association finish this year while combining the talents of coach and player, says his work will be confined to the court next season.

Wilkens, 34, announced Sunday he is abandoning his coaching duties after three seasons in the dual role. His decision makes the SuperSonics the fourth NBA team in the post-season market for a new coach. Others are Portland, Buffalo and Philadelphia.

"I feel that I can continue to make a valuable contribution to the Sonics as a player next season and in the future," Wilkens said in a joint announcement with Sonics owner Sam Schulman.

Wilkens expressed disappointment that the Sonics still had never made the NBA playoffs after five seasons.

The Sonics finished their season with a 47-35 record and dueled Golden State closely for the second Pacific Division playoff spot until being crippled late in the year with injuries to key players.

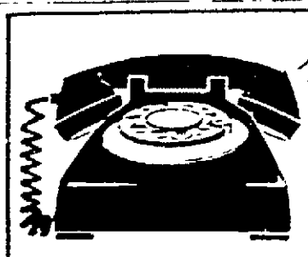

"My biggest disappointment was the injuries down the stretch this season," Wilkens said. "Without them there was no doubt we would have been in the playoffs."

Wilkens, a guard, was named player-coach in 1969 following the resignation of Al Bianchi. In his first two seasons at the helm the Sonics had 36-46 and 38-44 records.

Schulman said Seattle would begin seeking a coaching successor immediately, and had a half-dozen candidates for consideration.

Muskie Shifts Tactics In Blasting McGovern

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Faced with a possible third or fourth place finish in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary, Sen. Edmund Muskie has abruptly changed tactics and started blasting Sen. George McGovern.

The attacks on McGovern's voting record, delivered Saturday as Muskie campaigned at Eau Claire and Viroqua in Western Wisconsin, reflected the view of the Muskie strategists that McGovern has scored heavily here with his campaign theme of "right from the start."

Muskie challenged that theme, as it relates to McGovern's record on Vietnam, in replying to a question from a Racine high school student last Thursday, but added that he saw little reason for a detailed analysis of senatorial voting records.

But on Saturday morning, speaking to his supporters in a building at the Eau Claire airport, Muskie criticized McGovern for a 1966 vote on a key labor issue, charging that the senator — who has been wooing blue collar support — had opposed the effort to repeal section 14-b of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

Section 14-b is of crucial importance to organized labor, since it permits states to enact so-called "right to work" laws that make it impossible to negotiate contracts calling for union membership as a condition of employment.

Needs Miracle

Asked about his switch in tactics, which came with a concession he needs a "miracle" to win here, Muskie said that "frankly, I'm a little fed up" with what he termed "negative campaigning" against him by McGovern forces. "I just thought maybe this was the time to respond a little," he said.

The second attack of the day on McGovern came in a question period following a farm speech.

A 23-year-old Muskie worker, John Whelley, asked Muskie what the important differences were between himself and the other candidates.

Muskie, with details his staff said had been prepared for some time, accused McGovern of voting against closing tax loopholes for "giant aluminum interests" and "executive profits from stock option plans;" said McGovern had voted to cut Medicare benefits and to allow "big manufacturers to fix minimum retail prices; and charged he had voted against "allowing students to deduct the cost of tuition, books and other educational expenses" from income taxes.

New Target

McGovern, whose strength has been evident to reporters traveling around Wisconsin, is the newest target of Muskie in the days since his pre-New Hampshire primary plan of confining criticism to President Nixon.

In Florida, he attacked the front-runner there, Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. In Wisconsin he took out after Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, rated the early favorite in this crucial primary.

Now, in the aftermath of a labor-commissioned poll putting McGovern ahead, he has started to blast the South Dakota senator.

With the two senators scheduled to clash head-on in the April 25 Massachusetts primary, Muskie's attacks lay the basis for increasingly bitter infighting as the long primary battle for the Democratic presidential nomination reaches the crucial stage.

State Joins National Search For Defective Mack Trucks

MADISON — The Wisconsin division of motor vehicles has announced that all truck weighing stations and members of the State Patrol are joining a nationwide search for some 27,000 Mack trucks which may be on the road with dangerous defects.

James O. Peterson, administrator of motor vehicles, said the action was taken following publication of a consumer bulletin by the U. S. Department of Transportation's traffic safety administration to speed up a truck recall aimed at certain Mack truck models.

Peterson said copies of the bulletin have been sent to all 27 permanent truck weighing stations and to members of the bureau of enforcement who man mobile truck scales. The State Patrol is also joining the search to locate the models with the potential dangerous defect.

Peterson said the recall bulletin affects certain models manufactured between 1956 and 1969. Many of the older model Mack trucks are now in the hands of third and fourth owners, whom the manufacturer has no way of tracing and notifying of the possible defect.

The bulletin advises immediate replacement of an aluminum spring "cap" with an iron cap which will be furnished by Mack truck dealers at no charge to owners.

The bulletin said there have been three recent accidents involving the trucks listed in the recall, in which two fatalities occurred.

Peterson said owners of these trucks are strongly urged not to drive them if inspection reveals any evidence of cracks or damage near the bolt holes on the spring caps.

Politics Leads To Covering Nude Dancers

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — Political pressure is forcing tavern owners to dress their dancing girls in costume and abandon nude performances, a spokesman said Sunday.

Tavern proprietor Mark de Foor said in a statement, "as a direct response to the power amassed by the city administration and brought to bear against us, we announce that we will comply with the city council resolution on dress for entertainers."

Several Kenosha and Racine taverns which have featured nude dancing went to court a year ago when city officials refused to renew their liquor licenses.

Judge John Reynolds of U.S. District Court issued a temporary restraining order against the city action. A three-judge panel is to meet in Milwaukee April 21 to decide whether officials acted properly.

De Foor said his Kenosha statement did not necessarily apply to Racine tavern owners.

Inside Report

Blue-Collar Workers Are Cool Towards Muskie in Wisconsin

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

STEVENS POINT, Wis. — The inability of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie to move a blue-collar audience that came to cheer him here this week during the Wisconsin Presidential primary campaign means the basic problems which impede his drive for the Democratic nomination remain unsolved.

It was the widely publicized "new" Muskie speaking at a late-afternoon rally in Stevens Point's American Legion Hall — the rhetoric tauter, more specific, more issue-oriented. But the effect on an overflow crowd was as soporific as the "old" Muskie. The workingmen who greeted Muskie enthusiastically, some with shouts in Polish, grew glassy-eyed and silent as the half-hour speech wore on.

Evans

Novak

Such episodes during Muskie's intensive two week campaign here suggest that the implications of Wisconsin may be more ominous than his managers now expect. What would damage Muskie far more than merely a third-place finish next Tuesday behind Sens. Hubert Humphrey and George McGovern is further proof that Muskie has lost the blue-collar vote.

Whether this has ideological roots is a question of immense importance for Muskie. His managers firmly deny that his ever-closer identification with the Democratic party's left wing has cost working-class support. If their assessment is wrong, it shall have profound political consequences; the "new" Muskie in Wisconsin is more identified with left Democrats than ever.

Although Muskie's plunge in Wisconsin is part of his two-month national slump, his loss of support among ethnic workingmen is more pronounced and more shocking. His own aides were startled by Muskie's decline on the overwhelmingly Catholic, heavily Polish south side of Milwaukee (though he still narrowly runs first there).

Unquestionably the slump is partially nonideological. Even with a better new basic speech, Muskie lacks the electricity given off by the hard-campaigning Humphrey. Now lacking the aura of a frontrunner, he seems merely another pedestrian orator.

Grows Tired

But even the "new" Muskie disappears when, as usually happens every evening, the Senator grows tired. A few hours after his Stevens Point speech, he reverted to the "old" Muskie at a Green Bay rally with a highly moralistic lecture which, after 37 minutes, anesthetized the large working-class audience.

Less certain is whether Muskie's leftward movement is losing blue-collar support. Suddenly his attacks on Humphrey over the anti-ballistic missile, Lockheed loan and space shuttle — embodying issues extremely popular in the liberal suburbs — do not seem to inspire working-class listeners.

More definitely, Muskie's positions long ago lost him support from the veteran Congressman representing Milwaukee's southside, Rep. Clement Zablocki, who unofficially prefers Sen. Henry M. Jackson or Humphrey over his fellow Polish-American. When Muskie's bandwagon was rolling a few months ago, no Muskie lieutenant cared about Zablocki's nonsupport. Now, some privately concede they could use his help.

In any event, the Florida results and Humphrey's rise have accelerated Muskie's leftward push. Hoping to someday inherit McGovern's suburban and campus support, Muskie does not criticize McGovern while steadily smiting Humphrey. The anti-war, anti-space, anti-defense refrain in Muskie's speeches is geared to McGovern's liberal constituency.

Revived Morale

However this affects the working-class voter, it has revived the morale of the candidate and his staff. John F. English, Muskie's national political coordinator who played no part in the New Hampshire and Florida primaries, is in virtual command here and has rebuilt the campaign's self-confidence. Besides English, a new speech and a new speechwriter have transformed the mood of the campaign from the dark days of Florida.

Nevertheless, there remains a possibility that Muskie, English, et al., do not know where their real constitutency lies. When Muskie lunched with several farm families in Stevens Point, a chicken farmer wearing a Muskie button complained that "all the legislation passed in Washington is in favor of the deadbeat." Muskie brushed him off, quickly moving to another subject.

Later, the farmer told us he did not care much for Muskie's reply but still supported him. Why? Because, in contrast to other candidates, "Muskie doesn't butter up to the students." That is the voice of Archie Bunker, once a major source of Ed Muskie's strength but now — unlike the loyal chicken farmer — far less attracted to him.

SHERWOOD — New uniforms for the minor division of the Tri-County Baseball League will be purchased by the Lions Club, the group agreed last week.

The club will spend about $300 for the nylon uniforms. Three years ago the Lions purchased uniforms for the major division. The boys buy their own caps.

The Lions have made a donation of $100 to the heart service facility at Appleton Memorial Hospital and have given $25 to St. John-Sacred Heart Catholic School here to go toward the purchase of a tape recorder to be used in conjunction with a listening center.

Newly elected officers are David Fredericks, third vice president; Les Schultz, secretary; Raymond Halbach, tail twister; Adrian Mader, Lion tamer; and Joseph Diedrich and Hilard Brantmeier, directors. They will be installed at the club's annual meeting soon.

We're independent thinkers.
We're for Jackson.

Maybe you tend to vote like we do in elections.

Normally we favor one political party, but when it comes to selecting the man who might run this country for four years, we reserve the right to show our independence.

In that spirit, we say Senator Henry M. Jackson stands head and shoulders above all the other candidates seeking the Democratic nomination.

What we like about Jackson is his common sense. And his uncommon courage. For 31 years Jackson has fought for healthy change in this country. He hasn't bowed to the radical wings of either party. He knows the best changes are not radical—but changes brought about by steady, thoughtful work.

And Jackson is not a man who panics. He doesn't waver under political pressure. He stands squarely for what he believes. Popular or unpopular. He does what's right for the country. The way a President should.

That's why we would feel a lot safer with a man like Henry Jackson in the White House. And that's why we're willing to stand up.

Join us April 4. Jackson.
Let's keep the country in mind.

How Can We Offer All This Protection For So Little?

UNION FIDELITY ENROLLS A LARGE NUMBER OF PEOPLE AT ONE TIME . . . direct by mail. This highly efficient "mass enrollment" eliminates salesmen and other costly overhead — cutting our costs to the bone. Benefits for accident are, of course, payable from the very first day.

Here's What Your Plan Covers

The Tax-Free Extra Cash Plan covers you for EVERYTHING but the following minimum necessary exclusions: hospitalization caused by mental disorders; acts of war; or care provided in a federal government hospital. Under the Husband-Wife Plan or All-Family Plan, EVEN MATERNITY BENEFITS ARE PROVIDED if you so desire. Even sicknesses you have previously had, or have right now, will be covered after the policy is in force for only 2 years.

Benefits for accident are payable from the very first day the policy is in force. Benefits for sickness are paid immediately after the third day in the hospital when the policy has been in force for only 30 days. You will be covered for the following diseases when the loss occurs after the policy has been in force for 6 months, provided they are not pre-existing: tuberculosis, gall bladder disorders, diabetes, cancer, heart or circulatory disease or disturbance, hernia, sickness resulting in surgery, or disease of the generative organs.

16 Important Questions Answered

That tell you how Union Fidelity's $1000.00-a-Month Tax-Free Cash Plan gives you the protection you need—at amazingly low cost!

1. How much will this policy pay me when I go to the hospital?
You will be paid at the rate of $1000.00 a month ($33.34 per day) or $500.00 a month ($16.67 per day) depending on the plan you select. If you choose the $1000.00 a month plan, you will receive $1000.00 a month for yourself under the Individual Plan. Under the Husband-Wife Plan or All-Family Plan, you will also receive cash when covered family members go to the hospital: $1000.00 a month for you, $750.00 a month for your wife, and $500.00 a month for each child. Maternity benefits for your wife are $750.00 a month. Folks over 65 receive $500.00 a month for the first two months, then $1000.00 a month for the rest of their confinement.

2. When do my cash benefits start?
Benefits start from the day you enter the hospital for accident and immediately after the 3rd day for hospitalization as a result of sickness. What's more, you'll continue receiving Tax-Free Extra Cash for as long as 60 full months — as much as $60,000.00.

3. When does this policy become effective?
It will go into force the very same day we issue your policy (generally the day we receive your Enrollment Form and $1 for the first month's coverage).

4. Why do I need your Extra Cash Plan in addition to my other insurance?
Chances are your present hospital insurance won't cover all your hospital and medical expenses. Even if it did, you will still need extra cash to cover all your household expenses.

5. How may I use my Tax-Free Extra Cash?
Spend it any way you wish—for hospital and doctor bills, rent, food, household expenses or anything else. You alone decide how to use the money.

6. What other advantages are there of joining this Plan now?
By joining now you do not need to complete a regular application — just the brief form in the lower right-hand corner of this page. Also, during this enrollment period, there are no other qualifications — no "waivers" or restrictive endorsements can be put on your policy.

7. Will I be paid if I am in the hospital for less than a full month?
Of course you will. You will receive cash at the rate of $33.34 per day from the first day for accident and after the third day for sickness.

8. Do I need a statement from my doctor to join?
Definitely not. Just fill in the Enrollment Form and send it off today with $1.00.

9. Can you drop me?
No. Your policy is Guaranteed Renewable for Life. We will never cancel or refuse to renew your policy as long as you make your premium payments on time. You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.

10. Can you raise my rates?
You cannot be singled out for a rate increase. Your rates can only change if there is a general rate adjustment—up or down—on all policies of this type in your entire state.

11. Now tell me — what's the catch? What doesn't my plan cover?
There is no "catch". As stated in this advertisement, your plan covers you for everything except certain minimum necessary exclusions. In fact, even conditions you already have will be covered after your policy has been in force for only two years.

12. May I cancel my coverage?
This Plan is a must for folks over 65. You can cancel for any reason any time you wish without penalty. Extra Cash will help fill the gap left by Medicare.

13. Can other members of my family take advantage of this special offer?
Your whole family is welcome to join. Just add their names to the Enrollment Form when you send it in.

14. Why is this offer good for a limited time only?
Because by enrolling a large number of people at the same time, our underwriting, processing and policy issue costs can be kept at a minimum. These savings, of course, are passed on to you.

15. How does the Money Back Guarantee work?
Examine your policy carefully in the privacy of your home. If for any reason you are not completely satisfied, return it within 30 days and we will promptly refund your money. Meanwhile, you will be protected while making your decision.

16. How do I join?

Women Protest Campaign of Terror by IRA

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic women called a demonstration in Belfast today to protest the refusal of the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army to halt their campaign of violence.

The women scheduled their demonstration in the Andersonstown section, an IRA stronghold, after the leader of the underground army's Provisional wing, Sean MacStiofain, rejected their call for a truce in the war against British forces in Northern Ireland.

It was in Andersonstown that Martha Crawford, a 39-year-old mother of 10 children and a Catholic, was killed in the crossfire during a battle between British troops and IRA gunmen last week.

The demonstrations gave new evidence of growing Catholic opinion in favor of giving the British government's new peace initiatives a chance. These include suspension of the Protestant provincial government, direct rule from London and gradual release of IRA suspects interned without trial.

Radio Interview

William Cardinal Conway, the Catholic primate of Ireland, in an Easter radio interview threw his church's influence against IRA terrorism for the first time in the 32 months of civil strike. He sharply criticized the guerrilla chiefs' decision to continue the bombing and shooting and asked them: "What right rave you to continue the campaign of violence against the unanimous voice of the Irish people?"

But MacStiofain told a rally in Londonderry that the guerrilla campaign would continue until British troops leave Northern Ireland.

"I hope to God that the nationally minded women of the North will stand behind their menfolk, behind the men behind the wire and the prison wall—and the men who are carrying on the fight," he said.

"Fight On"

Within hours, a bomb blast that injured six children and four adults at Magherafelt, near Londonderry, echoed MacStiofain's "fight on" pledge.

The explosion was outside a post office and the casualties were not hurt seriously.

The Londonderry rally was one of 21 marches or rallies held by Catholics on Easter Sunday in defiance of the government ban on such assemblies. All were peaceful, and security forces made no attempt to intervene.

The Protestants were expected in the streets today, with a big rally of the Orange Order scheduled at Carrickfergus.

The new British head of government for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, had hinted that if the Easter marches went off without violence, the ban on parades might be lifted.

A South Vietnamese soldier has weapons and personal belongings slung from his shoulders as he walks in a column of troops and civilians at Dong Ha, South Vietnam, fleeing a north Vietnamese offensive south of the DMZ.

Carriers Sent Back to Tonkin To Aid Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The United States recalled two aircraft carriers to the Tonkin Gulf today to reinforce a massive air strike force preparing to hit back at an enemy offensive in South Vietnam's northernmost province.

"When the weather clears we're going to sock it to them," said one senior pilot.

The carrier Kitty Hawk arrived in waters off Vietnam today and the Constellation was steaming in from Japan to join the Coral Sea and the Hancock. The four carriers and their some 275 warplanes, combined with 250 Air Force jets at bases in South Vietnam and Thailand, will form the biggest U.S. attack force since the 1968 bombing halt.

The U.S. Command strongly indicated massive air strikes are planned—against North Vietnam to retaliate for the enemy offensive across the demilitarized zone and against enemy troops and materiel already engaged south of the zone.

North Vietnam

U.S. pilots said targets inside North Vietnam would include long-range artillery guns bombarding South Vietnamese positions across the DMZ and a reserve infantry division poised just north of the zone.

Other key targets will include tanks, self-propelled artillery pieces and other heavy equipment that North Vietnam is using more than ever before in the Indochina war.

Forecasters said they did not expect fully clear skies until Tuesday or Wednesday. But the U.S. Command set the stage for the massive retaliatory attack with a statement that the North Vietnamese attack across the demiliarized zone threatened U.S. forces still in Vietnam, and the command was utilizing its "remaining air and gunfire assets as appropriate to protect our diminishing forces."

The panel found Berrigan guilty Sunday afternoon of smuggling a letter out of prison, for which he could get up to 10 years in jail. The decision was announced after 33 hours of deliberation over four days.

Herman rejected a defense motion of prejudice because of the split verdict at the same time he ordered the jury to continue deliberating.

The North Vietnamese ground attack slowed down today, but the Communists pushed more heavy weapons across the demilitarized zone and U.S. fighter-bombers and destroyers pounded a column of 50 North Vietnamese tanks below the DMZ.

Below DMZ

The invading North Vietnamese pushed 10 miles below the DMZ over the weekend, driving the South Vietnamese from two more bases and shooting down three U.S. helicopters and a small spotter plane. Eight American helicopter crewmen were missing and believed dead.

Other Communist forces attacked Fire Base Anne, eight miles west of Quang Tri City; overran an artillery base on the Cambodian border, Fire Base Pace; and kept up artillery attacks in the central highlands. But the North Vietnamese withdrew from Pace, and the South Vietnamese reoccupied it today, the Saigon command said.

Official field reports said 50 enemy tanks accompanied by infantrymen were sighted at a road junction a mile and a half north of Dong Ha. U.S. Navy destroyers offshore and warplanes began attacking them, but results were not immediately known.

The same reports said that self-propelled guns were observed crossing the southern border of the DMZ.

The North Vietnamese also were reported moving antiaircraft missile launchers to the frontier to attack American and South Vietnamese planes below the DMZ.

Cloud Cover

A break in the heavy cloud cover allowed U.S. jets to make 128 strikes against enemy gun and troop positions below the buffer zone, the heaviest raids in South Vietnam since Feb. 18.

American jets also streaked into North Vietnam to blast antiaircraft missile sites five miles above the demilitarized zone, but it was not known what they hit.

Better weather was predicted Tuesday or Wednesday, and heavier American strikes into North Vietnam were expected after the clouds lifted.

The biggest Communist push since the 1968 Tet offensive is now in its fifth day. The South Vietnamese have retreated 10 miles back from the DMZ and abandoned a dozen bases. At least 5,000 South Vietnamese reinforcements were ordered to the northern front.

Scores of North Vietnamese tanks were reported to have crossed the frontier, but their advance was blocked by a blown-out bridge at Dong Ha, 10 miles below the DMZ. South Vietnamese pilots reported destroying 10 tanks Sunday and another today.

Front Line

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from the northern front that the Dong Ha River in effect had become the new front line.

He said the bulk of the North Vietnamese troops were on the north side of the river with tanks and heavy artillery, while the south side was held by more than 1,000 South Vietnamese marines with 120 tanks. A South Vietnamese tank column that retreated Sunday reversed itself and moved north again.

Jensen said there had been no serious attempts by the North Vietnamese to cross the river so far. A few small units tried it Sunday night and took casualties.

While the line appeared to stabilize at Dong Ha, at least for the moment, other North Vietnamese troops moved east from the Laotian border toward Quang Tri City and maneuvered to the south of the provincial capital. They appeared to threaten Route 1, the main north-south highway leading to Hue and Phu Bai, 38 miles away.

Evolution of Foreign Policy To be Probed

Fulbright Feels War Could Have Been Avoided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee plans a three-day hearing in May on the evolution of U.S. foreign policy in Asia at the beginning of the Cold War.

Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the hearing will seek answers to questions raised by a six-month staff study of the Pentagon Papers, the once-secret Defense Department history of U.S.-Vietnam relations.

A second study report made public Sunday says there is no evidence that the late Ho Chi Minh ever received a reply to friendly letters he sent President Truman and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in 1945 and 1946 when he was seeking assistance for his campaign for Vietnamese independence.

The Truman administration operated on the assumption that to recognize Ho and his government in Vietnam might irritate the French, the report said.

Communist Agent

In early 1947, the report continued, Ho was viewed as a Communist agent of Russia and "an extension of Soviet foreign policy in Southeast Asia."

"But it was an assumption that lacked conclusive evidence, and the (State) Department continued to be interested in finding proof to buttress its belief for over two years," the report said.

"We thus fashioned a foreign policy in Southeast Asia based on an assumption never proven, an assumption that has had a great deal to do with leading this country into a disaster in Vietnam that will continue to plague us for many years to come," Fulbright said in a statement.

The committee chairman said the staff study of the early Cold War years fortifies his belief that "the present conflict in Southeast Asia might have been avoided had the United States not disregarded Ho Chi Minh's friendly overtures to the United States during and immediately after World War II."

Ho later became president of North Vietnam.

Berrigan Jury Again Asks for Instructions

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Harrisburg Seven conspiracy jury asked again today that the judge reread his instructions on the law and give them more testimony of the government's key witness against antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and six other peace activists.

U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman said he would not read his two-hour charge nor provide transcripts of the testimony of paid FBI informer Boyd F. Douglas Jr. But Herman said he would "be happy to read any specific portions" of either his charge or the transcripts.

The jury on Sunday found Berrigan guilty of smuggling a letter out of a federal prison. It reported being deadlocked on nine other counts but was ordered by the judge to resume deliberations today because of what he said was the importance and cost of the 11-week trial. He said he would dismiss the jury only if it became "hopelessly deadlocked."

The defense objected strenuously to what they called "prejudice" in the manner in which the jury's latest request came.

Return to Court

Herman acknowledged that when the jury was brought back into the federal building this morning he had directed the U.S. marshals to inform the nine women and three men that he would bring them into the courtroom after assembling opposing lawyers and the seven defendants.

Defense attorney Leonard Boudin objected that Herman used a marshal as his emissary in a verbal communication and insisted that in the future any instructions from the judge "be given in our presence."

Among the counts unresolved is the key conspiracy charge that includes the plot to kidnap White House aide Henry A. Kissinger, blow up the steam heating system in Washington, D.C., and vandalize draft board offices in nine states.

The jury last week, at the start of the deliberations which now are in the fifth day, requested and received four days of Douglas' 14-day testimony. They have not been given the other 20 volumes which cover approximately 6,000 pages of testimony.

Discrimination Matter Considered

Right of Fathers Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled, 5 to 2, that states may not automatically take away the children of unwed fathers.

Dealing with an appeal of a Chicago man, the court said a natural parent—male or female—should have a chance to prove his fitness.

"It may be, as the state insists, that most unmarried fathers are neglectful parents," said Justice Byron R. White, "... But all unmarried fathers are not in this category. Some are wholly suited to have custody of their children."

The father, Peter Stanley, lost his three children to the state of Illinois upon the death of the woman with whom he had been living, on and off, for 18 years.

Stanley appealed, claiming he had never been shown to be an unfit parent.

Justice White said the Illinois law violates the 14th Amendment because it discriminates against unwed fathers.

In Illinois, unwed mothers and married fathers—whether divorced, widowed or separated—are presumed fit to raise their children.

Denied Hearing

"We conclude that as a matter of due process of law, Stanley was entitled to a hearing on his fitness as a parent before his children were taken from him and that by denying him a hearing ... the state denied Stanley the equal protection of the law," White said in the majority opinion.

Most states are believed to impose similar barriers to unwed fathers—requiring them to prove their fitness if they want to retain their children.

In Illinois, these fathers, including Stanley, could try to adopt the children. But White said they are treated "not as a parent but as a stranger" during such proceedings.

Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall joined with White to form the majority.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun dissented while the two other Nixon administration appointees, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, did not participate because they joined the court three months after the Stanley case was argued.

This was the fifth dissent by Burger in eight major cases over the last two weeks and the fourth dissent by Blackmun.

In all eight cases, the five non-Nixon appointees voted together with the sole exception of a dissent by White in one case two weeks ago.

Burger said the court was ruling for Stanley on a "due process" issue never raised in the Illinois courts.

S. Vietnamese Troops Doing 'Pretty Well' in U.S. View

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. defense officials say the South Vietnamese army is doing "pretty well" against the new North Vietnamese offensive, but that the main test is yet to come.

Military and civilian officials skirted any flat judgments on the basis of action so far, saying "the situation is fluid ... it's too early to call."

However, they disputed any suggestion that the South Vietnamese withdrawal from a string of fire-support bases and outposts below the demilitarized zone amounts to a serious setback. The officials said the outposts were not intended as a main line of resistance.

"There has been no rout," said one senior military officer who has been closely monitoring the situation.

Another top official acknowledged that withdrawal from one base had been "a little ragged," but said South Vietnamese troops pulled out of most forward positions in good order.

There was a cautious tone to the observations made on the basis of South Vietnamese performance in the first four days of the long-awaited enemy offensive.

The Nixon administration is aware that this offensive may show just how well the South Vietnamese army can stand up in battle against the North Vietnamese after years of training, preparation, re-equipping and support by the United States.

There are no U.S. ground combat forces available to back up the South Vietnamese this time, and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has stressed that no U.S. ground troops will be reintroduced. Significant U.S. air power is available but bad weather has limited air operations.

American officials here estimated the North Vietnamese force in the new offensive at between 20,000 and 30,000 men, a somewhat lower figure than reported from the field.

These officials anticipate the real crunch will come if and when the North Vietnamese run into the crack South Vietnamese 1st Division, now to the south of the main battle scene.

"If they start rolling over the 1st Division, then we've got a problem," a defense official said.

Some authorities said they were surprised at the intensity of the North Vietnamese push below the DMZ, even though intelligence reports for months had signaled a probable enemy drive.

They indicated they had expected any big offensive would strike first and hardest into the central highlands, where the South Vietnamese army units are not regarded as the best.

Sources said they still are expecting the North Vietnamese to launch a major move into the highlands.

Lindbergh Team Rescued

MANILA (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh and Philippine scientists stranded in the jungle with a colony of 20th century cave dwellers were evacuated Sunday by a U.S. Air Force helicopter.

Lindbergh, the American who made history 45 years ago with the first nonstop solo flight across the Atlantic, was smiling broadly after the unexpected end to the 11-day expedition.

"We were in no danger but we were stranded and running low on food. The Air Force did an excellent job," Lindbergh said after the 47 members of the expedition were flown to their base camp in the southern Philippines. Lindbergh returned to Clark Air Force Base to express his appreciation for the rescue.

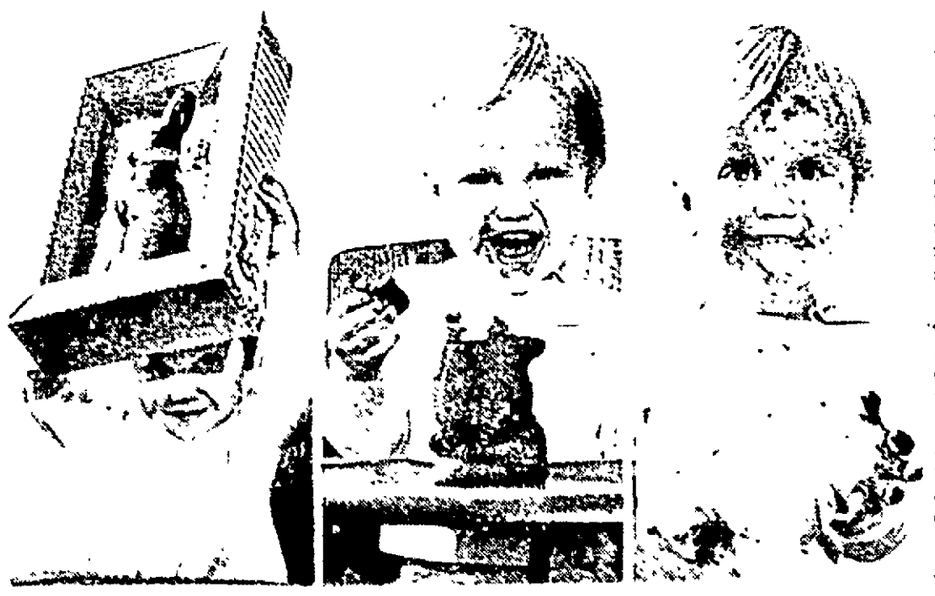

The Air Force was called in after the expedition's helicopter broke down, stranding the scientists in the mountainous, damp Tasaday Forest about 600 miles south of Manila.

On March 23, the scientists found the Tasaday people, only 24 in number, at their cave 4,000 feet up in the mountains.

The expedition gathered data on the primitive cave dwellers and mapped their living and working area to protect it from future exploiters of the surrounding forest. Preparing to break camp Saturday, the scientists found their helicopter was out of commission. Food was running low and it would take eight to ten days to hike down to the base camp, some 50 miles away.

Manuel Elizalde Jr., the 36-year-old leader of the expedition, radioed for assistance, and it came Sunday, in the form of a big helicopter accompanied by a C-130 tanker for refueling in the air.

Landbergh and Elizalde made a farewell visit to the cavemen, who regarded Elizalde as a god and had pleaded for him to stay with them. The Philippine scientist urged them to continue their own way of life in the forest and assured them he would return soon.

Waupaca to Honor Nels P. Rassmussen

WAUPACA — All city offices will be closed from 10:30 a.m. until noon Tuesday to honor the late Nels P. Rasmussen, who served the city for 23 years as street and water superintendent.

Nels Rasmussen, 71, of 301 Oak St., died at his home late Friday.

Mayor Edward Kramer announced late Saturday that all city officials, including aldermen and employes of the water, street and sanitation departments, will attend the funeral services for the esteemed Rasmussen in a body.

It was for Nels Rasmussen that the city named the diminutive part at the north end of Main Street in 1968.

After he retired in 1967 the city honored him with a special dinner and a gift — a trip back to his birthplace at Nestved, Denmark. He had not been to his homeland since he came to America as a child.

Rasmussen became a city employe in 1931, worked up to street superintendent, and in 1943 he took over a newly created position, street and water superintendent. He held that post until 1966.

After his retirement he continued to plan the flower gardens for South Park and Rasmussen Park. He tended the rose garden in Nels Rasmussen Park when his health permitted, and already this past week he talked about ordering new roses for the spring planting.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the United Methodist Church. The Rev. George Warren will officiate and interment will be in the Lakeside Cemetery. The Holly Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements and friends may call at the chapel after 4 p.m. today.

Survivors are his widow; a daughter Mrs. Jerome Telfer, Waupaca; a son LaVern, Thiensville, eight grandchildren, five brothers and six sisters.

Petitions Back Hiring Teacher

Additional Instructor Sought for School In Forest Junction

BRILLION — A petition to indicate support of the proposal to hire an additional teacher for the Forest Junction school is being circulated here.

School Supt. Gaylord Unbehaun, and the Forest Junction teachers recently recommended hiring an additional staff member, but the school board turned down the recommendation

Eighty-seven students are enrolled at the school now and the number is expected to increase to approximately 100 next year.

On the basis of census figures, the board believes that, although next year might show an increase in students, the overall picture indicates a declining enrollment in the future.

If an additional teacher is hired, special education classes which now are housed in the Forest Junction building would be moved back into the Brillion school.

Signatures indicationg parental support of relieving possible overcrowded classrooms at Forest Junction. It is believed that an additional teacher also would permit broadening the curriculum as well as providing more time for teachers to spend with students in need of individual assistance.

Clintonville to Hold Tennis Tournament

CLINTONVILLE — Tennis Coach Carl Bruggink has announced that the high school will be host for an invitational tennis tournament here on May 6.

Seven other schools have been invited to participate including Shawano, Marshfield, Berlin, Chilton, Marinette Central, Marinette Catholic and Medford.

Bruggink said that it is felt the invitational tournament is the highlight of the season.

Since there is no tennis title awarded by the Bay Conference, Clintonville competes as an independent and Stevens Point has been added to its schedule this year.

Jim Hanusa, Mark Bessette and Pete Mauel, all major lettermen last spring, will guide a tennis squad of 19. Tom Nordwig, Jim Boehlke, Mark Finger and Dennis Krueger all received minor letters and are back this year. The team lost Captain Jim Rosnow, John Jartz and Chuck Grant by graduation last year.

Hanusa played number one and two man most of the season and will probably hold down that spot again, Bruggink said. Mauel and Bessette will alternate at the two and three-man position.

The tennis team is practicing indoors until the outdoor courts are ready for play.

The players include Hanusa, Mauel, Bessette, Nordwig, Boehlke, Finger, Krueger, Brian Duwe, Mike Allard, Bruce Zueske, Greg Moldenhauer, Paul Riehl, Dave Carter, Cal Waite, Randy Schoenike, Mark Caskey, Dave Finger and Scott Klotzbuecher.

Shutdown Threatened

Consolidated Awaits Word on DNR Deadline

Consolidated Papers, Inc., has notified its Appleton sulfite mill employes that it will wait "a few more weeks" for word from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources that will determine whether the mill is shut down at the end of this year or kept operating.

The DNR has set a Dec. 31 deadline for the mill to meet Fox River pollution abatement orders. Consolidated officials announced earlier this year they are unable to meet the deadline and asked the DNR to extend it. If the extension is denied, the mill will close on Dec. 31 the company has declared.

In an announcement posted today at the Appleton mill and released to news media, George W. Mead II, board chairman of the Wisconsin Rapids-based firm, said company officials have not yet received a decision from the DNR, "but expect it later this month."

"The DNR has suggested we wait a few more weeks for their decision. We will (wait), out of consideration for the 200 employes at this mill," Mead said.

If the extension is denied, Mead said an orderly phase-out of mill operations will be much more difficult because there will be only about 8 months' time. The company had asked to be given 9 months, explaining that is the amount needed due to schedules for ordering raw materials and other factors.

April 1 was the date by which the firm had asked to have the DNR decision on extending the deadline.

A DNR spokesman in Madison told The Post-Crescent on Friday that the Consolidated request and similar pleas for extensions from other Fox River waste dischargers had been discussed by the environmental quality committee of the state Board of Natural Resources, policy-making body of the agency.

But he said the committee plans to meet at least once more to discuss the requests, probably sometime this month. The full board, he added, has a meeting scheduled for April 19.

Consolidated has argued that it would cost more than $2 million to install pollution control facilities at the mill, and that it is probable that even then the plant would be unable to meet DNR water quality regulations.

The time extension was asked to "lessen the hardship on employes and the community, permit the possibility of a technological breakthrough" and allow time for economic conditions in the sulfite pulping industry to improve, today's company statement recalled. While neither new technology nor improved economics can be assured, if the mill were closed neither could develop, company officials argue.

There is a double-header scheduled for the day with the Boston Red Sox.

Those who want to make plans to attend may contact any of the members of the Knights of Columbus as everyone is welcome to attend, according to Clem Grey.

BRILLION — Pete's Barber Shop currently sporting a 25½-13½ record edged out Ariens 1 to take over first place in the Men's National League this week. Ariens 1 is now tied for second place with Struebing's Scrap Yard with 25 and 14.

Pete's Barber Shop rolled high team game of 914 and also captured high series of 2,646.

Telephone Firm to Help Retarded

The telephone company recently introduced a new training program here which will make learning to dial a telephone a little easier for mentally retarded children in the Appleton area.

Called "Speaking Over Barriers," the program helps teachers instruct the educable and trainable mentally retarded child how to use the telephone in social situations and emergencies, with emphasis placed on reaching emergency numbers such as the operator, police, fire and doctor.

Local Wisconsin Telephone school relations representative Miss Arleen Hoey said the program is designed to work with curriculum already used for retarded children and can reinforce other objectives of the teachers.

One of the benefits of the emergency number training, for instance, can be that the student will better recognize a true emergency rather than an everyday mishap. The pupil must learn to identify numbers on the phone dial, also reinforcing other training.

Specially designed flash cards and a flip chart illustrate telephone parts, animals and coloring book characters which show what a telephone is and how it works.

Learning the sounds of the telephone is part of the program. The students learn to distinguish dial tone, busy signal and ringing. A device known as the Teletrainer, a set of two telephones connected to a control unit, enables the students to learn these sounds.

The Teletrainer control unit simulates telephone sounds, while microphones built inside the telephone sets make it possible for the entire class to hear the conversation.

"Speaking Over Barriers" also teaches the students how to operate a public telephone and recognize the types of coins required, further developing their independence and self confidence.

Intended for mentally handicapped children in the primary grade age group, "Speaking Over Barriers" was developed by the Pacific Telephone Co. Wisconsin Telephone's school relations division helped with the final testing and evaluation of the program.

Wisconsin is the first other Bell System company to put the special program to use. It will be made available to all school systems in Wisconsin. The rest of the Bell System will be offering the program later this year.

Miss Hoey said the 90 sets of materials the company now has are already in heavy use.

New Kindergarten Pupils to be Tested

A four-phase testing program — "kindergarten round-up" — will be conducted soon for children who will be enrolled in the Appleton Public schools for the fall term.

The schools, in cooperation with the Appleton Junior Woman's Club, will be in charge of the testing, a first for the system.

Each child's speech, hearing, vision and motor development will be tested.

The process is as follows:

Registration for children who will be entering Appleton schools this fall will be April 10 through 14 in the school they plan to attend.

Birth Certificates

Parents will be able to register their children from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (except for the lunch hour). Immunization information and birth certificates are required.

The policy on entrance age for kindergarten states that children who will be 5 years old on or before Dec. 1, 1972, may be enrolled.

Parents will be given the roundup information at this time and appointments for the testing will be made for the following week.

Each child will visit with the speech therapist for about 20 minutes. This visit will help the therapist determine the child's understanding of individually spoken words, the child's fluency and intelligibility of speech and his general ability to communicate.

Detect Defects

The hearing test will be conducted by a pure tone audiometer in order to detect defects for which early treatment is necessary. Trained volunteers will be in charge.

Each child's vision will be screened by Junior Woman's Club members under guidelines of the Wisconsin Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Retests will be done at an open center April 29 and referrals for further testing will be made where a vision problem is detected.

The fourth phase covers perceptual-motor development, including gross motor skills and eye hand coordination tests.

Maturity

Another section of the roundup will sample the child's maturity, basic concepts and visual motor skills.

"This will help the schools provide more adequately for the needs of the children," explained the officials of the Junior Woman's Club. "Often in the past, children had some difficulty with their studies and learning ability, which could be overcome if one of the defects is corrected. But it can take a long time to find out what the problem is and then it might be an accidental discovery," it was pointed out.

There will be three prekindergarten classes during the summer and the 1972-73 school year for those children who could profit from the experience and programs in oral communication and language development will be available to children in need of this help.

Manawa Site of Certified Course On Gun Safety

WAUPACA — A certified hunter safety course will be offered in Waupaca County, starting April 19 at Manawa, according to John Hoffman, Waupaca County Extension 4-H and youth agent.

Any person 12 years of age and older, who wishes to receive a certificate of competency issued by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources to qualify for hunting this fall, is encouraged to participate in the course.

It consists of eight, 50-minute classes, which will be taught by Jim Lick, Waupaca, and Gary Krieser, Marion, both experienced gun safety instructors.

The first sign-up class will be held at 8:00 p.m. at the Manawa City Hall. Future meeting dates will be Wednesday evenings until June 7.

Half of Appleton's Businessmen Expect Scene to be Stable

Half of Appleton's businessmen expect no change in employment during the second quarter of 1972 while over a third predict an increase, according to an independent employment outlook survey conducted by Manpower, Inc., international temporary help organization.

Marilyn Heiss, manager of the local office of Manpower, reported that the survey indicated that 52 per cent foresee no change while 37 per cent expect an increase and 11 per cent predict a decrease.

For U.S. Labor Department Region 6 which includes Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin, 20 per cent of those surveyed predict increased employment during April, May and June. Stable employment is forecast by 70 per cent while 6 per cent expect a decrease. The remainder said they are uncertain.

Nationwide, the predictions were as follows: Increased employment, 22 per cent, no change, 65 per cent; decreases, 6 per cent, and "don't know," 9 per cent.

Building Construction

Analysis of the 25 industries polled throughout the United States shows that of those predicting increases for the second quarter, the highest percentages are in building construction, 37 per cent, apparel manufacturing, 31 per cent, banking, 31 per cent, and transportation equipment manufacturing, 31 per cent.

In a breakdown of U.S. Labor Department regions, the survey shows Region 3 (Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas) to be the most optimistic with 31 per cent of those polled predicting employment increases.

The greatest percentage predicting decreases for the second quarter are in Region 7 (Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota, Nebraska and South Dakota), where 9 per cent cited cutbacks.

Most stable are Region 1 (Connecticut, New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island) and Region 6 (Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin) where 70 per cent said they expect no change in their employment needs.

The quarterly survey is the 58th conducted by Manpower through its network of offices in the United States. Manpower has more than 400 offices in 11 countries.

Dear Citizen of Appleton,

Election day is tomorrow. It is the day when we in Appleton express our views concerning city government - and the day when we make the decisions concerning city government.

As a candidate for mayor, I want you to know of my interest in obtaining your support when you cast your ballot. I have worked hard to convey my positions, and I hope you share my belief that they are responsive to our needs in Appleton.

It is not my intention here to interject last minute "issues" or to try to draw attention away from real issues by making attacks or by suggesting that voting decisions should be based upon "who is supporting whom". I will say that I have tried to campaign in a manner that would remove even the impression that I would be under political obligation to individuals or special interest groups.

I do want to express my appreciaton for the manner in which citizens have received my campaign. I am particularly thankful for their acceptance of our substitute for the Postal Service -- the door-knob bag. Utilization of this method of presenting my views saved a considerable amount in postage costs and at the same time allowed me to communicate my views directly to Appleton residents. I especially appreciate the efforts of those many volunteers who so willingly gave of their time and energy to see that my views were conveyed.

Thank you!

Sincerely,

James P. Sutherland

Authorized and paid for by Sutherland for Mayor Committee, Charles P. Berrum, John W. Wilcox, co-chairmen, Andrew J. Roach, Jr., vice-chairman, Mrs. Eric Gabrielsen, secretary, John L. Rolling, treasurer.

Presidential Primary Levels Off

There are only a few more hours left before Tuesday's presidential primary, but things are beginning to make a little more sense for those who intend to choose from among the 12 names on the Democratic ballot.

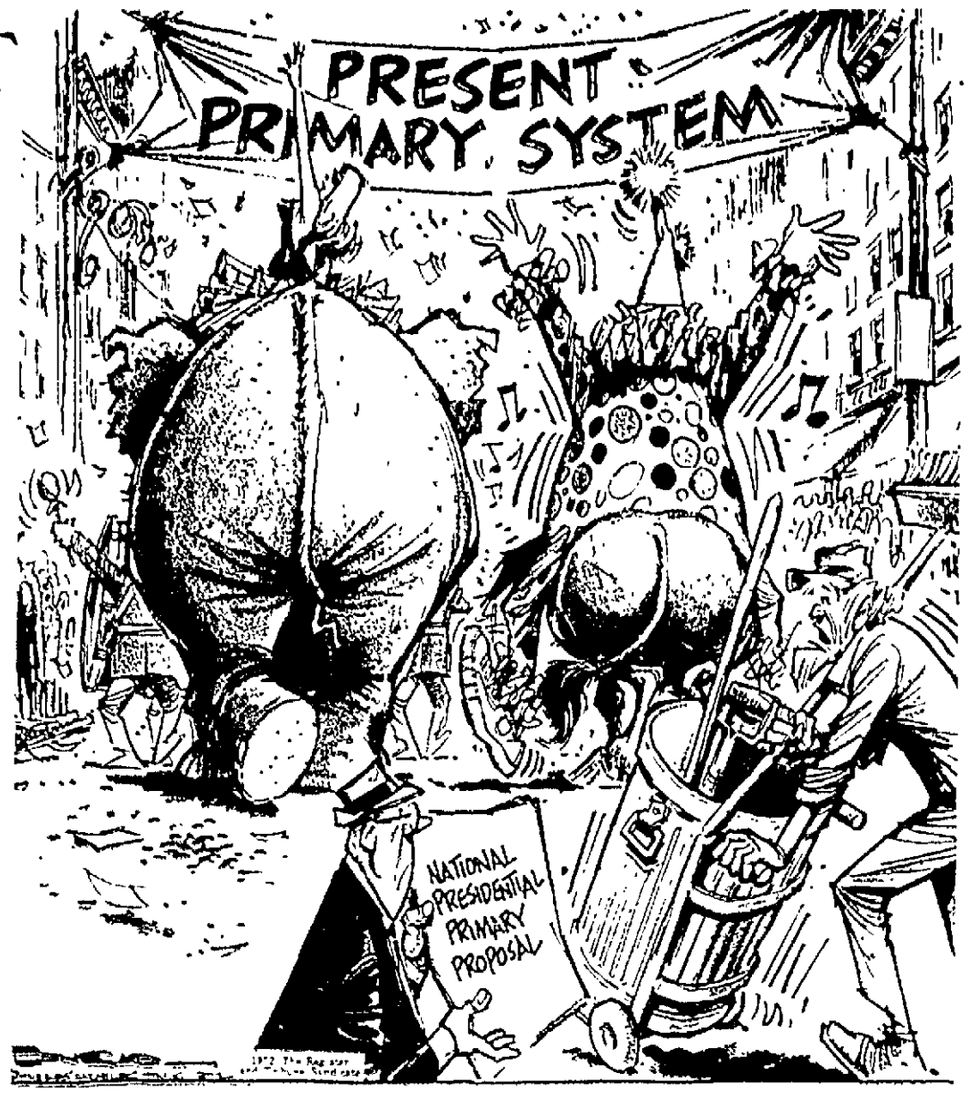

First, there's Indiana Sen. Vance Hartke. His name is on the ballot, but he says he isn't running any more. Those who like him, says Hartke, should vote for Sen. Hubert Humphrey. How much good that endorsement will do remains to be seen. Hartke campaigned like the dickens in New Hampshire and got 2,400 votes. In the Florida primary, Hartke got 3,500 votes, but then Florida has more people.

Then, there's former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, the big winner in Wisconsin in 1968. McCarthy says it would be nice if people voted for him next Tuesday but that it might be better if they voted for Rep. Shirley Chisholm or New York Mayor John Lindsay.

One explanation is that McCarthy is peeved at Sen. George McGovern because the latter's people worked against McCarthy in the Illinois primary between McCarthy and Sen. Edmund Muskie. It seems pretty clear that McGovern has taken over leadership of the forces which were McCarthy's in 1968, but then McCarthy has a poetic license to take a different view of that.

As for voting for Mrs. Chisholm, McCarthy says she should be a part of the liberal forces at the national convention. As for his second choice of Lindsay, McCarthy says Gov. George Wallace has made such inroads into the Democratic party that it ought to be looking elsewhere. This might mean that Lindsay until a few months ago was a registered Republican, but the plot gets a bit fuzzy at this point.

Now if Wallace would admit he really is interested only in giving exposure to guitar players and in selling wrist watches and that he has no chance to get the Democratic nomination, the voters of Wisconsin who will choose the Democratic ballot Tuesday would have an easier assignment in sorting out their choices from among the serious candidates who remain.

"What -- And give up show biz?"

Minorities Also Oppose Forced Busing

In all the current discussion and sometimes the misinterpretation and misrepresentation of arguments on busing of youngsters to achieve racial balance it has not always been noted that some members of minorities also oppose such busing. But their reasons are not that they are opposed to integration.

A convention of members of several black organizations at Gary, Ind., went on record as opposing such busing. So did presidential candidate Shirley Chisholm before the Florida primary although she spoke on long-time terms and not for the immediate present. Chinese parents in San Francisco strenuously opposed taking their children by bus to white dominated schools. There have been opionions more lightly expressed in Indian regions, including Shawano county, that Indian youngsters could find better educational opportunities among their own people.

But this opposition has stressed on almost every occasion that minority groups do not oppose integration; they oppose white controlled schools. In New York City, parents worked with some success not to bus their children into other parts of the huge city but to take the operation of their schools away from a primarily white city-wide Board of Education. In San Francisco's Chinatown, much of the supervising of school operation and administration was done by those who lived in the area — Chinese parents. Indians around the nation have been protesting the white run Indian schools as well as white dominated local schools which ignore Indian traditions and culture.

One of the advantages listed for the United States is the diversity of its citizens. "The melting pot" has been highly regarded as producing a population with different backgrounds, religions, customs and races but merging them all into Americans. To a considerable extent this is true but only when the individuals are white. Blacks, Indians, Puerto Ricans, Orientals have been largely labeled as somehow outside this process of dilution and amalgamation.

Cut off from thorough acceptance, largely because they looked different from Germans, Poles, Irish and Swedes, members of these groups now are doubting that integration is the real answer at least in the schools. Whites are nationally in the majority. They have continued to control and manage most boards of education. Token representation, either in the classroom or the principal's office no longer is enough.

The busing controversy is of course built far out of proportion to its real importance. George Wallace has done his share in this regard but many other Democratic candidates have frantically donned Janus masks to take both sides. The Nixon Administration has tried to avoid accepting the Supreme Court decision even though the man who wrote the busing ruling was one of President Nixon's conservative appointees.

Since white America has insisted to a considerable extent that minorities keep at arms' length, having simple integration produce equality is not going to be easy. But will the locally controlled schools, even if they are of a high academic caliber, erase discrimination or merely perpetuate it?

Social Security Cards for Children

Nope, it's 1984. The government wants every child to be issued a social security card so that he will have an official number literally from the cradle to the grave.

Everything will be so much easier, officials insist. Americans won't be bothered by a whole bunch of numbers but theoretically can use one at least for some purposes such as bank accounts. There won't be that serious chance of human failure; everything can go smoothly through a computer. And lots of Americans already have found out that there is no use arguing with a computer whether it's right or not. If the computer refuses to accept honest information that's all there is to it.

Fears that citizens will be subject to a totalitarian take-over once the numbers are issued (and their guns registered maybe under the same number?) may be groundless. Americans just don't have the patience to check social security cards at state lines, ticket booths and airports the way other nationals do. Of course, maybe a computer would take over the checking chore and that should settle the problems of mass transit, welfare and voting restrictions of new residents, building new interstate highways and the litterbug. Everyone would simply stay put as moving or traveling would be a year-long process.

Everything would be easier, the advocates claim. Criminals would be caught, kids wouldn't drink till they were 18 or smoke pot, parents wouldn't argue about choosing a name since the number would come automatically, no one would dare steal a car or a snonio.

And think what a boon to those who always remember faces but never the names!

Townships, Cities Must Work Together to Solve Problems

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

This last step to tax the churches because township people travel the roads is just about the lowest form of harmony in government I have ever heard of. Do you realize that you travel township and county roads whenever you leave the city whether its to visit the new high school, swim or fish at the Fresh Air Camp or visit the courthouse in Oshkosh. Any time you leave your fair city, you are driving on roads somebody else has paid for. Mainly you and I, who are we? You, like the rest of our government bodies, pay for any project with a combination of taxes; state and federal aid. Do you realize who state and federal aid is?

The school issue: We, the township people, are freeloading on Neenah schools. I beg your pardon. Do you realize you received Lakeview (tax free and paid for), Springroad, Tullar, Clayton and Gillingham schools into your fine school system when you accepted us? And if $573,206 (Town of Neenah tax share for 1971) is freeloading, then I apologize.

The library: The township has paid for services at your fine library for years. They sent a bill to the towns and it was paid. This year it is being brought up to date with towns paying even more, but to everyone's satisfaction because the library board had the foresight to sit down with the governing bodies and discuss the issue.

The sewers: Courtney & Plummer Distributor had the sense years ago to start a district. They bought and paid for all the sewer materials in their district. Also, they pay for the maintenance of their sewers. The Nee-Men Sewerage Commission has agreed to process their sewage for a fee. The last few years, it has been approximately $90 per home for one year's service. How many homes in the city pay $90 just for the use of the plumbing? This $90 also helps pay for your maintenance and expansion. As for the new plant, state and federal aid. Don't we, too, pay state and federal taxes in the towns?

The Mahler Park baseball diamond that the Senior League plays baseball on all summer: a township park traveled to on township roads. Yes we visit your parks also. Harmony!

The people in the township who travel to the city to work in your city shops and mills. A big tax base for the city. The stores downtown and shopping centers we spend our money in, city stores that help your government function.

The country clubs and fine eating establishments in the township that you travel to, to enjoy yourself. And lastly, the snowmobile trails that run through the townships. Trails opened to everyone, city and town, and maintained and run by town people, with the exception of city people who join clubs and help us. We are not complaining, we are very thankful we have trails and help to maintain them.

Do not come back at us with different ideas of what we have not done for the city, I know there are probably many, such as the Breezewood overpass. I for one favored it, but the people who gave the deciding vote felt we could not afford it, with rising taxes and sanitary district expense. Our Town Board considers the people and the expense and asks themselves, is it really necessary or if what is necessary for some will be too great a financial burden on many others. And how would the city have paid for this?

Yes we should be able to work together for the betterment of the Fox River Valley, not for one individual's ideas. If a city and surrounding townships can't work in harmony how do we expect a nation to function?

Asks Support of McCloskey In Republican Primary Race

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Nearly 200 years ago this nation was founded by a group of men who knew, first hand, the horrors of being governed by one man. When this king or other individual proved a tyrant, the people could do nothing. The founding fathers formed a government for United States consisting of a system of checks and balances; the president, the two houses of Congress, the Supreme Court, all interplayed so as to assure a continuing government, Of, For and By the People.

This government has been the finest democratic government in the world. But now we have a president running for re-election, as well as several members of the opposition party, all of whom feel that the government of checks and balances is old fashioned . . . and that is why President Nixon has instructed the Congress to bypass the Supreme Court. That is why several Democratic aspirants to the office have followed suit.

No sooner had President Nixon voiced his plan for having Congress by-pass the Supreme Court than Hubert Humphrey tried to climb on the wagon by saying: "Me too." For years he rode the coattails of former President Johnson during the escalation by saying: "Me too." True, barely 24 hours after his endorsement of dumping the Supreme Court, he had "second thoughts" about the matter and turned full circle.

George Wallace, another candidate for president, who is anti-Supreme Court, claims to have led Nixon, Humphrey, "Scoop" Jackson, etc. into the path of "right thinking."

For nearly 200 years the system of checks and balances worked as the founding fathers felt it should work. True, we have experienced a few traumatic periods when stresses and strains nearly foundred the ship of state — but to repeat. Nowhere else in the entire world history has any nation surpassed the record of these United States in true democratic government.

Therefore, if you wish to return to credibility in government, vote for Paul McCloskey in the April 4 primary. Paul McCloskey is a third-term representative from the state of California, a lawyer and a marine officer who declined to opt for reinlistment in the Korean War because he was turned-off by the crime and corruption in the armed services in southeast Asia.

Paul McCloskey is challenging the leader of his own political party who happens also to be president of the United States for the Republican nomination. He has undertaken this potentially suicidal battle because he believes that restoration of faith in our system of government is dependent on challenging the basic immorality of the Nixon administration: in its lack of even-handed application of the law; in its Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos policies; in its deception and concealment and news management; in its lack of leadership in civil rights; in the heavy-handed oppressiveness of its justice department under the attorney-general. Our form of government demands, as Paul McCloskey urgently reminds us, that individual citizens, private and public, must participate in order to keep it working honestly.

Paul McCloskey has been forced to drop from the race because the running is too expensive, but his name still appears on the primary ballot for April 4 in Wisconsin, as well as in other states. It behooves us to cast our vote for truth in government, and bring McCloskey back into the race.

Wisconsin Report

Candidates' Antics Remind Reporter of Campaign for Sheriff

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Marquis W. Childs, a veteran of the profession of political news amplification for four decades or more, included Wisconsin on his presidential primary itinerary the other day and dropped an intriguing comment during his visit to Madison.

Wyngaard

Reporter Childs has seen a generous slice of the history of the country in the making. He was writing politics when Herbert Hoover began his life in the White House. He was on the campaign trail four years later when Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York started the drive that cut Hoover's tenancy short.

Mr. Roosevelt, parenthetically, entered the Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary of that year and his was the only name on the ballot. Notwithstanding, his victory here over an uninstructed and independent group of convention delegate candidates was singularly unimpressive in the perspective of his subsequent triumphs in four presidential elections.

Like County Election

After a few days of observation of the Ffrenetic courtship of voters by the longest list of Democratic presidential aspirants ever filed here, Childs observed, in the perspective of his mellow years, that their performance reminded him of the campaigning of a group of candidates eager to become county sheriff.

To a journeyman in political reporting who has observed the goings-on here in the presidential lottery from its start, the characterization was brilliantly apt.

Perhaps anyone who has been involved in this especially confused contest this year, and others over the years when the Wisconsin trial heat was gradually winning recognition in national politics as having some meaning, has felt a vague disappointment that these eager suitors somehow tend to be quite ordinary when encountered frequently at close range.

Often they have warts, physical and otherwise, that tend to surprise even those who hold with the late John Kennedy that presidents also put on their pants one leg at a time.

Some of the letdown relates to the essential lack of dignity of much of the mechanical performance. It is somehow difficult to imagine that the man whose staff has so much trouble locating a live audience that he turns in desperation to high school assemblies may within the year sit in the Oval Room in the White House steering the destiny of the nation and perhaps other nations.

Contrived itineraries that relate wholly to free television and other media are as undignified as some of the gauche expedients of homegrown politicians, as in the legislature.

Calculated Releases

The careful calculation of publicity releases for the edification of mass pressure groups whether the causes are attainable or otherwise, brings to mind the eager and ostentatious posturing of the nominee for governor in late October when he fears his cause is slipping.

The formalities that pass for news conferences are no more informative, although more skillfully evasive, than those of the native politician on his home ground that the reporter has learned to tolerate with patience if not always with admiration.

The art of the campaign is no longer reasoned discourse but mass merchandising. Those more lugubrious critics who have likened it to the sale of deodorants have the satirist's feel for the kernel of truth. The exploitation of opinion polls, true and false, has often betrayed a desire to follow rather than to lead, the while it has occupied the role of the Trojan horse in the military science of an ancient age.

Perhaps the professional reporter yearns for the days when the candidate for major office would address a voluntary audience in the city park or auditorium where he could be heard and reported at length and when the omnipresent incantation of the electronic "spot" had not yet been heard in the land.

Feels Dangers of Radiation Overstated

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

How many of us are willing to cut back on our use of electricity this summer? Thus giving up air-conditioning for our homes, offices and businesses this summer, if our source of electrical power in the Fox Valley area isn't allowed to bring their second nuclear power plant into operation at Point Beach.

Yes, we should be concerned about radiation hazards, but if the information is correct given out by the head of the Atomic Energy Commission in a recent interview with U.S. News & World Report, we receive more radiation from outer space at higher altitudes, such as during a jet flight to Los Angeles than back on earth. Thus residents of Denver, Colorado, are subjected to more radiation because of higher elevation. Also how about the natural background radiation from the earth's crust, the gamma rays?

Has anyone given any thought to the possibility of over-exposure to X-ray radiation utilized in medical and dental fields, as a cause for concern in our ecology minded society?

Regarding thermal pollution, possibly it might be a benefit for shore residents of Lake Michigan. As a former resident of Sheboygan, I can vouch for the few number of days each summer in which Lake Michigan waters are suitable for comfortable swimming.

MacDowell Chorus Praised

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

On Sunday evening, March 26, at New London, the Appleton MacDowell Male Chorus gave a benefit performance for the building fund for our day care center program for the mentally handicapped. Since the retarded citizens who will benefit cannot speak for themselves, I would like to say a very inadequate "thank you" for them.

I am hoping that you will print this letter so that all the people in your community can know about these men and their outstanding talents as a choral group and their services to those who need help.

One of the songs on the program was "What the World Needs Now Is Love" I have never heard a better choral group and I have never seen a more beautiful way to demonstrate love for one's fellow man. There were at least 80 men singing in the chorus and I watched each of them as they sang. It seemed to me that it was a joyous, loving thing that each was doing as he shared his talent with us.

This is the second year that they have given a performance to benefit our program, but I was ill last year and could not attend. It was one of the most inspiring performances I have ever experienced. What more can one give than himself to demonstrate his love for other human beings?

And how can anyone adequately express appreciation for such a gift?

Grand Army Home Praised for Its Care

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

During recent visits to my beloved native state, I have been told that Governor Lucey wants to cut back on the Grand Army Home at King. In one statement, he bemoaned the fact that Wisconsin — only 16th in population among the states — ranked fourth in annual budget for its veterans' home, third in full-time staffing, second in expenditures per home resident, and first in number of nursing-care beds.

Those are not facts to bemoan. Those are facts of which Wisconsin can be proud.

America has not done well by its senior citizens. In doing well for some of its senior war veterans, Wisconsin has displayed the kind of leadership for which it is justly famous.

I first visited the Grand Army Home six years ago when my widower father-in-law moved there. As a reporter, I had inspected many homes for senior citizens, and only two had impressed me as other than depressing institutions where elderly inmates "wait to die." The veterans' home at King is a magnificent exception, far superior even to the two good ones I had seen previously.

The only fault I can see in the King operation is the fact that it represents special treatment for one class of citizens As a young World War II veteran 25 years ago, I was painfully proud of Wisconsin's decision not to give cash bonuses to us veterans. However, the Grand Army Home is a worthwhile "bonus" for veterans, and it is an operation that could show us how to treat all elderly citizens who need a good place to live with nursing care provided.

If a state must limit such pioneering programs to a special group, no group is more appropriate than the veterans.

On, Wisconsin!

Technology, Politics Get Blame for Nation's Plight

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Socially on this earth there are two distinct worlds. One is the world of tradition and antiquity which can increase its total volume of physical wealth only by having more human beings engaged in human toil with hand tools.

The other is the technological world, created by science, which is the antithesis of the world of toil. This world of science and technology can only increase its total volume of production of physical wealth by working fewer human beings less and less.

At this juncture of history when America's productive and service complex is automated and cybernated, demanding rapid and accurate decisions, it becomes mandatory to rely on the scientist, the engineer and the technologist to direct the technological and sociological functions of our society. We can no longer rely on the politician to direct our technological complex unless, of course, we choose to become extinct as a species, as did the dinosaur who just couldn't adjust to change.

The New Deal, The Fair Deal, The Great Crusade, The New Frontier, The Great Society, or any other political nostrums have not presented, nor are they capable of containing the deadly monster created by an unplanned, free-for-all, profit-at-any-cost price system method of social operation.

Facts and figures show a sharp decline in employment on farms, in factories, in offices, in mines, in the lumber industry, among dock workers, in transportation, in communications, in construction of buildings and houses, and in almost every kind of occupation because man is being replaced by technology as the productive mechanisms. This is an unidirectional and irreversible trend. It will continue and accelerate until the price system becomes inoperable, in spite of its apologists.

Yet every four years the whole country goes berserk spending about 11 months in a continual uproar, while hundreds of men and women make speeches and promises they haven't the slightest intention of keeping, (and couldn't if they tried) to people who know perfectly well it would be silly to believe them. Then everybody goes in a little booth and marks X's next to names of those procastinators and then go home to wait for a miracle. Meanwhile our beloved nation continues it's plunge toward chaos.

Turkish Demands Blackmail

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I see where Turkey has their premier over here for a substantially larger handout than the $35,000,000 we are now giving them, to stop growing poppies. He says they need eight or ten times that much. Blackmail.

With a few arrests in Europe, they are starting to bring it in through Panama, South America, etc. Just what are our brain-trusters in Washington going to do about that . . . subsidize some more government heads of foreign nations?

This is pure blackmail. The writer would like to recommend that if ten times the present $35,000,000 or $350,000,000 is needed to dry up the source, we could hire one heck of a police force to catch it as it reaches our shores. At least the $350,000,000 would be spent by Americans in America . . . help in a small measure, our economy.

A second recommendation would be to cut foreign aid to any country that does not police their own "dope" exports . . . and I do mean cut such aid to zero if necessary. That would give us untold millions for domestic use.

Politicians keep harping about the same old problems, and keep doing little or nothing about them. If I were a genie with magic powers, I would cast a spell on all politicians: every time they told a lie, or promised something they could not fulfill, they would simultaneously get the hiccups and their pants would fall off.

Investigation Sought on Drug Industry Influence on FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Ralph Nader research group wants Congress to investigate what the consumer-advocate panel calls drug-industry influence in the Food and Drug Administration.

Nader's Health Research Group asked for the probe Sunday in an 18-page report, which also seeks a survey of possible conflicts-of-interest in the federal agency and establishment of guidelines for hiring consultants.

The report said two ranking FDA officials were demoted or reassigned last month because of industry complaints.

The FDA had no immediate comment.

The report said Dr. John Nestor, a physician-scientist in the FDA's cardio-pulmonary-renal drugs division, was shifted without notice to the Office of Compliance.

The report said Nestor was instrumental in blocking use in the United States of thalidomide, a drug that caused birth defects in Europe, and in taking the drug Mer-29 off the market after it was reported to have caused varying degrees of blindness.

Refused Transfer

Following Nestor's transfer, the report said, his boss—Dr. John Winkler—took a demotion rather than be transferred to the FDA's surgical-dental division.

"Under the guise of reorganization," the report said, "these actions again raise the serious yet unresolved question of who the FDA protects, the public or the industries it allegedly regulates."

The report also said the FDA employs consultants who are doing research for pharmaceutical firms. They are faced with conflicts of interest, the group said, although they do not deal directly with government regulation of drugs they are researching for private industry.

The report said the consultants "have full opportunity to comment upon the worth of drugs which are essentially competitive products to ones in which they have a financial stake."

A former FDA researcher was indicted recently on the first federal conflict-of-interest charge involving the government agency.

Solzhenitsyn Tells of Soviet 'Suffocation'

Novelist Reveals Government's Harassment, Slander

NEW YORK (AP) — Russian novelist Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, in his first on-the-record interview with a Western newsman in nearly a decade, has described for The New York Times what he called an official campaign "to suffocate me."

"A kind of forbidden, contaminated zone has been created around my family," Solzhenitsyn explained during the four-hour interview that took place in his Moscow apartment last Thursday, the Times reported.

"You Westerners cannot imagine my situation," he told Times correspondent Hedrick Smith. "I live in my own country, I write a novel about Russia. But it is as hard for me to gather material as it would be if I were writing about Polynesia."

Solzhenitsyn, who won the 1970 Nobel Prize for literature, told of being barred from access to government archives he needed for background in a series of World War I historical novels, of elderly survivors of the war who "shut up" for fear of the consequences of talking to him, of being prevented from hiring research assistants, of friends shadowed "like state criminals," and of mail checks and apartment bugging, the Times said.

He also described what he termed an official whisper campaign mounted from closed Communist party lectures to try to discredit him.

"The lectures are attended only by insiders," he said, "There are thousands of these lectures. There is nobody to complain to. This slander takes hold of peoples' minds," he said.

Nixon Shows Signs of Yen To Campaign

President to Go To Kentucky for Vietnam Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Democrats cavort in Wisconsin, President Nixon isn't exactly standing above the battle in this campaign week.

After spending an Eastern weekend in his Camp David lodge in nearby Maryland, Nixon returned to the White House by helicopter Sunday night—almost a certain sign that he recognizes this as an election year.

Although Nixon has promised to wear his nonpolitical presidential hat until Republicans nominate him for a second term in August, no recent president disinterested in politics has chosen to be around the White House on Easter Monday.

That's when the kids—local and tourist—join in a jollification labeled the annual White House Easter Egg Roll and, in the process, manage to tear up the lawn.

Some of the youngsters actually roll colored eggs down the gentle, grassy slope beneath the balcony Harry Truman built. But most eggs manage to get squashed, or badly bent out of shape while being thrown at other celebrators.

Far Away

Somehow, presidents of late have been far removed from Washington on most Easter holiday weekends. It has frequently been whispered that they deliberately delayed their return in order to avoid the backyard shambles.

Nixon decided this year to do things differently. He and his family flew a scant 65 miles away for Easter, attending Sunday services at Gettysburg, Pa.

By returning Sunday evening, he left himself open to distraction by the many hundreds of children who gather annually a scant stone's throw away from his Oval Office.

While a plenitude of Democrats—including his most evident potential rivals—await Tuesday's Wisconsin primary, the campaign-season fire horse in the White House just possibly may be getting a bit restive. After all, Nixon has been through more campaigns for congressional or higher offices than any likely opponent—even durable Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey.

In any event, this primary week will find Nixon visiting the hinterland, specifically, Ft. Campbell, Ky., presumably to say something about Vietnam. And his schedule for the rest of the week still has some openings.

Military Ruining Forests: Aspin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military maneuvers being held in national forests are ruining portions of them and environmental impact statements should be required before such actions are undertaken, Rep. Les Aspin contended Sunday.

"Sensible environmental policy must replace the rampant destruction of the national forests by the military," the Wisconsin democrat claimed in a letter to the chairman of the United States Council on Environmental Quality, Russell Train.

"Rather than expose millions of acres of forest land to wanton destruction by the military, some controls must be imposed."

Aspin noted the national environmental organization Wilderness Watch, which is based in Green Bay, Wis., had found that more than four million acres of national forests were opened to military maneuvers and training under agreements signed 20 years ago.

Millions of board feet of potential lumber are lost every year, the freshman congressman contended in maneuvers by heavy tanks of the Mississippi National Guard at De Soto National Forest. He also contended the Mississippi group had not repaired nearly $500,000 in damage caused to roads and trails by the tanks, although it had agreed to do so.

"As an exercise in defense, the tanks leave the national forest roads when an aircraft approaches and run directly into the pine forests for one-quarter to one-half mile," he said.

There are so many old shells in 26,000 acres of national forest land in Mississippi and 6,000 acres in Louisiana, Aspin said, that the U.S. Forest Service does not attempt to fight forest fires then "because of the danger to human beings."

The Wisconsin Democrat also said some forests were being used for training in which guerrillas routinely built and then burned mock Vietnamese villages.

Surprise Checks in Vietnam

GIs Tested 4 Times for Heroin Addiction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before he comes home, each GI in Vietnam will be tested at least four times for heroin addiction.

Teams of military drug specialists helicopter into combat and noncombat areas every day to seek out addicts for rehabilitation programs.

White House and military drug-abuse specialists say about 10,000 enlisted men and officers—even generals—undergo surprise spot checks by urinalysis daily. Of those, about 500 are hooked or are at least casual users.

Drug-abuse specialists say there has been a dramatic decline in the number of GI addicts detected when their one-year tour ends.

But officials say that doesn't necessarily mean there are fewer soldiers on hard drugs.

Locating Users

Army Brig. Gen. John Singlaub, deputy assistant secretary of Defense for drug and alcohol abuse, said the emphasis is on locating drug users before they become hard-core addicts and treating instead of punishing them.

Several months ago, congressional critics cited studies showing 15 to 20 per cent of GIs in Vietnam were hooked on drugs.

Since then, the Pentagon has begun testing young men even as they tried to enlist or were drafted.

Singlaub said the testing continues periodically for American soldiers all over the world.

But it is in Vietnam, where heroin is easiest to find, that the Pentagon has placed its greatest emphasis.

In Vietnam, there are six drug detection-rehabilitation centers where addicts are counseled until psychiatrists believe they are ready to return to their units. Even then, they are watched in case they return to the habit.

Singlaub said the emphasis is on keeping away from punitive methods and preventing other soldiers from "bugging him for being a junkie."

1.1 Per Cent Daily

Of the just under 100,000 American troops remaining in Vietnam, 1.1 per cent are tested daily, he said in an interview.

The surprise checks of company-size units usually show that 5 per cent of those tested are heroin addicts.

Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, director of the White House office on drug abuse, said even generals are tested

From a high of 4 per cent addicts plucked from among departing GIs last August, the figure has dropped to 1.1 per cent in mid-March, officials say.

Jaffe acknowledges that the toughness of the testing program and its spreading reputation among GIs has the effect of only netting addicts who cannot keep away from the needle for five days to pass the departure test.

Skin Preserved for Burn Victims

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors have developed a way to store frozen skin for up to six months and use it to shorten the treatment of burn victims.

Spokesmen at the joint skin bank of Massachusetts General Hospital and the Shriners Burns Institute say the development has eliminated many problems associated with conventional, two-week skin storage.

Dr. John F. Burke, a hospital surgeon who is chief of staff at the Burns Institute, says keeping skin refrigerated for two weeks has many drawbacks.

"You may have a lot of donated cadaver skin from dead persons in a period of three or four days when you don't need much," Burke said. "Three weeks later you may develop a great need and find the conventionally stored material outdated and no donor in sight."

Dr. Conrado C. Bondoc, a staff member at both institutions, developed the long-term freezing method.

Bondoc soaks the skin in a 15 per cent glycerol solution. The glycerol, which does not freeze, diffuses into the skin and replaces water. The treated skin is placed into a plastic envelope which resists a wide range of temperatures and seals itself off from outside gases and liquids.

These skin packs are cooled to 256 degrees below zero, the temperature of the liquid nitrogen used for the freezing.

Bondoc says the rate of thawing the skin is more critical than freezing it.

"You can get away with fast freezing, but you can't get away with slow thawing," Bondoc said. "The skin must be thawed in less than one minute."

Using Bondoc's method of freezing and packaging, the skin thaws in seconds when the packet is immersed in 98.6 degree water.

Doctors started using skin frozen this way in 1970 and found that it produced as good a graft as conventionally stored skin. In the following year, surgeons grafted more than 500 square feet of frozen skin onto 193 patients, mostly burn victims.

Burke said that Burns Institute patients with burns over 25 to 40 per cent of the body surface in the past had to be hospitalized for an average of 71 days. He said that by using frozen skin and infection-control measures this stay has been cut almost in half.

"A catastrophic amount of pain and psychic injury is saved," Burke noted. "There is also a huge dollar difference between 40 and 71 days."

Family Kills Child To Satisfy Dead Man

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A 3½-year-old boy was hacked to death with a sickle by his father, an uncle and two aunts to satisfy the coul of their dead father, police sid today.

They reported the child's father, Prakash Chand, and one of the other relatives had held the boy while another relative slaughtered him Sunday. Officers said that when they arrived, the remains were being offered to a Hindu goddess at the family home near Jullunder, 200 miles north of New Delhi.

Ancient practitioners of the Hindu faith used human sacrifice to ward off bad luck brought on by unsatisfied spirits of the dead, but the practice has been unused for centuries. A few Hindus still practice animal sacrifice, but most now make offerings of flowers and fruit at the graves of relatives.

Chand, his brother and two sisters were charged with murder.

Officers said Chand had decided to kills his three sons to give peace to his father, who has been dead for 15 years. He was convinced, police said, the boys would be brought back to life by the goddess.

Another relative, to whom one of the boys had run for help, called in the police.

Officials said 70 bodies had been found, and relief workers were digging for more.

He is extremely conscious of our primary responsibility to effectively educate the youth of the Appleton area, and yet realizes that our resources are limited and must therefore be carefully used. He could be thought of as a perfect representative of the viewpoints of concerned parents, worried taxpayers, and the sometimes almost forgotten students. He brings great sincerity and an open mind to board deliberations. Through his voting record and excellent attendance record at board and committee meetings, he has shown a deep interest in preserving what has proven to be effective in the past. However, he is open to suggestions for change in areas where change seems to be important.

MABEL McCLANAHAN

. . . a woman with genuine leadership abilities - contributes her ideas freely and with logic — has a primary concern for the dollar implications of any decisions — pays attention to details — has made many creative suggestions of her own and supported others in order to make the administrative structure more efficient — has worked diligently to enhance the relationships between the teaching staff and the administration — has always considered the implications for the community as a whole in any decisions she has made — has encouraged more equal consideration for young women in all areas of programming — has had almost perfect attendance at all board and committee meetings — carefully examines all proposals to change our educational methods with a view toward being certain that they are not being suggested simply for experimentation purposes, but that they will hopefully develop more effective procedures.

Don't Eat, Nixon Tells Americans

BY ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — There was more good news on the cost of living from the Nixon Administration last week. It went up again. But Herbert Stein, one of the President's chief economists, said the only reason it had risen was because food prices had increased. If you eliminated food prices from the cost of living, he said, you would in fact have seen a decrease in the prices.

Not many people realized how well the President's anti-inflation policies were working until they were explained to them by Mr. Stein.

Since food prices seem to be the main problem, I can now reveal what the Administration is going to do about it.

Do not be surprised if you flip on your TV set in a few weeks and see the President of the United States sitting at his desk behind his seal.

"My fellow Americans,

"I have asked to speak to you tonight on a subject that is vital to everyone in this country. When I took office three and a half years ago, this country was on the road to inflation; an inflation that touched every household, every man, woman and child in this great land of ours. I vowed at the time to do something about it and I am happy to report to you tonight that my efforts have succeeded. I can now tell you that the price of baseball cards is down 8 per cent, the cost of trolley-car tracks has been reduced .9 per cent, men's straw hats are selling at one third the price of 10 years ago.

have been reduced $1, and men's Nehru jackets are selling at a 50 per cent discount.

"The reason for the success of my anti-inflation program is the willingness of the American people to make sacrifices to stem the tide.

"The only area we don't seem to have made any headway in our fight against rising prices is in food. Now I know you are going to say, 'If the price of food goes up how can we ever hope to hold down inflation?'

"My fellow Americans, the answer to that question rests with each and every one of you out there. Ladies and gentlemen, we can lick the problem of the high cost of food if we make one more slight sacrifice. I am asking every person in the nation regardless of race, regardless of age, regardless of party affiliation, to stop eating.

"When I say stop eating, I don't mean just meat or vegetables or fruit or bread. I mean stop eating anything.

"If everyone gives up three meals a day as long as Phase 2 is in effect, I assure you that our battle against higher prices will be won before the November election.

"Some of you may say, 'How can we give up eating when it has become such an important part of our lives?' At first it won't be easy. If I may add a personal note, Pat said to me just before the broadcast, 'Isn't there any other way of lowering the cost of living besides giving up food?'

"And I replied, 'Pat, of course there are other ways. We could freeze farm prices, or put a ceiling on grocery distributors, or issue regulations barring rises in commodities. That would be the easy way, the politicalway, the economical way.

"But, as President of the United States, I must choose the hard way. Certainly there will be some temporary inconveniences when people have to give up eating. But they are nothing comparable to the gains that will show up on our economic indicators.'

"My fellow Americans, when you go to bed hungry tonight, remember you are not going to bed hungry because there is no food to eat, but you are going to bed hungry because you believe, as I do, in a healthy, stable economy.

"I don't think I'm exaggerating when I say that if every American gives up eating until the inflation crisis is over, this could go down as the week that changed the history of the world."

Questions Drivers Ask

Drivers Told When To Turn on Roadways

This feature is one of a weekly series bringing together questions about Wisconsin transportation — and especially how you can drive more safely, for yourself and others -- as asked by motorists, together with authoritative answers as given by informed members of the agencies involved. It is presented as a public service to our readers.

Q: If a driver misses a turnoff on a regular two lane highway, can he legally back his car a block or so to proceed in the desired direction?

A: Section 346.33 prohibits the operator of a vehicle from backing or turning for the purpose of proceeding in the opposite direction in the following places:

—At any intersection where traffic is being controlled by traffic control signals or by a traffic officer.

—In mid-block (any part of a street or highway other than an intersection) on any street in a business district.

—In mid-block on any through highway in a residence district ("through highway" means any highway declared by state or local officials to be a through highway in accordance with the law, and at the entrances where vehicular traffic from intersecting highways is required to stop by signals or stop signs).

—and, at any place where signs prohibiting turning or backing have been erected.

This maneuver is also prohibited on Intrstate highways. Other situations where this movement is especially madvisable is on a multi-lane divided highway, in a no-passing zone or in situations where visibility is limited.

Therefore, it is possible to back your vehicle under the condition you mention, providing you do not negotiate this movement in any of the above mentioned situations. Other considerations must be accounted for, however. Section 346.37 prohibits backing a vehicle unless the movement can be made with reasonable safety.

Generally, this is not a recommended practice even though it is not against the law in certain situations. If possible, it would be preferable to continue in your original direction until you approach a driveway or other similar access road, use it to turn around, and then proceed in the desired direction. This is safer because you can signal other motorists of your intentions and more easily avoid the possibility of an accident.

Q: While driving at night, I've noticed that some drivers obviously neglect to clean their headlights. The loss of headlight power caused by dirt, especially during the winter season, seems to me to be just as dangerous as a dirty windshield. Can drivers be ticketed for failure to clean their headlights?

A: The law requires headlamps of sufficient intensity to reveal persons and vehicles at a distance of at least 100 feet ahead of low beam and at least 350 feet on high beam. These distances are determined under "normal atmospheric conditions and upon a straight, level, unlighted highway" during hours of darkness.

Consequently, during adverse weather conditions, intensity of headlamps normally diminishes due to snow, rain or dirt on the headlamp glass. Motorists are required to compensate for this condition and incorporate careful judgement into their driving during severe weather conditions. Lack of good judgement or safe driving habits, including neglect for weather factors, could be a factor in determining whether or not a ticket is issued for a traffic violation.

Operators of motor vehicles are required to maintain equipment in good condition, and this includes due care in maintaining headlamps to meet intensity specifications of the law. After inclement weather, or during a thaw when dirt easily accumulates on the headlamp glass, motorists should clean their headlamps with a rag to insure safe night driving. Most service stations include a quick cleaning of the headlamps along with the windows during periods of bad weather.

Your Money's Worth

Too Much Withholding Should be Avoided

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you are among the millions of taxpayers whose income taxes on your 1972 paychecks are being overwithheld, do you realize what you are doing to yourself?

— You are voluntarily making an interest-free loan of up to one full year to the U.S. Treasury of part of each of your hard-earned paychecks -- and you'll not get back a penny of this interest-free loan until the start of '73 at the earliest.

-- You are inviting the U S Treasury to borrow this money from you at zero interest while it simultaneously pays up to 6 per cent for money it borrows from other investors. (Today, Apr 3, the Treasury is putting the finishing touches on a new issue of three-year notes paying 5⅞ per cent a year.)

-- You are carelessly forfeiting the interest or dividends you could easily earn for yourself on this part of your paycheck — merely by depositing the money in a savings account or buying a stock paying a regular, safe dividend.

- At the very least, you are casually cutting your own rightful take-home pay and letting the Treasury use money you could be spending on yourself or others or investing, etc.

In bluntest words, because of your ignorance or laziness, you are unnecessarily hurting yourself.

You are almost surely being

overwithheld if you have not filed a new withholding Form W-4 (Employee's Withholding Exemption Certificate) in the past couple of months, warns Leon Gold, chief tax expert of the Research Institute of America.

This particularly applies to you:

IF you are single earning up to $25,000 a year;

IF you are a married couple with only one working spouse earning up to $31,000 a year.

Here's the story in brief.

As of Jan 15, 1972, new withholding tables became effective designed to correct the underwithholding in past years on millions of husband-and-wife working couples and individuals holding two jobs. But while the new tables do correct underwithholding for these classes of taxpayers, at the same time they create systematic overwithholding for the millions without a working spouse and for the millions without a second job.

To prevent this overwithholding, these employes—you—must file a new Form W-4 which you are supposed to get from your employer to claim a new "special withholding allowance."

The Internal Revenue Service took for granted that all of your employers would immediately notify you that you should obtain and fill out a new Form W-4 and that all of you would immediately respond and take the necessary affirmative action to prevent automatic withholding on your 1972 pay.

But as Gold bet a top IRS official back in January, it hasn't turned out that way at all. (Have you been notified? Have you acted?) In fact, even at the IRS, the scuttlebutt is that less than 20 per cent of the employes have filed the essential forms!

It's estimated that from $4 billion to $10 billion is being overwithheld at a time when all the Washington emphasis is on stimulating consumer spending. It's feared that unless this situation is changed, these billions will be pouring out in taxpayer refunds next year — at a time when the emphasis well may be shifting to restraining consumer spending.

If you are in a higher income bracket and if in past years you voluntarily cut down your exemptions to avoid underwithholding because of the old tables, you are probably being substantially overwithheld on your pay now.

File a new W-4 at once, says Gold, and "claim all your allowances now plus the new special allowance."

If you expect your 1972 itemized deductions to exceed by a big amount your '72 standard deduction (15 per cent of adjusted gross income with a $1,300 minimum and a $2,000 maximum), claim not only your regular allowances and new special allowance but also, suggests Gold, "any possible additional withholding allowance on line 6 of Form W-4 computed from the table on the reverse side of the form."

The IRS, it is reported, is planning to take 30-second TV spots soon to try to alert you on all this. It is truly embarrassed.

Don't wait. Heed this warning, for it's more than enough. In fact, if you are a married couple with only one breadwinner, it would be sound to go right ahead and file automatically for the new special allowance. It's YOUR take-home pay, not your employer's money or the U.S. Treasury's.

NOTICE OF REFERENDUM ELECTION

STATE OF WISCONSIN }
County of Outagamie } ss.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that at an election to be held in all the several towns, wards, villages and election districts of the State of Wisconsin, on the first Tuesday of April, A.D., 1972, being the Fourth day of said month, the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin, having been approved by two successive legislatures, will be submitted to a vote of the people pursuant to law:

1971 Senate Joint Resolution No. 4

Deposited April 22, 1971
Published April 27, 1971
Republished March 7, 1972

Enrolled No. 13
A JOINT RESOLUTION

To amend article IV, section 23 of the constitution, relating to uniformity in county government (2nd consideration).

WHEREAS, at the general session of the legislature in the year 1969 an amendment to the constitution was proposed by 1969 Senate Joint Resolution 58 and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows:

"(Article IV) Section 23. The legislature shall establish but one system of town and county government, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable, ~~except that the requirement of uniformity shall not apply to the administrative means of exercising powers of a local legislative character conferred by section 22 upon the boards of supervisors of the several counties;~~ but the legislature may provide for the election at large once in every 4 years of a chief executive officer in any county having a population of five hundred thousand or more with such powers of an administrative character as they may from time to time prescribe in accordance with this section and shall establish one or more systems of county government."

Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That the foregoing amendment to the constitution is agreed to by this legislature; and, be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1972 and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state, and, be it further

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:

"Shall section 23 of article IV of the constitution be amended to eliminate the requirement that there be but one system of county government as uniform as practicable, (with administrative exceptions) and to substitute a requirement that the legislature establish one or more systems of county government?"

NOTE: The words "in any county having a population of five hundred thousand or more" were still contained in the text of Section 23 of Article IV when the present amendment was offered for first consideration in the 1969 legislature. The words were removed from the text of the section by vote of the people in the election of April 1969.

EXPLANATION

Effect of Ratification. The constitution presently requires the legislature to establish but one system of county government, as nearly uniform as practicable, except that said uniformity requirement does not apply to the administrative means of exercising powers of a local legislative character conferred by the constitution on county boards. A "yes" vote on this amendment would remove these provisions and replace them with a requirement that the legislature establish one or more systems of county government. However, the constitution would continue to allow the legislature to make provision for a chief executive officer with veto power.

1971 Senate Joint Resolution 38

Deposited September 7, 1971
Published September 14, 1971

Enrolled No. 21

A JOINT RESOLUTION

To amend article IV, section 4 of the constitution, relating to the office of the coroner (2nd consideration).

WHEREAS, at the general session of the legislature in the year 1969, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows:

"Article VI) Section 4. Sheriffs, coroners, register of deeds, district attorneys and all other county officers except judicial officers and chief executive officers, shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties once in every two years. The offices of coroner and surveyor in counties having a population of 500,000 or more are abolished ~~at the conclusion of the terms of office during which this amendment is adopted~~. Counties not having a population of 500,000 shall have the option of retaining the elective office of coroner or instituting a medical examiner system. Two or more counties may institute a joint medical examiner system. Sheriffs shall hold no other office; they may be required by law to renew their security from time to time, and in default of giving such new security their office shall be deemed vacant, but the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff. The governor may remove any officer in this section mentioned, giving to such a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity of being heard in his defense. All vacancies shall be filled by appointment, and the person appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold only for the unexpired portion of the term to which he shall be appointed and until his successor shall be elected and qualified." Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That the foregoing amendment to the constitution is agreed to by this legislature, and, be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1972 and if a majority of the voters voting therefrom approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state; and, be it further

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:

"Shall section 4 of article VI of the constitution be amended to give counties having less than 500,000 population the option of retaining the elective office of coroner or instituting a medical examiner system and to permit 2 or more counties to jointly institute a medical examiner system?"

EXPLANATION

Effect of Ratification. The constitution presently provides for the election of a coroner every two years in counties having a population of less than 500,000. A "yes" vote on this amendment would authorize each such county to either retain the elective office of coroner or replace it with a county medical examiner system or a joint medical examiner system in cooperation with one or more other counties.

1971 Assembly Joint Resolution 10

Deposited October 19, 1971
Published October 23, 1971

Enrolled No. 27

A JOINT RESOLUTION

To create article I, section 24 of the constitution, relating to the use of school buildings during nonschool hours by civic, religious or charitable organizations (2nd consideration).

WHEREAS, at the general session of the legislature in the year 1969 an amendment to the constitution was proposed by Assembly Joint Resolution 74 and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows:

"(Article I) Section 24. Nothing in this constitution shall prohibit the legislature from authorizing, by law, the use of public school buildings by civic, religious or charitable organizations during nonschool hours upon payment by the organization to the school district of reasonable compensation for such use." Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That the foregoing amendment to the constitution is agreed to by this legislature; and, be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1972 and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state, and, be it further

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:

"Shall section 24 of article I of the constitution be created permitting the legislature by law to authorize the use of public school buildings by civic, religious or charitable organizations during nonschool hours upon payment of reasonable compensation for the use?"

EXPLANATION

Effect of Ratification. Wisconsin statutes presently specify a number of instances where school boards are either required or allowed to grant the use of public school buildings for various groups for various purposes sometimes with and sometimes without charge. Neither these statutes nor the constitution authorize use by [illegible] vote on this amendment would permit the legislature to authorize the use of public school buildings by civic, religious, charitable and educational organizations during nonschool hours, if the organization pays reasonable compensation for such use.

Now, therefore, be it

Guthrie Theater Starts Auditions for Talent

Four States Involved in Actor Search; If 3-Day Session Works, More Later

BY JINGO

It's tell time again for Jingo, who has heard all sorts of interesting things about to go on or planned to go on later in the year.

Would-be actors might like to know that Guthrie Theater of Minneapolis-St. Paul is holding three days of auditions April 10, 11 and 12 for both Equity and non-Equity actors. The auditions will run from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on a first-come, first-served basis.

The actual auditioning will be conducted by David Feldshuh, new associate director at Guthrie. Applicants 22 years old or over will be considered and the auditions will run 10 minutes in length. Jingo has figured out that about 135 persons will be heard and seen.

Michael Langham, Guthrie's artistic director, points out that the Theater must become better acquainted with the quality and amount of talent available in the region. This method of auditioning will help that cause, but better, it will improve theater casting of the future.

New Idea

"This is in answer to the hundreds of letters we get each month asking for auditions. Basing our plans on the response of this first 'audition days,' we hope to schedule others on a regular basis in the future."

The auditions will cover the five-state area of Wisconsin, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota. There may not be roles available for many actors this coming season, but it's an excellent start on the part of Guthrie Theater, says Jingo.

Auditions may be arranged by calling the Theater (612) 377-2824 between 2 and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday of the present week.

Then there's the news that singer-actress Carol Channing will be a grandstand headliner at the Wisconsin State Fair. The "Hello Dolly" star will make her first Wisconsin State Fair appearance in two shows a night, Monday Aug. 14 and Tuesday Aug. 15. The fair opens Aug. 11 at State Fair Park in West Allis.

The 36-voice choir of North Carolina A & T State University will give a concert April 13 in the lecture-performance hall at UW-Green Bay. This is the first time in Green Bay for these singers, and the concert is the first of four scheduled on campuses in the University of Wisconsin system during April.

Appearing under the auspices of the Committee on Cooperation with Developing Universities, an exchange program with three black universities, the choir also will perform at Madison, Whitewater and Milwaukee.

The singers from the Greensboro, N.C., campus travel more than 3,000 miles annually on concert tours with their conductor, Howard T. Pearsall. This year's tour has taken the choir through the Northeast as far as the University of Maine in Portland. They also will sing in Cincinnati and Chicago before coming to Wisconsin next week.

Members of the choir are selected from throughout the University, and only about half of the singers are music majors. North Carolina A&T is a state-supported co-educational institution, one of 16 campuses of the University of North Carolina System. It grants bachelor's degrees in the arts and sciences in selected areas and has a student population of about 4,500.

During the choir's visit to Green Bay, overnight hospitality and meals will be provided by members of the UWGB faculty and staff.

Tickets for the concert may be ordered by telephone from the UWGB Office of Lectures and Concerts, or purchased at the campus Information Center. Newmans downtown in Green Bay and Gree Bay Travel World.

Mod Scot in TV Special On Racing

BY TV SCOUT

7-8 Channels 11-9 — The Monday Night Special has the season's final George Plimpton show (no network word as yet about renewal): "Plimpton! At the Wheel." Geroge, teamed with John Johnson, a man who has always finished in the Mexican 1000, drives the grueling 1000 miles through rugged Baja California from Ensenada to La Paz, on the tip of the peninsula. Some of the most interesting bits of this good show come when brushing up on the psyche of race drivers and spending time with Jackie Stewart, the Mod Scot, his pretty wife and their two sons. Interesting and revealing.

7-8 Channels 2-7 — Gunsmoke has a plot done many times before: a dying man wants to see the daughter he hasn't seen since she was a kid; but daughter has come to a bad end and dying man's friend, in order to make the old man happy, pays a young saloon hostess to pretend to be the daughter. (R)

7-8 Channel 5 — Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In repeats its season opener with Martha Mitchell and Raquel Welch as guests. Moosie Dreier made his first appearance, giving the children's news from a Burbank treehouse and Gladys (Ruth Buzzi) dreams she's married to Tarzan. (R)

8-8:30 Channels 2-7 — Mike Connors as Mannix is a guest on Here's Lucy. He and Lucille Ball have a strenuous and hilarious scene. They are tied, back to back, in chairs and they have to get from one side of the room to the other, where the telephone is located. (R)

8-10 Channel 5 — World Premiere: A Howling in the Woods is a good mystery with a maginficent setting. Filmed around Lake Tahoe, it takes place in a lodge during its off-season. Barbara Eden is the girl who comes home to divorce her husband (Larry Hagman). Her father is missing from the lodge but her stepmother (Vera Miles) says he is away on a business trip. Involved in the mystery is John Rubinstein, as the piano-playing young man she introduces as her son. (R)

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — Doris has an assignment at a "fat farm" on The Doris Day Show. The story involves a man about to get out of prison, a missing $2 million and his wife. Angie (Kay Ballard) is along because her husband has called her fatso and she wants to get to be a skinnyso. (R)

9-10 Channels 2-7 — Mike Connors is all over the dial. After his Here's Lucy appearance, he pops up on The Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour, as Mike Perfect in a spoof of awards. He, along with Jean Stapleton, are presenting the Bobo Awards. Mike also plays a Presidential candidate at home, with Jean as his tipsy wife. (R)
